REVOLT FORCES CONCESSIONS ON CROPS RULE ACT

Senate Votes Cotton, Tobacco Changes.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—The senate today adopted a series of amendments intended to relieve some of the injustices of the new farm dictatorship act after a dozen southern Democratic senators had told of widespread resentment among their constituents against the cotton and tobacco quotas.

The southern revolt of the cotton and tobacco farmers, as reported by their senators, is as extensive as the corn belt revolt in Illinois and neighboring states. The cotton and tobacco farmers voted for compulsory control without knowing what their quotas would be. Now that they have received their quotas, they are holding mass protest meetings, saying the control system was misrepresented and that they did not understand it.

Corn Farmers Lack Champions.

The only difference between the plight of the cotton and tobacco farmers of the south and that of the corn farmers of Illinois was that the corn farmers had no representation in the senate. No mention of their situation was made and the amendments to the farm dictatorship act which the senate adopted affect only cotton and tobacco.

Senator William H. Dieterich [D., Ill.] was absent, and Senator James Hamilton Lewis [D., Ill.] was in and out of the chamber, hearing only part of the debate. His only contribution was a question as to what Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.] would do to regain the foreign cotton markets lost as a result of the policy of scarcity.

An amendment by Senator Josh Lee [D., Okla.] and Senator Hattie Caraway [D., Ark.], which the senate adopted, provides that any cotton acreage allotment within a state not desired by the farmers receiving it may be apportioned among other farmers within that state. Senator Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.], who reported the amendment from the agriculture committee, said that thousands of farmers in Oklahoma and other so-called border-line states had already planted their land to wheat upon receiving their cotton acreage allotments.

Southerners Complain.

Senator Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.] said he had received "innumerable complaints from cotton farmers in North Carolina in reference to the control portion of the law." Without the amendment to "unfreeze" acreage allotments not wanted by farmers receiving them, Reynolds declared, "North Carolina would lose about 100,000 acres in production to which it would otherwise be entitled."

Before adopting the cotton amendment, the senate agreed to an amendment by Senator Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.], chairman of the agriculture committee, Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.] and Senator Harry Flood Byrd [D., Va.] to placate the growers of flue cured, dark fire cured and dark air cured tobacco.

As explained by Senator Smith and others, the tobacco growers voted for a control system on the basis of a total poundage quota of 705 million pounds and then received acreage allotments, under the soil conservation act, inadequate to produce their estimated individual poundage allotments based on the total of 705 million pounds. This has resulted in "confusion worse confounded," he declared.

Tobacco Limit Removed.

The amendment adopted by the senate permits the tobacco growers to produce as much as they want to, without regard to acreage, and subject only to the penalty of 50 per cent of the market price for exceeding their poundage quotas. It also increases the national poundage quota of fire cured and flue cured tobacco by 2 per cent.

"I think they thought that they would get their poundage and be allowed to plant whatever acres, in their judgment, would produce the poundage, in view of the fact that if they produced in excess of their poundage allotment there would be a 50 per cent penalty," Senator Smith said.

"Suppose they had known precisely how the allotment was going to operate," asked Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], "would they have voted against the application of the law?"

"I think they would have voted against it if they had thought the

MINTON STARTS MYSTERY QUIZ OF FARM MAGAZINE

Frank's Associate Gets Subpena.

M. V. Reynolds of Chicago, publisher of the magazine Rural Progress, was subpenaed yesterday to appear tomorrow before the senate lobby committee in Washington. This committee is headed by Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.]. It was Minton who introduced a bill in the senate providing for press censorship. He succeeded Hugo L. Black as the administration's inquisitor general.

Rural Progress is edited by Dr. Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Frank is chairman of the program committee of the Republican national committee. He has in recent months printed several articles with a strong anti-New Deal tinge.

No Indication of Purpose.

Whether this is the underlying reason for the summoning of Reynolds is not known. Dr. Frank said last night that the summons gave no indication what the publisher would be questioned about.

"We can see no reason for the subpena," said Dr. Frank. "Our magazine is nonpartisan. It prints fiction and technical articles and news of general interest to farmers. We seldom have material on controversial subjects."

He added, however, that most of the controversial articles opposed pet projects of the administration.

"I write one signed article a month," he said, "and I say what I believe in that. In December there was one entitled 'Scarcity Is Not a Savior.' It was an argument that the abundant life could not be promoted by artificially restricted production.

"Also in December there was an article on the wages and hours bill, written by Charles Holman, in which the Washington viewpoint was opposed.

Borah Attack on Court Packing.

"Other writings which were opposed to current administration policies printed in the past few months included an attack by Senator Borah on the court packing bill and a warning to farm youth that there is a great temptation to lean on governmental magic—and warning against such delusions."

Reynolds, Dr. Frank said, is the principal stockholder of the magazine, which is published monthly, and has invested a large sum in it. He is a young advertising man.

Dr. Frank, while at the university, was regarded as one of the country's outstanding liberals. He was ousted from the presidency last summer and soon afterward accepted the presidency of the corporation publishing Rural Progress and became its editor. He is now a critic of the administration and in his capacity as G. O. P. program chairman has frequently made speeches against the "Fascist program" of the government.

Doesn't Know Aim, Minton Says.

Senator Minton, who arrived in Washington yesterday, professed to know nothing about the subpena issued for Reynolds, asserting that he wouldn't be able to answer queries about it until he talks to his investigators today.

Only last week the senator offered a bill which would provide heavy fines and imprisonment up to two years for publishers who printed anything known to be untrue. It does not provide the method of determining whether untrue material is published knowingly.

Yawning Beds Beckon; 3 Stay Up for Science

BY MARCIA WINN.

For the sake of science—and a possible "A" in psychology—three weary young students rubbed their eyes in a La Grange basement last night and signed a peace pact.

The pact, in which each swore that momentary irritations would be forgotten when science had had her day, merely was incidental. It had not been included in the meticulous procedure worked out before the three, all sophomores at Lyons Township Junior college, began their 72 hour sleepless test.

Yet it was necessary, for after only 36 hours of the experiment, undertaken as a term project in a psychology course, the three, stanch friends since childhood, were wondering who would strike whom first. Or, as an afterthought, who would strike Joe Field, whom they in a happier moment had appointed to keep them awake.

Don't Dare Look at Bed.

The young men, each 19 years old, are Richard Overmier, Gordon Vavra, and Earl Hohl. They began the test in earnest, as a serious contribution to the field of psychology, and they still are in earnest, but they won't even go in a room where there is a bed. The temptation is too great—and science must be served until 7:30 tomorrow morning.

"If the lights were off we'd be asleep in a minute," spoke up Gordon, a dark eyed youth, who kept complaining of his "heavy" head.

"And if one yawns the other guys try to jump down his throat," added Earl.

"But we're going to get through the seventy-two hours," declared Richard, in whose basement they while away the nocturnal sleepless hours. "That's why we have Joe, to keep us awake.

"The minute we go to sleep we're out of the experiment and we'll have to own up to it. We can't doze a second. We're really trying to get results. We're trying to prove something.

Tests Chase the Sand Man.

"Down in Georgia four boys stayed up 100 hours to prove it could be done, but they didn't make any tests to see what happened. Well, we're checking up every twelve hours to see how it affects us. We have eight motor tests and six psychological tests. That's how we stay awake during the night. We take the tests."

During the day, the youths explained, they attend classes as usual, with a corps of diligent classmates to prod them into wakefulness. At night they sit in the basement playing cards and talking or go out for group strolls.

Richard's mother, Mrs. Emmons Overmier, admitted she at first opposed the experiment from a health standpoint, but later decided it might do as much good as harm in view of the youths' scientific attitude.

BROOKFIELD ZOO SOON TO HAVE STRANGE PAIR OF BEASTS, THE OKAPIS

Two strange animals soon will be roaming the Chicago Zoölogical park at Brookfield. They will have the head of a giraffe, the legs of a zebra, and the habits of a goat, but they are okapis.

Purchase of a pair of these rare animals, said by zoölogists to be a holdover from the dinosaur age, was announced yesterday by Herbert E. Bradley, chairman of the park's animal committee. Captured in the Ituri forest in equatorial Africa by members of a pygmy tribe, they will be the only pair in captivity.

Four years of negotiations with the Belgian colonial office in Brussels preceded the granting of export permits, Bradley said.

The okapi is slightly larger than an ox, while its head is that of a giraffe, with yellow-white cheeks and horns on the male, its neck is short, its body reddish chestnut, and its short legs striped, zebra fashion, in black and cream. And, goatlike, it defends itself by butting with its giraffe head.

ARMS EMBARGO AGAINST SPAIN MAY BE LIFTED

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—The administration has decided to throw its support behind the resolution of Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, for lifting the arms embargo against Spain, and the prospect is that the legislation will be passed before adjournment of the present session, it was said authoritatively tonight.

This will spell the virtual end of the venture in neutrality, which already has dwindled to a mere shadow through President Roosevelt's demands last year for collection action for peace and his refusal to apply the policy against Japan and China.

With the policy abandoned, the United States would revert to the earlier and historic one of standing on neutral rights under international law.

Lilacs' Magic Wafts Spring to City's Sick

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

It was just a moment of pause in the swift current of trafic in Michigan avenue shortly before noon yesterday, but a moment fraught with happiness for thousands. The divine wand of eternal spring and hope, nature's beauty and human love, touched there and passed on to the beds of the poor and sick, the shut-ins, in 82 Chicago hospitals and other institutions through the instrumentality of the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit Guild.

The guild, with the coöperation of THE TRIBUNE, carried out the first day's program in its tenth annual "share your lilacs" distribution, sending 12 truckloads of the fragrant flowers to most of the south side institutions and a few on the north side. The children's ward at the County hospital also was remembered. Tomorrow, the second Lilac day, other patients in the County hospital, Hines Memorial hospital, the Municipal Tuberculosis institution, and north side institutions will be visited.

A Fairyland of Blossoms.

It was a beautiful scene in front of Tribune Tower as the stone pavements were transformed for a few minutes into a fairyland of lilac blooms straight from the backyards and gardens of Chicago suburban clubs, which had appointed committees to aid the guild. It was here that the procession of trucks started on their errand of thoughtfulness. Passersby halted a moment as the fragrance struck them. They saw white, pink, blue, and purple lilacs; boxes of tulips of many colors; peonies, lilies of the valley, apple blossoms, pale green snowballs, wild blackberry blooms, and pink flowering almonds mixed together.

Eighty-five garden clubs had joined the guild in this work, sending flowers from a 40 mile radius over six railroad lines. In addition the American Air Lines brought in lilacs from Washington, D. C.; Detroit, and South Bend.

Seven Babies Reported Born to Cuban Wife

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Map on page 5.)

HAVANA, Cuba, May 4.—Government officials were rushing to the remote town of Cayamas tonight to confirm reports of the birth of septuplets to Mrs. Rafaela Casanovas Corrias.

It was reported the babies were six girls and one boy.

The officials, jubilant over the possibility that the Cayamas stork might have eclipsed the accomplishment of the one which brought the famous Dionne quints born near Callander, Ont., on May 28, 1934, were accompanied by three baby specialists.

All Reported Thriving.

The party hoped to bring the babies and their mother here from Cayamas, a small town near Bayamo, in the province of Oriente, near the eastern tip of Cuba.

Municipal Judge Juan Morales of the village of Cauto Embarcadero said he had seen the children. He said the father, Juan Corrias, had come to the village for aid. The father said the youngsters, born without medical care, all were thriving and that the mother was doing well. Officials in Havana, however, expressed fears that one or more of the babies may have died later.

José Fernandez, a government radio and telegraph executive, said he had confirmed the septuplets' birth in a message to Melanio Diaz, secretary of communications, and Postmaster General Gonzalez.

Father Is Woodsman.

Several cabinet members said they had confirmed the births.

The man who may become the world's No. 1 father if the reports are true is a woodsman and cane cutter. His wife plowed the fields by day and did the housework by night until a month before the children [illegible] yesterday. She is 25 years old. He is 36.

The family has an income equivalent to 40 cents a day with which to feed and clothe the seven babies, the parents, and Mrs. Corrias' mother and her father, who is 76 years old.

Mrs. Corrias is understood to have had difficulty assembling a layette for the one baby she was expecting. But all seven will have more clothes than they ever can use, the government officials promise, for no expense will be spared in caring for them.

LINER LA FAYETTE BURNS AT DOCK; CREW IS RESCUED

LE HAVRE, France, May 5.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—Thirty sailors escaped death today when fire, fed by exploding oil tanks, swept the French luxury liner, La Fayette, leaving her a smouldering hulk. Officials indicated the vessel would be virtually a total loss.

A skeleton crew, left aboard while the ship was in a drydock for overhauling, was trapped by flames, but escaped on lines cast from the dock.

Offers to Aid Italy in Mediterranean.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 4. — Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, in his conversations with Premier Mussolini in Rome today, demanded a free hand in Czechoslovakia in return for his permitting the accomplishment of Italy's plans in the Mediterranean. This report reached Paris tonight through diplomatic channels.

The conversations were reported to have begun with a long statement by Hitler in which he gave figures on British rearmament, implying that Mussolini would make a mistake if he lined up with England.

Furthermore, the Fuehrer was reported to have asked Mussolini's support in obtaining the return of colonies which Germany lost in the world war. Then he requested Mussolini to "keep his hands off" while he deals with Czechoslovakia.

Wants Piece of Czechoslovakia.

The Nazis are seeking to absorb 3,250,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia into Hitler's new German empire.

If Mussolini accepts the German dictator's demands, Hitler in return will support the Italian aims in the Mediterranean, notably regarding Tunisia and the French-Italian frontier in northern Africa, reports from Rome said.

Mussolini was said to have averred that Germany's help to [illegible] loyalist Spain is vital. Hitler was reported to have made a noncommittal answer to Il Duce's statement.

The main conference will take place Saturday, it was understood in Paris. At that time it will be up to Hitler to show why Mussolini should tie up with Germany in an ironclad alliance.

HITLER GOES TO NAPLES

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 4.—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler left Rome for Naples tonight after the German dictator and Premier Mussolini of Italy met in two conferences in which they began laying out the fate of Europe. The discussions lasted more than two hours.

At Naples Hitler will see an Italian naval display which, the Italians predict, will make the British naval review at Spithead during the coronation of King George VI. seem like a county fair.

The Fuehrer was escorted to the railway station by Il Duce, who will fly to Naples tomorrow. Hitler left on the royal train after another train preceded the dictator's special as a precautionary measure. A huge crowd milled about the station to wave farewell to the Nazi chieftain.

Duce Calls for Hitler.

Mussolini and Hitler were so anxious to get down to serious business that they ruffled up Rome's carefully arranged schedule for the state visit at 9:55 a. m.

Mussolini called at the Quirinal palace to see his fellow dictator. The two talked alone for thirty-five minutes. Then they participated in the morning's show. Hitler deposited wreaths at the tombs of King Victor Emmanuel II., King Humbert I. and his queen in the Pantheon, at the shrine of the Unknown Soldier, and at the monument erected to the Facsists who "fell for the revolution."

Shortly before noon Hitler called on Mussolini at the Palazzo Venezia [Venice palace]. There the doors of Mussolini's private office were closed on four persons—the two dictators and their two foreign ministers, Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany and Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy.

Hitler Lunches with King.

This talk lasted for an hour and twenty minutes, after which Hitler returned to Quirinal palace to lunch with King Victor Emmanuel III. Von Ribbentrop and Ciano also attended the luncheon, but for reasons of protocol Mussolini was not there.

Shortly after 4 p. m. Hitler and his staf were taken about five miles outside of Rome to the Centocelle airfield. There the Fuehrer reviewed 52,000 Fascist youths who engaged in sham warfare.

Like everything in this program, it was more than a big show; it was designed to impress Hitler with the discipline and power of Fascist Italy.

The demonstration succeeded. The Fuehrer, who, in spite of official deslarations," has held the customary German view that the Italians are negligent and undisciplined, was visibly impressed when the 52,000 young militiamen pulled out daggers and shouted a formidable: "Sieg heil!" [hail victory!].

Addresses German Colony.

At 6 p. m. Hitler went to the Massentio basilica, where he addressed 6,000 members of the German colony in Rome. Mussolini made an unexpected appearance and stood behind Hitler.

At 9 p. m. the two dictators had another chance to talk when Hitler was Mussolini's guest at a dinner in the Palazzo Venezia, along with German and Italian dignitaries.

Secrecy surrounded the topics of the Hitler-Mussolini conversations, and official comments supplied only a vague indication that the Italians consider their new arrangement with Great Britain as not incompatible with the Rome-Berlin axis.

Italy Drops a Warning.

This view was published by the government spokesman, Virginio Gaydo, in the Giornale d'Italia. It was regarded by diplomats as a warning that Italy will not drop her new friendship with England.

The best guess in Rome was that the dictators talked about the Spanish civil war, regarded as a relatively simple problem, reserving the knotty problems of Czechoslovakia, of the Danubian basin, and of spheres of influence in the Mediterranean for conversations during the next three days.

Such a decision as they reached—if any—will be indicated Saturday night when they toast each other at a state banquet and release to the world's press what they wish officially to be known as their course of action.

BEAT WIFE; FORCE HUSBAND TO OPEN SAFE; TAKE $635

Tricking two daughters into admitting them to the home of Edmund Lagodzinski at 2154 North Damen avenue, two youthful bandits last night beat Mrs. Lagodzinski with blackjacks to force her to open a bedroom safe. Finding she was unable to unlock it, they waited until Lagodzinski came home, then robbed him of $235 and compelled him to open the safe and give them $400 more and $2,500 in postal savings certificates.

Lagodzinski had just collected the $235 from members of the Standard Savings and Loan association, of which he is treasurer. The girls who admitted the bandits are Dorothy Lagodzinski, 17 years old, and Alice, her sister, 16.

Sweden Asks $17,990,000 More for National Defense

STOCKHOLM, May 4.—(AP)—The Swedish government is asking the riksdag [parliament] for supplementary credits of $17,990,000 to strengthen national defenses. Of the amount, $3,392,400 would be for the army, $5,011,500 for the navy, and $6,116,600 for the air force. For general purposes, particularly anti-aircraft defense, the allotment would be $3,469,500. The money is to be raised by increasing taxes.

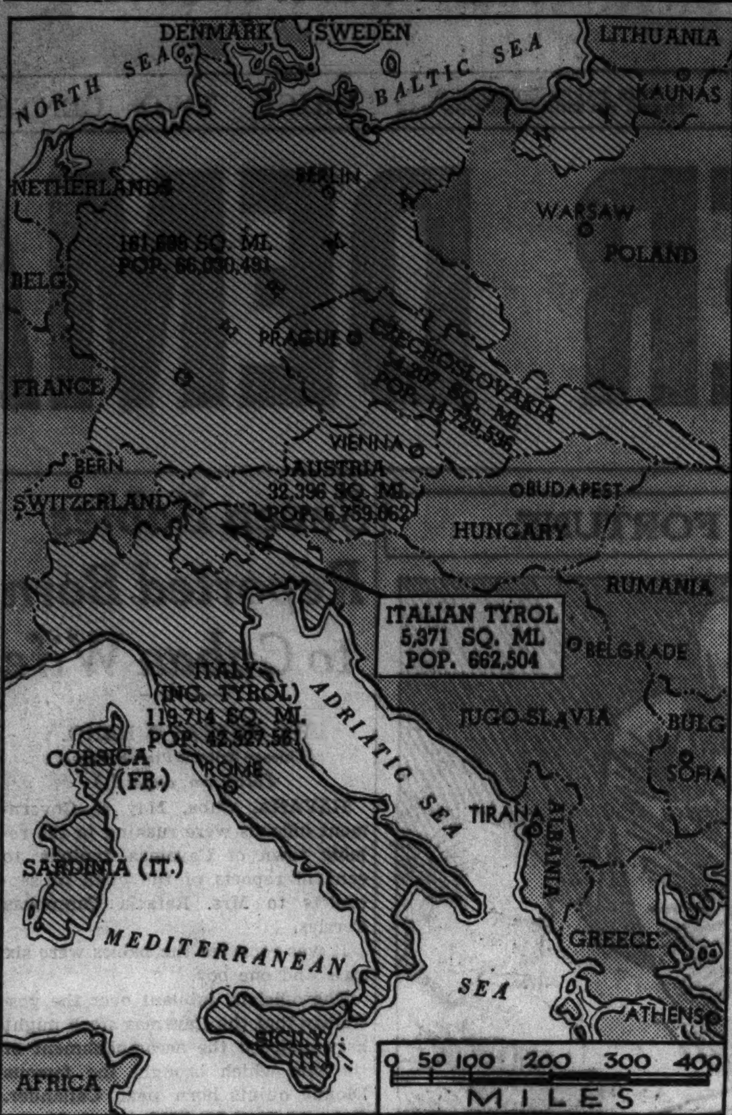
NAZI THREAT TO TWO NATIONS



Reichsfuehrer Hitler was reported yesterday to have demanded that Premier Mussolini give him a free hand to deal with Czechoslovakia as he sees fit. In return Hitler would permit Mussolini to accomplish his aims in the Mediterranean. While the German and Italian dictators were discussing means of strengthening the Rome-Berlin axis, dispatches indicated the Italians were worried over a possible Nazi threat to their own country. They were said to fear Germany, having annexed Austria, might swarm through the Brenner pass and seize the Italian Tyrol with its great German population. The Tyrol and Czechoslovakia thus became the focus of the Rome talks.

EX-KAISER SEES 3D WEDDING OF GERMAN PRINCE

DOORN, The Netherlands, May 4.—(AP)—Prince Louis Ferdinand of Germany and the Grand Duchess Kira of Russia began their honeymoon today with the blessing of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm II. of Germany.

Their bonds of marriage were completed with a Protestant ceremony at the Doorn residence of the exiled German emperor after two previous services—a civil ceremony and the ritual of the bride's orthodox Russian church—Monday at Potsdam, Germany.

The fallen emperor, white haired but looking much the same as when he ruled Germany, welcomed the Romanoff Grand Duchess Kira into his house—that of the Hohenzollerns—and gave a kindly word of advice to the bridegroom, his favorite grandson.

Be an Example, Kaiser Counsels.

"My dear Louis Ferdinand," said former kaiser, who is 79 years old, "you have a task to fulfill. You can fulfill it only with the help of God. Under his blessing and with strong belief in his Son, our Master, I hope you will build your house.

"Work with all your might to honor God, to the honor of our house, and to the honor of our German fatherland, and be an example to your people."

The final phase of the wedding services was attended by many members of the Hohenzollern and Romanoff families. Crown Princess Juliana of The Netherlands and her consort, Prince Bernhard, were there.

Soon after the wedding Prince Louis and his bride, alone in their car and with the princess driving, departed for Germany.

They will spend a short time there preparing for a trip around the world—a gift from the ex-kaiser. This trip will take them to the United States, which both have visited before.

They expect to arrive in New York May 26. In Detroit they plan to visit some of the prince's fellow workers in the automobile plant where he was employed a few years ago.

The presence of Princess Juliana and her husband at Doorn attracted large crowds, which lined the streets and cheered their own royal couple.

POPE DENOUNCES USE OF NAZI FLAG ON A HOLY DAY

Pontiff Deplores Hoisting of Swastika in Rome.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 4.—At least one Italian is not obeying official orders to let out cheers of welcome for Reichsfuehrer Hitler. That Italian is the head of the Roman Catholic church.

In his summer retreat at Castel Gandolfo, Pope Pius XI., in delivering one of his routine speeches to 500 newly married couples who had come to ask for his benediction, today expressed his opinion on Hitler's state visit.

Says Sad Things Are Happening.

"It is well for you to have our benediction because such sad things are happening—very sad—both near and far away," said the pope. "Among these sad things is this: That yesterday, which was the Feast of the Holy Cross, the insignia of another cross was hoisted in Rome. And that cross certainly is not the cross of Christ.

"We are telling you this so you may understand how necessary it is to pray, pray, pray that God's mercy be shown and descend to all in its greatness."

Call Words Jarring Note.

The pope's speech will get no publicity, Italian officials disclosed. They regarded it as a jarring note in Hitler's visit. Any question of Hitler making a visit to the pope—which was considered possible although not on the program—is believed to have been settled as a result of his words.

It is no secret that in spite of the pope's implied rebuke for the decoration of the city in Hitler's honor, only the Nazi dictator is the object of the pontiff's displeasure.

[Pope Pius went to Castel Gandolfo, 17 miles from Rome, on April 30, three days before Hitler's arrival in Rome. The lavish decorations with which Rome greeted the German dictator stopped short at the boundaries of Vatican City.]

CHINESE FORCES GAIN 12 MILES ON SHANTUNG FRONT

Report 34,000 Japanese Lost in Fighting.

SHANGHAI, May 5 [Thursday].—(AP)—Chinese today reported continued "rapid progress" in their counteroffensive on the center of the thirty mile southern Shantung front where the fate of 100,000 Japanese troops daily becomes more uncertain.

In addition to a two day twelve mile advance northeast of Taierchwang, the Chinese asserted they had repulsed a Japanese attack at Nikow, ten miles to the northwest.

They also said a flying column had moved around the Japanese left flank and cut communications between Tancheng and their base at Lini.

Japanese Planes Strike Back.

The Japanese struck back with a destructive air raid upon Suchow, Chinese base and junction of the east-west Lunghai rail line and the north-south Tientsin-Pukow railway. Chinese reported seventy persons were killed and wounded and 200 houses burned and destroyed in the raid.

Japanese said more than half the military warehouses were damaged or destroyed, the railway station bombed, and considerable trackage torn up in the attack.

Chinese sources estimated 34,000 Japanese soldiers had been killed or wounded in recent days around Tancheng and Pihsien, where the Japanese had made their most serious threat against the Lunghai railway.

Chinese Generals Killed.

Chinese admitted a number of their ranking officers—including three brigadier generals, seven regimental commanders and several battalion commanders—had been killed in the drive northeast of Taierchwang. Nevertheless, the field commanders of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek declared the tide of war was turning definitly in their favor.

Foreign sources received a report that 2,000 communists of the Chinese Eighth army had arrived in northwest Shantung to coördinate and intensify guerrilla activities behind the Japanese lines and threaten the bases of their whole Shantung campaign. These troops arrived from Shansi province after crossing Japanese communication lines.

A Japanese naval spokesman in Shanghai said planes bombed concentrations of Chinese troops at three points south of Wuhu, up the Yangtze river from Nanking, in an effort to break up a threat against that town.

Hold Britisher for Espionage.

TOKIO, May 5 [Thursday].—(AP)—The British embassy said today F. L. O'Hara, 38 years old, manager of the British Royal Insurance company, was arrested Wednesday at Yokohama on a charge of espionage. The embassy said police declared they found photographs and maps in O'Hara's home, the photographs allegedly showing fortified zones and the maps tracing strategic highways. O'Hara was held incomunicado on a specific charge of violation of the military and naval secrets' protection law.

FRANCO CABINET RESTORES JESUIT SOCIETY IN SPAIN

Sets Aside Dissolution Edict of Republic.

BURGOS, Spain, May 4.—(AP)—The Spanish rebel cabinet today ordered the reëstablishment of the Society of Jesus in the Spanish territory it governs. Generalissimo Francisco Franco's ministers approved a decree setting aside a government edict which, on Jan. 23, 1932, dissolved the Spanish Jesuits and confiscated their property.

The decree dissolving the Jesuit order, which was founded in Spain almost 400 years ago, was promulgated during the presidency of Niceto Alcala Zamora. St. Ignatius Loyola, founder of the society in 1539, was a Spaniard.

Property estimated by Jesuits at about $30,000,000 was confiscated, mostly schools, residences and convents, publications and charitable and social institutions. The then new republic's more radical political elements long had been at odds with the Jesuits, whom they accused of influencing the decision of many of Spain's earlier monarchist governments.

Loyalist Troops Retreat.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier]. May 4.—(AP)—Spanish loyalist troops retreated slowly in the Mora de Rubielos sector east of Teruel today as the rebels increased the pressure of their offensive in eastern Spain.

Intermittent rains hampered military operations on both sides, but Franco's forces methodically attacked after each storm.

The fighting was in the area south of the Pobo mountains, some 20 miles due east of Teruel.

The government tried a counter attack near the village of El Pobo, putting up a fierce struggle tor a time, but finally falling back to their original positions.

Fight Artillery Duel.

In the Alcala de Chisvert sector, along the Mediterranean coast sixty-five miles east of the Mora de Rubielos operations, the only activity was an exchange of artillery fire.

A combination of rainy weather and strong government defenses has kept the rebels from making appreciable gains southward from Alcala de Chisvert in more than a week.

Spanish rebel officials in Hendaye announced that Louis Ducoureau French consul agent at Irun, Spain, who was arrested in February, had been released. The action liquidated border incidents which arose over the French arrest of Maj. Julian Troncoso, rebel military governor of Irun, who was convicted of an attempted theft of a Spanish government submarine from Brest, France.

CZECH CABINET CALLED TO GET FRENCH ADVICE ON MINORITY PROBLEM

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, May 4.—(AP)—A week-end session of the cabinet was called today after President Eduard Benes and Premier Milan Hodza received an official report on France's attitude toward this republic's minority problem.

Dr. Stefan Osusky, who is Czech minister to Paris, was said in government circles to have told Benes and Hodza that the attitudes of both France and Great Britain had improved materially from the Czech viewpoint since the Anglo-French talks in London. Whether France offered any suggestions for settlement of the demands of the Sudeten Germans was not disclosed.

[Britain was said to have advised Czechoslovakia yesterday to make heavy concessions, if necessary, to placate the Germans within her borders.]

INLAND STEEL APPEALS ORDER TO ACCEPT C.I.O.

Prejudice by Examiner for Labor Board Cited.

The Inland Steel company yesterday asked the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to annul and set aside the April 5 ruling by the national labor relations board ordering the company to recognize the Committee for Industrial Organization as the sole bargaining agency for its employés and to sign work contracts with the employés the C. I. O. represents.

The steel company's appeal is based upon grounds substantially the same as those recognized by the United States Supreme court when on April 25 it reversed a ruling of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace fixing minimum rates that might be paid by marketing agencies in the Kansas City stockyards.

Board Held Officious.

The court held that the agencies had been given no opportunity to present their side of the case, that the examining board exceeded its authority, and that Secretary Wallace didn't even read the evidence as adduced at the hearing.

The Wallace decision upset practically the entire structure of the NLRB's operations and authority. Charles Fahy, general counsel of NLRB, announced last Saturday that the board is considering withdrawing its citation of the Republic Steel company. On Monday the board did ask that its citation of the Ford Motor company be withdrawn.

The NLRB order against the Inland Steel company is based on testimony given during a fifteen week hearing last summer, which was ordered at the instance of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee of the C. I. O., charging that the strikebound steel company was violating the national labor relations act by refusing to sign contracts which had been formulated by the committee.

Charges Unfair Hearing.

The appeal filed yesterday charges prejudice and unfairness on the part of Examiner Charles A. Wood, an agent of NLRB, who conducted last summer's hearings, and contends that the board's ruling is beyond its authority and is unconstitutional.

It states further that company attorneys were arbitrarily limited in cross-examination and in presentation of witnesses and evidence; that its witnesses were bullied by labor board attorneys, and that C. I. O. representatives jammed the hearing room to intimidate them.

"The trial examiner," says the petition, "refused to issue subpenas for the defense except on written application which [except in one instance] was required to disclose the purpose of the testimony. As a result the witnesses were liable to be exposed to hostile influences that would affect their testimony.

Board's Use Unlimited.

"On the other hand, the attorney for the board had an unlimited supply of subpenas which he was privileged to use as he saw fit, without notice to the petitioner [company].

"The trial examiner limited the petitioner's cross-examination to the precise subject matter of the direct examination, whereas the petitioner's witnesses were, over objection, subjected to the most extensive and searching interrogation by the attorney for the board and the trial examiner on matters wholly unrelated to their direct examination.

"The trial examiner throughout the hearing displayed animosity and hostility and prejudice against the petitioner, the petitioner's attorneys, and witnesses. His attitude toward many of the petitioner's employé witnesses was arrogant, hostile, abusive, and contemptuous, with the result . . . that the testimony of many employés was improperly influenced, that many employés were prevented from testifying, and that the petitioner's case was greatly prejudiced.

Permitted Prejudiced Audience.

"During the examination of these employé witnesses, the trial examiner, over objections, permitted in the hearing room large numbers of persons . . . who were known to the petitioner's witnesses to belong to the SWOC, and who displayed buttons showing membership therein, and thereby intimidated the employé witnesses.

"The trial examiner throughout the hearing assisted the attorney for the board in attempting to make a case in support of the charges contained in the complaint and, in effect, constituted himself an additional agent for the board.

"The complaint was issued by an agent of the board, prosecuted by an agent of the board, heard by an agent of the board, and supported on the ultimate issue by opinion evidence [statements of belief, not necessarily facts] of an agent of the board, to which opinion evidence the board gave controling weight in deciding the ultimate issue."

Ordered to Drop Union.

In addition to directing that Inland Steel recognize the C. I. O. and sign contracts, the NLRB also ordered that the company withdraw its recognition of the Steel Workers Independent union, a so-called company organization, and to desist from interfering with its employés in the exercise of self-organization. Commenting on this, the petition states:

"The board's order interferes with the petitioner's right to deal with the duly chosen representatives of its employés and deprives it of liberty and property without due process of law.

"The portions of the board's order requiring the petitioner to take affirmative action [recognize the C. I. O. and sign contracts] are beyond the power of the board for the reason that the act vests in the board the right to order affirmative action without providing any legislative standard. This gives legislative powers to an administrative agency in violation of article 1, section 1 of the constitution of the United States."

No Chance to Object.

The petition also alleges that the decision and order of the NLRB were prepared by subordinates and not by the board itself, and that the company was not given an opportunity to object to the order before it was issued. The company also charges that the trial examiner did not submit an intermediate report and did not inform the board of his opinion or belief as to the weight to be attached to testimony of witnesses.

The board erred, the petition continues, in finding that no prejudicial errors were committed by the trial examiner. Finally, it states, the board's order is beyond the power conferred upon it and deprives the petitioner of his freedom of contract, of his liberty, and of his property without due process of law.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Target of further court actions today, the national labor relations board now is fighting with its back to the wall. Because of its arbitrary star chamber procedure in depriving employers of fair hearings, including the right to answer the charges of labor unions, the board is threatened with the nullification of its orders in nearly every pending Wagner act case. In that event, it will be necessary for the board to reopen the cases and afford the employers the fair hearing they have been denied.

In the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago today the Inland Steel company petitioned for annulment of the board's order to bargain with John L. Lewis' C. I. O. Steel Workers' union and sign a contract therewith.

Aircraft Company Petitions.

Concurrenty, the Douglas Aircraft company filed in the Federal Court of Appeals at San Francisco a petition to set aside the order of the board to reinstate with back pay former employés who participated in a sitdown strike at its Santa Monica plant and subsequently were convicted on felony charges in the state courts.

The plant was seized by strikers Feb. 23, 1937. Of 354 who were indicted by the Los Angeles county grand jury, 22 were tried and convicted. The company refused to reinstate the ring leaders of the strike and others convicted of destroying its property and was promptly cited to the labor board on charges of unfair labor practices.

The company is the largest aircraft manufacturer in the country with a pay roll of 1 million dollars a month and a back log of orders of 29 millions, largely for military planes for the American army and navy.

Charges Fair Hearing Denied.

In its petition the Douglas company asserts that it was denied "a full and fair hearing" by the board, that the board took the case out of the hands of the trial examiner, without notice to the company and rendered an opinion "based on hearsay" entirely disregarding "overwhelming direct testimony and arbitrarily and capriciously" reached a decision founded upon "unsubstantial and immaterial matters."

Taking its stand squarely on the Supreme court decision last week in the Kansas City stockyards case the company argued that it had been deprived of its rights by the failure of the board to furnish it with the intermediate report of the trial examiner.

The company asserted its belief that the board either did not read the transcript of testimony or deliberately disregarded it for the reason that it ordered the reinstatement of convicted sitdown strikers including an alien who under the air corps act of 1926 cannot be employed on construction of government airplanes.

Revealed as an Alien.

That this employé was an alien was not known during his employment by the company and was only disclosed during the trial in which he was convicted.

Donald W. Douglas, president of the company, characterized the board's order as brazen defiance of law and a blow at national defense.

"With utter disregard of the evidence before it," said Mr. Douglas, "the board ruled, among other things, that we take back with full pay men who last year brazenly seized our plant, destroyed our property, and threatened to demolish costly government projects and equipment."

William S. Knudsen, president of the General Motors corporation, told the convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today that "the largest drawback to good industrial relations" is the Wagner act.

"The National Labor Relations board set up to administer the act," he went on, "makes no pretense even of paying any attention to the employer's side of the case. He can only be heard when he is summoned and he knows before he goes that there is no record of a single decision where he has had a ghost of a show, so what!"

Ford Attacks NLRB Decree.

Covington, Ky., May 4.—[Special.]—The Sixth United States Circuit Court of Appeals was asked today to set aside an order of the National Labor Relations board against the Ford Motor company. Ford attorneys asked the invalidation on the ground the order was based on proceedings which ignored the basic rules of justice.

The order, issued Dec. 22, sought to force the company to reinstate 29 workers discharged for alleged union activity, and to comply otherwise with the Wagner labor act. The Ford company asked a review of the entire case and served notice of an intention to request consolidation of all pending questions.

Board Seeks to Remove Order.

Court attachés said this constituted a move to prevent the board's attempted withdrawal of its petition for enforcement of its order. The motion for withdrawal was filed on Monday by Philip G. Phillips, regional NLRB director at Cincinnati.

Almost simultaneously with the filing of the motor company's petition today the labor board presented to the same court a motion opposing the company's request to question board members and others concerning conduct of the case.

On Monday the company moved to link two Roosevelt administration advisers, Benjamin V. Cohen and Thomas Corcoran, and John L. Lewis and Homer Martin, C. I. O. leaders, with the board's order and posed 57 questions it desired board members and attachés to answer under oath concerning procedure in the case.

WPA SUPERVISOR AT CLEVELAND FIRED; ENDS LIFE

Cleveland, O., May 4.—[Special.]—William C. Westphal, for three years supervisor of employment for the Works Progress administration in Cleveland, died today, less than an hour after he was found shot in his head in a Cleveland Heights field. Coroner Samuel R. Gerber returned a suicide verdict upon learning that Westphal had been discharged yesterday after the visit here of Dr. Carl Watson, Ohio WPA director.

Mrs. Westphal said her husband had left home this morning to write his resignation. She charged his resignation was forced because of recent newspaper articles about sweat shop conditions under which employés in the WPA administrative offices here have been forced to work.

"They had to find a goat after that story was published, so they pounced on my husband," she said.

Dr. Watson refused to say whether Joseph H. Alexander, WPA director here, will resign. He admitted the subject had been discussed.

SUPREME COURT FREES EVICTED MAN OF KILLING

After nearly fifteen months in the county jail, Harry Renick, 61 years old, walked out a free man yesterday. A state Supreme court order reversed his conviction for murder, but did not remand it for a new trial.

Renick, who lives at 3857 Narragansett avenue, was found guilty of slaying Andrew Johnson, a real estate agent of 3815 Oleander avenue, on Feb. 14, 1937, when the two met in a tavern a few days after Johnson had brought about the eviction of Renick's family. He was sentenced to fourteen years in prison, but the Supreme court ruled the evidence was not conclusive that Renick was holding the pistol when Johnson was shot.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

SCENTS OF BEAUTY

By CALEB

"THE PERFUME business makes sense — and no pun intended," said the alert buyer for the perfume bar.

"I'll show you what I mean; suppose you were to put me on a desert island for two years, then blindfold me, bring me back to civilization and take me to an up-to-date perfume counter. Without taking off my blindfold I'd tell you pretty accurately what the styles in women's clothing were at the moment."

Observing a look of incredulity, he continued, "It's not so difficult as it sounds. You see, perfume scents pretty generally interpret the trend of fashions. Coming back blindfolded from our imaginary exile, I'd reason that a predominance of heavy, exotic odors indicated fashions involving long, flowing lines, clinging materials and corresponding accessories.

"On the other hand (and this would happen if we were to make the experiment today) if I returned to find lighter, more sprightly odors in the ascendancy, I'd describe the current fashion as predominantly trim and out-of-doors in styling.

"For instance, today you find us all pretty much interested in heather scent—which certainly bespeaks outdoor activity and tailored street costumes. But heather perfume isn't the only indication of this trend. Today the lighter flowers have come into their own because they go well with simple gowns."

A listener inquired, "Do women change perfumes? I thought that scents matched personalities; that light and dark complexions called for certain perfume scents."

The perfumer laughed. "That shows how little you know about women," he said. "Actually, coloring and complexion have little to do with personality. Besides, women nowadays look upon their perfumes as a part of their costume to be matched as carefully as shoes and hat."

"There's more to this perfume business than meets the eye—er, that is, the nose," the listener said. "Apparently one arrives at a full knowledge of the perfumer's art by the simple course of psychology, dress design; merchandising, and an almost endless knowledge of the possibilities and combinations to be achieved from literally hundreds of base materials.

"And by the way," the listener asked, "what's your hobby?"

"Perfumes," said the buyer.

Gather Loads of Blooms in Suburban Gardens.

and sand last week and who have not shinnied up a tree this year, were almost convinced of it. The lilacs and tulips in their hands looked real, all right!

One little fellow with tousled hair, jerking the pulley that held his broken leg in traction, shouted derisively, "Lookit, guys, flow'rs!" The guys looked, apathetically.

The nurses paused. "If you don't like them we'll take them on then—take them on to another ward where they're appreciated. A lot of little boys and girls around here would like flowers."

"Aw, we like 'em too, nurse," a limp voice protested with effort. "Only we're boys, and it's sissy to say so."

"Give me one with leaves on," shouted another. "And one that smells good." He looked around him defiantly. "I like 'em swell."

The tousled one was losing ground. "I hate 'em!" he announced fiercely. "I still hate 'em . . . but my ma, say, my ma will like 'em fine."

BRING CHEER TO CLINIC

BY MARCIA WINN.

It was such a simple thing, the act of placing a low green bowl on a counter. But the bowl was radiant with sprays of deep purple and heavy white lilacs, fronds of trailing bridal wreath and scarlet tulips, and the counter was in a barren clinical waiting room.

It was still a simple thing, but fifty heads, of all ages, turned, and 50 pairs of eyes, formerly listless with pain and care, shone with sudden wonder and delight.

"You see?" asked Miss Edith Sweet, assistant director of Northwestern university's ten free clinics. "I told you so." And, turning to the patients, "you can touch them, you know, if you want to."

One by one, their hesitation overcome by eagerness, they advanced past the counter, in a saunter that most sought to make casual. An anemic little girl, her blue eyes ringed with shadows; her mother, smiling broadly, and then a large colored woman who thrust her face so deeply into the blossoms and sniffed so longingly of their fragrance that Miss Sweet pulled out a purple spray and handed it to her.

"Take it home," she suggested. "You can even wear it."

"Sure 'nough?" the woman cried, snatching it in her haste. "I do thank you, ma'am." And as she strode proudly away, the lilacs waving across her bosom, "Nobody can say I ain't the Lawd's top blossom now!"

BLIND ENJOY FRAGRANCE

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

At the Lighthouse for the Blind, 3323 Cermak road, two huge cartons brimming over with lilacs were distributed among the thirty-five blind craftsmen working there. They cannot see the blossoms, purple, lavendar, and white, but they can enjoy their fragrance and by touching them see them with their mind's eye.

At the Mercy Center Settlement house, 1539 South Springfield avenue, armfuls of the flowers were divided. Some went to all the children who were shouting and playing in the large play yard. Small boys and girls who never had seen a garden for once had flowers of their own.

Lilacs for Shut-Ins

MARY ELLEN'S BIG DAY

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Excitement is bad for Mary Ellen Gothard, 12 years old. "She is a serious heart case," said her nurse in Women and Children's hospital, 1606 Maypole street. "She can't stand much excitement.

Children who are up and around can look at flowers in the parks, even if they do live in crowded, unflowering districts such as Mary Ellen lives in at 2311 Warren boulevard. For them, seeing a bunch of lilacs wouldn't mean anything much.

But for Mary Ellen, lying month after month in bed, or rather sitting up in bed, for she cannot lie down even to sleep or she cannot breathe, there are few big happenings. Therefore a bunch of lilacs, given to her by a nurse after a visit from a TRIBUNE truck, was held close by the little girl with the very thin arms, while she sniffed deeply.

She smiled radiantly. "I remember Lilac day at County hospital two years ago," she said. "But then I just saw the lilacs. These are the first I've ever held in my hand."

"Now, Mary Ellen, you must rest," a watchful nurse said, explaining in an aside, "This will be something for her to remember and think of, and she has so few things we like to give her what we can."

GIVE JOY TO CHILDREN

BY BETTY BROWNING.

"It's rest period," a crisp nurse announced firmly as the truckload of lilacs arrived at the Children's Memorial hospital, but she relented at sight of the fragrant plumes of blossom. Out in the yard a score of small patients napping in their iron beds came suddenly to life at the approach of their nurses with armloads of flowers.

Three year old Tommy, who has yet to speak or sit up, held out both hands toward the purple sprays and smiled. "See what I've got," gurgled golden haired Billy, who has been strapped to a board since an automobile struck him two months ago.

"What's those?" murmured shy, brown eyed Helen from the next bed. "O, I know. They're lilacs," announced 5 year old Mary, and, taking her armful, sank back onto her pillows.

"Do you care for lilacs?" Philip, big boy of the group, was asked. He put down his book of wild west adventure, and took one of the sprays. "Sure, they're out in the park now, aren't they? They used to grow around our ballground."

WILL SHARE BLOSSOMS

BY FLORENCE PRATT.

Ten little girls and twelve little boys at the Federated Home for Dependent Colored Children will carry on the "share your lilacs" campaign. Their first thought, after their rolling-eyed admiration of what must have looked like bushes of lilacs in their own home, was to take some to their teachers.

Annie Jones, 4 years old, hovered over a huge bouquet twice her size, trying to hug the flowers to her. A motherless tike, one of a family of six, she had not seen too many cut flowers in her day. Barbara Gray, 5, accepted some of the responsibility of arranging some branches with her playmate, Gerald Bowman.

These twenty-two youngsters are kept in tow by Lillian M. Smith. She hopes that some day their own back-yard can be used to raise lilac bushes, but until such time she and her charges will enjoy the blossoms given them by others.

HOSPITAL FACES GLOW

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

St. Luke's hospital smiled a welcome when we arrived with the lilacs. Flowers can change the face of a hospital, and the faces of those behind its quiet walls. Flowers can do things for people.

There were few eyes so tired with pain that they did not brighten when they caught sight of the great masses of purple and white blossoms, fresh from the countryside.

Sometimes it was only a wan flicker of interest from those who were too sunk from suffering to give more than the shadow of a smile. But for the most part, men, women, and children stirred when they saw the lilacs, and their faces took on a new look.

"Just like the flowers I used to have at home. . . ." from a woman who won't walk again for a long, long time . . . "I read about the lilacs being out, but I never hoped to see any" . . . from a man bandadged and twisted and white . . . .

They were a breath from the outside world, and they accomplished their purpose: They brought pleasure to those who are having precious little of it!

Ex-Senator Deneen 75 Yrs. Old; Visits Daughter in Tulsa

Tulsa, Okla., May 4.—(AP)—Former United States Senator Charles Deneen of Illinois spent his seventy-fifth birthday today in seclusion at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Allmand P. Blow, wife of a wealthy oil man. The former senator came here from a Chicago hospital a week ago to recuperate.

SANITARY BOARD WHOOPEE FIGURE GETS OUT TODAY

John T. Miller, sanitary district official during the whoopee period, will leave the Bridewell this morning when he completes a six month sentence for conspiracy to defraud the district out of 6½ million dollars. His liberty was made possible by the payment yesterday of $2,414.15, the fine and court costs assessed at the trial.

Miss Rose Bell, secretary to Thomas J. Bowler, clerk of the Criminal court, accepted the money, but said she did not know who made the payment. She said "some man" walked into her office and placed the money before her.

Miller, who served his time on the Bridewell farm, presumably because he was a pig expert, went to jail on Nov. 24, 1937. He was allowed eighteen days off for good behavior. He is the only man to complete a Criminal court sentence imposed as a result of the 1932 exposures. Frank J. Link, the only trustee who survived the long court fight against the sentence, is in the penitentiary.

Hauptmann's Son Struck by Auto; Seriously Hurt

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—Manfried Hauptmann, 5 years old, son of Bruno Hauptmann, executed as the kidnap slayer of the Lindbergh baby, was seriously injured by an automobile today. The driver, Frederick B. Moser, 37 years old, of Hastings-on-Hudson, said Manfried darted into the street from behind a car parked near the Hauptmann home in the Bronx. The boy suffered a possible fracture, many bruises on his right leg, and a cut on his left cheek.

MAXWELL HOUSE

MANOR HOUSE has three delicious fragrances

First, there's the one that simply blooms from the MANOR HOUSE jar when first you open it. Then, there's one that fills the kitchen full of its brown and rich and luscious smell and tells the household you are using MANOR HOUSE . . . when you cover it with boiling, scalding water in the pot. HIGHER PAUPER TAX PROPOSED TO PAY RELIEF

Confer with Horner on Legislative Needs.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—A new plan for meeting Illinois' latest relief crisis was presented tonight to Gov. Henry Horner and about 20 members of three commissions which have studied the problem. It involves increasing the township pauper levy from three to six mills, the total thus gained to be matched by a state appropriation.

No action was taken on the proposal which, it is understood, originated with State Treasurer John C. Martin, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, but lacking any other definite scheme, several of the conferees were considering it favorably tonight.

Discussion a Deep Secret.

Martin refused to say what he had told the conference and extraordinary efforts were made by the governor to prevent what had been talked about from becoming known. The unit rule of naming him the spokesman was adopted, but the Martin proposal leaked out, nevertheless.

About $500,000 monthly would be raised by the proposal, it was estimated.

Chicago's needs were the most pressing problems before the conference and they were presented by Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief administrator. Lyons told the assemblage that the C. R. A. would be unable to continue its present scale of aid to reliefers after May 17. By reducing aid from 50 to 60 per cent, the agency could get along until June 1, he added, but after that the future of local relief funds is black.

State Aid Only Hope.

Beyond that date about the only hope, under present circumstances, will be the state's contributions, which probably will run from $1,600,000 to $1,900,000.

The governor said after the meeting that he only had listened to the discussion. One thing was certain, he did not suggest that the crisis be met with an appropriation from state funds.

Earlier in the day the reason for that was given by Sam Nudelman, director of finance, who said that sales tax returns are declining as a result of the recession. Nudelman did not encourage the idea that money was available in the treasury.

Consolidation Favored.

Relative unanimity of opinion appeared to prevail at the conference over the suggestion of the Illinois council on relief and unemployment, headed by Walter L. Gregory of Chicago, which calls for the integration of all state public assistance agencies under one administrative body, which probably would be the department of public welfare. Gregory was among the conferees today.

Possibility exists that the governor will include this suggestion in his message on relief to the special legislative session he will convene within three weeks.

Nudelman told reporters that March collections of the 3 cent sales tax were $5,737,508, as compared with $6,029,847 in March of last year. The April, 1938, collections were $6,136,783, while a year ago in April, the state took in $6,998,977. Thus, the drop for the two months totaled $1,154,533.

Awarded $15,000

MARY JANE STOREN.

A jury in the court of Circuit Judge William V. Brothers awarded Mary J. Storen, 9 years old, 8807 Dorchester avenue, a verdict for $15,000 damages against the city of Chicago. The child lost her left leg when it was crushed between an automobile and a fire hydrant on Nov. 22, 1935. The accident occurred when an automobile, which was parked, was struck by another car.

Attorney Lester E. Williams, representing the little girl, contended that the city was negligent in not constructing a curb at the point where the hydrant stood. Mary, who is now a pupil in the School for Crippled Children at 12302 South State street, was in court on crutches.

JARECKI GIVES SUPPORT TO NEW TAX LEVY LAW

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday held that the so-called preadjudication act requiring court confirmation of tax levies before tax bills are sent out is constitutional. A suit questioning the validity of the act is pending before the Illinois Supreme court. The suit is on an appeal from a ruling of Circuit Judge Joseph Burke who last year upheld the validity of the law.

acreage business was going to be mixed up in it," Senator Smith replied. Senator George said the tobacco referendum presented a national poundage quota to be divided among the states producing particular types of tobacco, but that when the allocation was actually made, the department of agriculture went back to the soil conservation act and first allotted acreage quotas.

"The poundage allotments have not yet been made, but it is absolutely certain that in Georgia there are hundreds and hundreds of acreage allotments which cannot possibly produce the poundage allotments, when made according to the quota originally fixed by the secretary in his submission of the referendum—to wit: 705 million pounds of bright flue cured tobacco," said Senator George.

Farmers Incensed.

Senator Vandenberg asked Senator George whether he agreed with Senator Smith that the farmers would have voted "no" instead of "yes" had they known precisely what was going to happen.

"I agree thoroughly, because I think the farmer is still a man of good judgment," replied Senator George.

Senator Charles O. Andrews [D., Fla.] said the tobacco farmers in his state were "very much incensed over the allotment that has been made to them."

Senator Vandenberg asked Senator Andrews how the farmers of Florida would have voted had they known what was going to happen to them. Senator Andrews said they voted against it but had to take it anyway because the national quotas were approved.

Senator Bailey, declaring that he had received just as many complaints as his colleague, Senator Reynolds, denounced the whole AAA compulsory control system as "a perfect model of Fascism."

SHIFTS BRAUDE, SAFETY JUDGE, IN RADIO FIGHT

Sonsteby Opposes Plan for Rebroadcasts.

Judge Braude.

Judge J. M. Braude, who has been presiding in the Safety court since last September, was transferred to the civil jury branch last night on orders of Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court. The transfer, effective today, apparently was the outgrowth of a dispute between the two judges over Braude's plan to make evening radio broadcasts by electrical transcription of some of the serious trafic violation cases heard daily in the Safety court.

Judge Braude commented: "While I know that petty professional jealousies are responsible for Judge Sonsteby's refusal to permit the night broadcasts, I prefer to say nothing more in that connection. I asked to be transferred from the Safety court on several occasions, but the request was not granted until this matter arose. I am sorry I will not be able to continue aiding the motoring public in the drive for safety."

Doubts Order Is Legal.

He added that he would not contest his superior's order although he doubted Judge Sonsteby's legal right to give it after the regular monthly court assignments already had been made. Judge Braude said he had been told by Sonsteby last week that he would remain in the Safety court until July.

Judge Sonsteby said that Judge Stephen Adamowski would succeed Braude in the Safety court, with the latter taking over Adamowski's call in the jury branch.

Sonsteby denied that the radio dispute was the cause of the shifting of the judges.

"Judge Braude had asked to be transferred," Sonsteby said. "I don't remember the last time he asked, but I could make the change any time I saw fit and this seemed like the opportune time. The half hour daily broadcasts from the Safety court will continue under Judge Adamowski."

Program Banned on Monday.

Judge Braude had planned to have the first recorded program last Monday night but Judge Sonsteby stopped this, declaring there was a possibility the electrical transcriptions might be used more than once, which would be unfair to Safety court defendants. He threatened station WJJD with contempt of court action if the recordings were put on the air.

Judge John Gutknecht, who sits in the Trafic court, makes daily broadcasts and also a program every Monday at night sessions of the court.

THREE IN CHICAGO FAMILY KILLED IN FLORIDA CRASH

Three members of a Chicago family were killed and two others injured last night when their automobile collided with a truck near Fort Pierce, Fla.

The dead were I. Rosenbaum, 44 years old; his wife, Irene, 44, of 1730 North Shore avenue, and her sister-in-law, Miss Ida Baune, 47. Jane Rosenbaum, 17, and Robert Rosenbaum, 14, believed to be the son and daughter of I. Rosenbaum, were taken to a hospital.

A man tentatively identified as Clarence Waldrep of Albany, N. Y., was killed last night when he was thrown from a safety island at Grand and Western avenues in an accident involving three automobiles. Clarence Rossner, 2250 Farragut street, was driving north on Western avenue when another car cut him off and, as Rossner backed up, his machine threw Waldrep into the path of a third car driven by Harry Fairfield, 3912 North Keeler avenue.

Thomas Kowal, 53 years old, of 1239 North Artesian avenue, who was knocked down near Ashland and Chicago avenues early Sunday morning and dragged nearly two blocks under an automobile, died yesterday in St. Mary's hospital.

Anthony Daniel died in the Oak Park hospital early today after being struck by an automobile at Harlem and Belden avenues. Daniel, who was 57 years old, lived at 2122 North 73d avenue, Elmwood Park. William Curley, 23 years old, 908 North Leclaire avenue, was driving the car.

A coroner's jury recommended that John Ondresky, 9426 Jefferson avenue, Brookfield, be held to the grand jury for manslaughter in connection with the death of Jeanette McIntosh, 6, of 3438 McCormick avenue, Brookfield, who was struck by his automobile in the suburb on Tuesday.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 294 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 231 were killed in Chicago where 5,782 were injured in the same period.

BEHIND THE SCENES WITH THE NEW DEAL.

They may have done things a little worse in Pennsylvania than in other New Deal sovereignties acquired in the great redemptionist movement, but it probably will be found to be more a matter of degree than of kind. West Virginia has been resounding with the same sort of scandal because of the fight between Senators Neely and Holt. Michigan has been ripe to burst for two years. Ohio and Indiana won't be able to stop the explosions. Kentucky is ready to fall apart and Illinois has been on the spot.

Opportunity created by several push-over elections throughout the nation led to extremes of political abuses nourished by New Deal doctrins and expenditures. People who care to know what has been going on may now go behind the scenes and observe what happens when politicians are protected by a deluded public sentiment, a zealous and uncritical good will, and a predecided judgment in their favor, and, with all this, have extraordinary power to abuse and money to spend.

In Pennsylvania the temptations were so great that the politicians, although knowing that their quarrels would expose them, were unable to stay together. It is the good luck of the country that Earle, Guffey, Margiotti, Wilson, Kennedy and John Lewis could not agree on the division of authority and spoils. In their abuse of office, their greed for subsidies, and their personal ambitions they have been forced to turn state's evidence against each other and, may it be hoped, they will destroy each other.

The people will learn how Earle employed the state troops to promote Lewis' schemes, how the destitute were used as political cannon fodder, how the federal grants for public construction were manipulated, how contractors allied themselves with politicians and repaid themselves out of public works.

It must have amazed some old timers to discover that for once abuse of office, waste of public money, mistreatment of dependents, corruption and malfeasance were protected as of a holy cause. Critics were to be dumfounded by abuse and opposition swept aside. The worst of politics was under the mantle of righteousness and no wrong could be done. This unhealthy state of public affairs is breaking down. The curative scandals are coming out.

BUSES IN WAR.

We think the army underestimates the need it will have for buses in the event of war on a serious scale. War in terms of today brings heavy concentration of trafic in the zones of active operations. Railroads cannot be improvised nor, for that matter, can buses, but roads away from cities can take immensely more trafic than uses them in peace.

With the use of the splendid buses developed by our motor transport companies our infantry can be given a mobility beyond that attainable by any other army.

The tendency of our military planners is, of course, to continue to think in terms of walking, but even in backward Spain troops are carried on wheels up to the firing zone.

Nothing is more important to the development of the maximum military efficiency than to take the fullest advantage of the resources of our industry. Its vast supremacy would give us a decisive advantage over almost any combination of enemies, provided it is not sacrificed in order to establish socialism under the pretense of war emergency.

THE WAR IN SHANTUNG.

Censorship, difficulties of communication, and partisan plugging—propaganda to the professional—have created a military enigma in southern Shantung province. It is being accepted as a fact, although little supported by detail, that the first Japanese offensive against Hankow resulted in a first rate defeat, already called the first disaster to Japan's modern army. A great deal of wishful thinking may be involved in that. Now the offensive which was to recover face and territory is reported broken. Even the friends of China will keep knocking on wood.

It is true that Japan is so extended that only a great superiority in morale, material, and generalship would justify the undertaking, but that superiority was supposed clearly to be asserted against the disorganized, ill trained, and badly supplied Chinese multitudes. The flower of their German trained army was used up in the defense of Shanghai. The fall of Nanking subsequently seemed to outline the future of what the Japanese call the Chinese incident. Now there is more doubt.

The debaucheries of the Japanese troops in the sack of Nanking, apparently well documented, aroused the country to a bitterness of desperation. The Japanese troops are in the midst of an actively hostile population now trained and used for guerrilla warfare, and ready to devastate their own country while cutting Japanese supply lines, blowing up bridges, and destroying railroads. New war materials are finding their way to the Chinese, probably most of them from Russia, which stands to win or lose much as the Chinese war turns out.

The outcome in Spain is nothing to Russia as compared with the outcome in China. A failure of the Japanese war in China would be a Russian victory over one of its three allied enemies. It would give the soviet union a free hand on its European front and be the first decided setback to the Fascist alliance, an event, if it occurred, not without meaning in the uncertain European future.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S PEACE.

The British house of commons ratified the British-Italian agreement by a vote of 322 to 110 the day before Hitler crossed over the mountains to visit Mussolini in Rome. Prime Minister Chamberlain no doubt had a reason for submitting the question at the moment he did in order that the British acceptance of the understanding with Italy might be a confirmed fact before Il Duce had any talks with the Furor.

In the course of his remarks on the agreement Mr. Chamberlain said that among those indorsing the new accord was President Roosevelt, who had signified his sympathetic interest because he considered the efforts proof of the value of peaceful negotiations. The opposition, including Herbert Morrison, Laborite, and David Lloyd George, said that Mr. Chamberlain was misstating what Mr. Roosevelt had said. Mr. Morrison accused the prime minister of taking liberty with the President's statement and Mr. Lloyd George said he should not claim that Mr. Roosevelt had approved it. Mr. Chamberlain defended himself and contended that he had used the exact words.

For the American government Mr. Roosevelt said that the United States did not attempt to pass upon the political features of such an accord as has been reached by Italy and Great Britain, "but this government has seen the conclusion of an agreement with sympathetic interest because it is proof of the value of peaceful negotiations."

Mr. Chamberlain's peace is based upon expediency, opportunism, and the recognition of the accomplished facts and realities of imperialistic adventure. Its essence is found in a famous barroom dialog between the bartender and the proprietor. "Is Casey good for a drink?" "Has he got it?" "He has." "He is."

Mussolini has Ethiopia except for such annoyance as the Ethiopians may cause him. He is fighting in Spain and he has an alliance with Hitler. These are facts. Mr. Chamberlain thinks that a peaceable understanding must accept them and so the agreement does. Mr. Chamberlain may take Mr. Hitler on later on much the same terms. The other scheme, of telling these dictators they couldn't do things which they did, hadn't worked and wasn't going to work. The guardians of better morality couldn't agree to carry out anything they said they would do, and as a result of much talking and no acting the dictators were getting stronger and their opponents were getting weaker.

The peaceful negotiations in which our government has expressed its sympathetic interest were conducted by abandoning moral opprobriums and following a line of national self-interest. Although altruism seems to have passed out of the picture, the peace of Europe may be more secure when based upon Mr. Chamberlain's methods than it has been for many years. If that is accomplished, it will be a great relief to millions of people.

If our government sympathizes with the purpose and welcomes the prospects, it might be well for the responsible officials of the United States to cease making unnecessary moral criticisms of other governments where the interests of the United States are not involved. American spokesmen frequently read the higher law to other peoples, who no doubt would be better off if they were not governed as they are. The moral judgments pronounced by American officials may please sentiments here at home but they are of no use in international relations.

Until America has something to gain by making an issue with another state, its official condemnations do no one any good and may even aggravate what they discuss.

INDIANA'S PAPER PENITENTIARY.

As the result of excellent police work in Illinois, the four convicts who gave up their rooms at Dillinger's favorite penitentiary in Michigan City, Ind., were recaptured.

Indiana officials continue to refer to the departure of the four convicts as an escape. The word implies a serious attempt on the part of the prison authorities to hold the men in custody. The record of so-called escapes from Michigan City makes the use of the word absurd. Too many convicts who wanted to get out have found a way. As recently as Feb. 10 five convicts sawed their way to freedom. Dillinger took nine men with him when he waved his good-by. After the event a lack of vigilance on the part of the prison staf is generally discovered, but when the next escape occurs the same lack of vigilance is reported with the same regrets.

The politics of Indiana do not a prison make. Whether the citizens of Indiana intend to do anything about it remains to be seen. If they want to end the scandal they can do so; but as long as the group of politicians now dominant in the state remains in office no improvement is to be expected.

These job holders are ruthless and shameless. They displayed their contempt for constitutions and laws the other day at Vincennes when they invaded a printing shop and seized the type of an article which they didn't want the voters to read. The only law such men respect is their own ambition to rule. It is not surprising that such men run a penitentiary as if it were just another political perquisite.

LABOR BOARD BACKS WATER.

[New York Daily News.]

The Supreme court a week ago yesterday remarked that government boards and commissions, in their dealings with citizens, must observe the same rules of fair play and hearing-both-sides as courts observe.

This caused the national labor relations board, established under the Wagner act, to move to withdraw its recent cease and desist orders against the Ford Motor company, and perhaps against others, so that the records in these cases could be strengthened before the cases should reach the Supreme court. It looks like a labor board admission that rules of fair play might perhaps have been shelved while those firms were probed.

It looks, further, like another argument for revision of the Wagner act. That act was conceived as a law to help labor organize. The purpose was and is a good one. But the act has been kicking up discontent and protests ever since it took effect. As we've often said before, it is lopsidedly drawn and needs to be righted. Until it works for employé and employer toward adjustment of their common difficulties it cannot work well.

Mexican Pepper Pot.

Lupe Velez gave a party with cold turkey and caviar and champagne that started at 4:30 in the afternoon and at 7:20 Lupe, who was due behind the footlights in another hour in a silver gown, had to be dragged away. She got up a raffle, she did some of her famous caricatures, she bustled about getting champagne herself for her guests—in spite of a half dozen waiters—and chattered amusingly. It's that Mexican vitality.

WHEN MISS VELEZ finally was torn away it was because she had to have time to change into the particular costume that, with Mexican superstition, she wears to the theater every night, rain or shine. It's the one she wore the first night "You Never Know" opened in Boston —a woolen suit, with a sweater, and a scarf tied peasant fashion about her head. Hot or cold, it's her theater-going costume. "Eet breengs me luck," says Lupe.

ONE OF MISS VELEZ'S most graphic caricatures—done spontaneously at her party—Marlene Dietrich coming into the Vendôme in Hollywood for luncheon accompanied by two Russian wolf hounds. Lupe imitated the wolf hounds as well as Miss Dietrich.

METROPOLITAN MAY.

A cherry branch athwart a lacquered shrine
Could lure me now—
No less, an English hedgerow and a bough
Of white thorn would allow
May's ecstasy to rise reborn;
Even suburbia's charms so late forsworn,
The spurt of crocus flames upon the grass
I would not scorn—alas!
I have denied myself green fields,
Yet will rejoice in what the city yields;
Will taxi to the gayest shop in town,
Where any queen of May might choose her crown

Spring in Arlington Heights.

An old and dignified white house, one of the few remaining from our early days, an aristocrat among houses, the old Winton place—white lilacs blooming in the front yard, tall and rangy, the lacy plumes reaching to the chamber window. An old apple tree by the back steps, its fragrant pink bloom arching the driveway and spilling over onto the porch roof; the home also of the flicker, who scatters these applewood chips. The violet patch in a near woodsy spot, a pool of blue to dream over; neighboring it, the yellow violet patch, not so extensive, and peacefully keeping its own bounds as it has done for years, in the manner of true aristocracy. Up the road a few steps our red bud trees, pioneers, easily twenty-five years old, large and spreading and full of such entrancing bloom as only the red bud knows. Come upon the two from the north, and the church spire rises mistily through the startling veil of color, the church itself hidden by massed shrubbery and blossoming trees. Our village and yours, if you would care to come. Belle F. Owen.

WE WENT TO ARLINGTON HEIGHTS once on a day in spring when the lilacs were in bloom. The occasion was the 100th birthday anniversary of the town's oldest resident, and the citizenry turned out to do her honor. The mayor proclaimed it a holiday, and there was a parade to the elderly resident's house, and the blare of band music, and an address honoring her. . . . Come to think of it, we didn't go at all. Assigned to cover the event, we did it by telephone from a booth in the Hotel La Salle, inquiring about lilacs, and if the old lady had blue eyes and wore her hair parted in the middle and what the band would play, and wrote so descriptive a tale it seemed, these many years later, that we really had been there. We can see it all just as clearly as if we had. . . . Even hear the band, and the mayor's speech.

PLATING THE NASAL MUCOSA IN HAY FEVER.

In the industrial world there are numerous uses for plating, and we all buy articles that, both for appearance and utility, are covered with a thin film of silver, gold, nickel, or chromium. The durability and beauty of a chromium surface has led to its widespread adoption. In common usage, the term "galvanized iron" refers to sheets of that metal over which a thin layer of zinc has been applied by a dipping process.

But who would ever think of electroplating the mucous membrane of the air passages? Physicians tan the skin and raw places as a means of assisting the healing of burns, and now comes the suggestion, which originated with Philip Franklin about eight years ago, that the lining membrane of the nose could be impregnated with zinc and thus be rendered insensitive to certain irritants such as plant pollens.

It was felt that the pollen exhibited its effects only when able to gain entrance to the nose, where it was picked up later by the mucous cells. It was thought, therefore, that if some drug could be found which would render this area incapable of absorbing pollen toxins—veneered, as it were, with an insoluble substance—no irritation would ensue.

The galvanic current is employed and the operation is called ionization. As a rule the nose is filled with long strips of narrow gauze, one-fourth to one-half inch in width, which have previously been moistened with a 1 per cent solution of zinc sulfate. The current is then passed through this plug, whereupon minute particles of zinc are driven into the outer cells of the mucous layer.

Few individuals complain of the treatment, although in some instances a preliminary spraying of the nostrils with a mild local anesthetic is of value. The current is not strong enough to cause injury and is continued for only eight to ten minutes. Occasionally there will be a metallic taste in the mouth and an excessive secretion of saliva. Within a few hours after the treatment tissue reaction—swelling and considerable discomfort—comes on. This simulates a severe hay fever attack and many of these patients will be quite miserable for approximately 24 hours. Thereafter, as the edema subsides, the nose feels clearer than it has for weeks, with resulting freedom from the annoying watery discharge so characteristic of pollen sensitivity.

Experience has shown that many ionization patients are free from attacks for approximately a year after two or three treatments, and one coating should be given the surface within the nose annually as a precaution against recurrence. As one writer observes, none of his ionized cases had a single cold the following winter. Conservative estimates would indicate that approximately 70 per cent of those with hay fever on whom zinc therapy is carried out with skill and caution are symptom free for the balance of the season. As with any other measure, however, we must discount the enthusiasm of certain authors, as excellent results are reported with other methods such as vaccines and cauterization with trichloracetic acid.

The plan may be tried by those hay fever victims who are not relieved by vaccines and with whom a filter against pollens is impracticable. We should recall, however, that all symptoms of sensitivity, including asthma, may not be due to plants, dust, or some particular chemical. Infections about the tonsils, sinuses, or teeth should be ruled out or removed if found.

Curiously enough, the regimen is not as successful a preventive as when used after the onset of acute symptoms. In fact, the year round sufferer is far more likely to be benefited than the one who is the victim of an acute episode which lasts for only a few weeks, during the prevalence of a certain type of pollen to which he reacts violently.

HAVE FULL EXAMINATION.

Mrs. S. writes: I am 27 years old and have always been nervous. But in the past few months I have been on the verge of a breakdown. When I touch my head I develop a pain. This makes me fear that I am going insane. There is great tension in my hands, my eyes seem to contract, and I am constantly gritting my teeth. I am unable to concentrate on anything but myself. How can this mental condition be overcome?

REPLY.

Make certain that there is no organic basis for your nervousness. This means a careful examination by a competent physician. If no disease or infection is disclosed, you must track down the cause of your worry and eliminate it if possible. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for our list of books on mental hygiene.

MAY HAVE OTHER CAUSE.

Mrs. C. writes: I was in an automobile accident about two years ago. I was not bothered for about a year, but one morning I woke up with a headache and for about three weeks I could not walk without staggering, I was so dizzy. I am subject to these attacks whenever I move my head quickly and when I go to bed at night. What could cause my trouble? Can anything be done?

REPLY.

The difficulty may be due to some circulatory trouble in the inner ear and not to the accident at all. The treatment suggested by Furstenberg of the University of Michigan is probably known to your physician. It is helpful in many cases.

HAS SEVERAL CAUSES.

C. G. writes: I have been told by my dentist that I have gingivitis. My gums are inflamed and my mouth is very sore. Does this condition produce loss of teeth? What causes this disease?

REPLY.

Inflammation of the gums, or gingivitis, may result from fungus infections, metallic poisoning, or lack of vitamin C in the diet. As a rule, the teeth are not affected, if prompt and skilled dental attention is obtained.

MAY BE INFECTION.

E. R. E. writes: What would cause an itching rash to break out at the lower end of the spinal column? It clears up and then recurs. Sometimes the itching is very bad.

REPLY.

Infection from bacteria about the rectum. Scrupulous cleanliness may relieve the symptom. One should also consider parasites as well as the presence of an irritant from the clothing.

FINDS FARMERS' SHARE SMALL.

Chicago, May 2.—In Sunday's TRIBUNE you printed an article pertaining to cut rate milk and quoted Paul Potter, secretary of the Associated Milk dealers, as stating that the larger companies [milk distributors] were unable to reduce the price of milk to the consumer because of the price paid the farmer and union labor.

Since the first of the year the rate paid the farmer per 100 pounds of grade A milk has been reduced from $2.20 to $1.75, but the high scale of wages paid to the union milk wagon driver has been maintained and the price to the consumer remains at 13 cents a quart, out of which the farmer, who has a large investment and works seven days a week, is paid 3½c gross. FARM OWNER.

FIVE MONTHS, NOT FIVE YEARS.

Chicago, April 30. — Concerning the charge made in a letter April 25 that WPA grading in Winnemac park has been going on for five years, I want to say that this grading has been in progress for only five months. I wonder if the writer has lived near this park for the last five years.

Our organization is over twenty-five years old and we are grateful for the improvements made in this park in the last ten years, namely two new schools and now the big stadium and the whole park tiled and being graded and overhauled in general. It all gives us a wonder spot.

A word about the WPA workers who are trying to support their families honestly: Well, maybe if those that never felt the depression and with steady jobs and good incomes would stop crabbing there would be less class hatred.

FRANK RUEHLMANN,
President, North Ravenswood Improvement club.

FOR A SOX-CUBS FANS' TRUCE.

Chicago, April 30.—I have heard of the Cub-Sox feud for so long that I have a peeve to expound. Why is it that the people in this town are so narrow-minded and prejudiced that they can not support both Chicago clubs? We are very fortunate in having both leagues here in Chicago, bringing us every one of the outstanding stars of our national game. I would hate to miss seeing such men as Gehrig, Feller, Werber, Dickey, Gehringer, Mack, Cochrane, etc., because I was a north side fan; and similarly I would not miss seeing Hubbell, L. Waner, P. Waner, Dean, Medwick, Martin, Mungo, et al., merely because my inclinations were on the south side of town. I enjoy seeing both teams in action, and am a hearty rooter for each one of them.

Moreover, I feel that there are just a whole host of people in this town who feel the same way about it that I do. We have two swell ball clubs, each fighting its best to bring glory to this city. Why should anybody go out of his way to pan either one of them? G. W. H.

TO A DOG POISONER.

Chicago, May 2.—I hope the party, living in the neighborhood of 73d street and Euclid avenue, who doesn't like dogs and took it upon himself to poison ours, will read this letter. A beautiful red cocker spaniel, the pride and joy of our home, has been taken from us because of this fiend.

If the dog's suffering would have had no effect on this party, perhaps the fact that our whole family is broken hearted at the loss of our pet would have touched him a bit.

If he reads this letter, which I hope he does, he may have some idea of what he has done. A. D. S.

A BRAKEMAN'S LIVING COSTS.

Chicago, April 30.—I would like to give my answer to the railroads' request for a reduction in pay.

I am a railroad man fortunate enough to have a regular run. I am away from home sixteen nights a month at a cost of 75 cents a night at a railroad men's hotel, a total of $12 a month. On this run it is necessary to have four meals away from home at 40 cents each, a total of $25.60 a month.

For life insurance the rate for railroad men is increased about 20 per cent because of risk to life and limb. It costs me a total of $13.93 a month. This makes a total of $51.53 each month. Subtract this from the $180 salary, leaving $128.47 with which to maintain a home for wife and two children.

While this is much better than relief or PWA it still is not enough to warant the railroads in reducing pay at this time.

In 1932 the workers, at the plea of the managers, gave a voluntary 10 per cent cut which was supposed to relieve the roads, but even that was not enough to solve the puzzle.

Could the answer be in the overcapitalization or in the high salaries of officials? A BRAKEMAN.

SNOW WHITE AND THE CHILDREN.

Chicago, May 1.—I have recently read that the picture "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" will make a profit of over 10 million dollars. If every exhibitor in the country follows the example of our outlying theaters it should double that figure.

I call it unsporting, to say the least, for them to raise the children's admission price. Any child in the city with a dime in his pocket can enter their theaters and see murder, gangsters, crooked politics, and all but the most lurid sex dramas. But when a picture eminently suited to children [and advertised until every child in the country is at a fever pitch] comes along our exhibitors proceed to cash in. The extra 5 cents a head will not keep children away, and how it will swell the coffers of those who are glad enough of the dimes to help fill their houses on ordinary releases.

If they must raise a price, let it be the adults'. But, of course, the volume won't be as great and they won't make as much. D. L. B.

LOW WAGES FOR SAVERS.

Park Ridge, May 1.—Why should there not be low wages [interest] for savers and investors as well as low wages for workers? The law of supply and demand should work in all cases, and generally does except where there is monopoly or regulation of some kind.

When business gets better and there is a greater demand for money, interest will go up. If savers save more than others wish to borrow, it is inevitable that rates go down, and rightly so. We cannot expect producers [business] to give a greater share of production as interest to satisfy an ever increasing savings fund. ARTHUR PHILIP ANDERSON.

A HOUSEMAID'S POINT OF VIEW.

Geneva, Ill., May 1.—A point of view on the question of housemaids from one with nine years' experience:

In the first place a maid puts in far too many hours a week—five days of twelve hours each, six and a half hours on each of the other two days, which makes a total of seventy-three hours a week—a lot of hours.

Pray tell me where is there a household that works a girl less? I mean at a fair wage of $10 a week or more.

Here is my job that I've held for three years. I am 29. I wash and iron for six people, do all the work for a nine room house with a large basement, prepare five meals a day, and do all the cleaning. All evenings are free after 7:30 o'clock. My mistress and I have never had an ugly word. She is considerate. But I leave it to you, aren't the hours too long? E. M. N.

DIVORCE.

Wheaton, Ill., April 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please inform me what states recognize insanity as grounds for divorce? I was told that if I wrote directly to you, a reply would be forthcoming. E. L.

Minnesota is one of several states in which long confinement in an institution for insanity is a ground for divorce, but since the validity of a divorce depends on the court's having jurisdiction, it is not clear that you are in a position to obtain a valid divorce there. We suggest that you go over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

REPAIRS ORDERED.

Chicago, April 28.—[Friend of the People.]—Unfortunately, we live within twenty-five feet of an old, dilapidated, two story frame house. There is no foundation, but only a concrete wall that resembles one. The wall is about 12 to 15 inches above ground, but the depth very little. There is one flat rented and the rest of the building is vacant. It is in a dangerous condition, as a good windstorm might cause damage to property and people nearby. Please tells us what can be done to have this building condemned. There also is an old garage in the rear which up to this week was used as a stable. G. A.

Our inspector reports this is an old two story frame building on post foundation and in need of repairs. The owner has been notified to make necessary repairs or wreck this building. If this work is not done at the expiration of time allotted in our notice, we will proceed according to law. The frame barn in the rear is now vacant and has been cleaned.

ALTERNATE FIELD STUDIED IN CITY'S AIRPORT TANGLE

3 Sites Usable if Present Plans Fall Through.

Three other airports in the general vicinity of Chicago might be turned into first class flying fields where even the largest Boeing or Douglas four engined airplanes might be operated safely in event plans for enlargement of Chicago's municipal field fail to materialize. This was shown yesterday in a survey by airline officials and city authorities.

The search for alternate fields was begun after attorneys informed city representatives that even if Gov. Horner and the state legislature approve a bill allowing the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad to move its tracks off Chicago field the city and railroad will be delayed perhaps two years by condemnation proceedings in the courts.

Delay Pointed Out.

Contrary to first reports, the city and the C. & W. I. would not be able to post a bond to cover court findings and take immediate possession of property involved in the condemnation suits. Assistant Corporation Counsel Arthur Sullivan said that only the federal government is empowered to proceed with such dispatch. Other governmental agencies or units must await decision of the courts and payment of the judgments before taking over the land.

Yesterday's investigation showed that Chicago's position as the country's air center need not be jeopardized, however, by the difficulties at the municipal field, 63d street and Cicero avenue.

While there are twenty-two airports in the Chicago area, three to the west, south, and north are the most likely for airline transport purposes. The one detrimental feature in each instance is distance from the business area. Chicago airport is eight miles and fifty minutes traveling time from the loop, but the other three are each about thirty miles and 80 minutes away.

Ford Airport a Possibility.

The southern field is Ford-Lansing airport on the Illinois-Indiana line at Lansing. It is owned by the Ford Motor company. At present it consists of about 170 acres. The Ford company, however, owns a total of 1,600 acres in that area, most of which now is leased for farming. It should not be impossible to get 640 acres or a square mile from this huge tract under one owner, it was pointed out.

The area is flat and level and drainage and grading could quickly convert is into an adequate flying field. Asphalt runways of 4,500 feet or more in length could be installed in a few months, as could boundary and landing lights, radio equipment, etc.

The western field is the newly refurnished Joliet municipal airport, four miles west of Joliet. This field consists of 176 acres with one wide concrete runway 3,000 feet long and a second 1,200 feet in length. There are no obstructions around this field and conceivably it could be used in an emergency.

Curtiss Field Mentioned.

North and west of Chicago is Curtiss-Reynolds airport at Glenview. It consists of 321 acres, or nearly three-quarters of a square mile, and is at this time the best field in this area, so far as surface and general care is concerned. It is without adequate runways or boundary lights, but has a low powered radio station in the control tower. The only obstruction around the field is the 500 foot towers of radio station WBBM, immediately adjacent to the hangar.

NOTE THREATENS HARM TO THREE DAUGHTERS OF GOV. C. F. HURLEY

Nancy Hurley.

Boston, Mass., May 4.—(AP)—State troopers guarded the Cambridge home of Gov. Charles F. Hurley today while police chemists sought finger prints on a crudely printed note warning: "Beware, governor, your dogher will be missing one week from today."

Dogher was interpreted to mean one of Hurley's three daughters, Betty, 13 years old; Nancy, 6 years old, and Ellen Sarah, 5 months old.

The note, scrawled in black ink on a piece of unruled paper, was signed the Black Hornet. A postscript said: "Police won't do any good."

Public Safety Commissioner Eugene M. McSweeney, head of the state police, said smudges which might give a finger print clew have been found on the sheet.

COUNCIL CALLS UP OLD AIRPORT ZONE PROPOSAL

The city council yesterday passed a resolution which called from the files a zoning proposal for Chicago airport. This measure, which would limit the height of buildings near the airport to thirty-three feet and by a graduated scale to sixty-six feet within half a mile of the field at 63d street and Cicero avenue, has been tabled since late in 1936.

The measure was sent to the city building and zoning committee for reopening of public hearings. The proposals contained in the suggested ordinance have the approval of the city's aero commission, the bureau of air commerce, all the air line operators flying off Chicago airport, and the Association of Commerce Aviation committee. It was first brought to the attention of the council in 1932.

WHY WE BEHAVE LIKE HUMANS IS PUT ON EXHIBIT

Psychological Exposition Opens in Park.

The mysteries and mechanics of psychology came out of hiding last night for the edification of all the folks who don't understand such things. The occasion was billed as the world's first psychological exposition. It will continue through Sunday in the Golden Dome building in Garfield park.

The exposition is the joint enterprise of the Psychological museum, the Chicago park district, the Garfield Park Business Men's association, and the Lewis institute. The machines that the psychologist uses to find out what makes why are shown without charge.

Time of Reaction Measured.

At one place in the exhibition hall a large gentleman was instructed to yell "stop" into a microphone when he saw a light flash. The light flashed and the gentleman tried, but in his excitement only a garbled "hugh" came out. His voice stopped a clock that timed his exclamation at one-thousandths of a second.

The attendant, a graduate student in psychology, explained that the machine showed how long it takes an automobile driver to react when he sees a stoplight.

Test Fatigue of Girls.

Two girls tried to drop steel balls into the slots of a whirling table. The longer they stayed at it the worse they got. The attendant explained that the machine was designed by Dr. David P. Boder of Lewis institute to make fatigue tests on factory employés doing repetitious work.

How you sleep and what the lie detector does when you fail to tell the truth were demonstrated. The vibrations of music were translated into light waves so the audience could see, as well as hear, the effects of musical tones. Other exhibits showed how children are graded for various capabilities.

In a second floor hall invited guests attending the inaugural ceremonies heard noted scientists discuss psychology. But the people downstairs appeared to be having the most fun.

HELD BANKRUPT AT AGE 75 AFTER $450,000 DEFAULT

Federal Referee in Bankruptcy Wallace Streeter recommended yesterday that Howard P. Bishop, 75 years old, a trusted employé of the Crane company for fifty-three years, be judged bankrupt. The report was made to Judge Philip L. Sullivan, who set May 16 for a hearing.

The referee found that Bishop transferred what assets he had last fall to Mrs. Emily Chadburne, daughter of the late Richard Crane, when she learned he had taken $450,000 in securities from her safety deposit box, and had lost it all in several get-rich-quick schemes.

Bishop transferred his assets to Mrs. Chadburne, Referee Streeter held, either to escape criminal prosecution or in a laudable desire to help her recoup part of her losses.

VICTIM, 70, TELLS JUDGE HOW A DIP GOT BLACK EYES

Dan Daly, the pickpocket who lost his professional reputation by turning bandit, hung his head yesterday when the story of his capture was told Judge John J. Rooney in Felony court. That way it was harder to see Mr. Daly's two black eyes.

Louis Caesar, the frail looking man of 70 who blackened them, said the pickpocket, known as a dip in police parlance, held up David Davidson last Friday in Davidson's bakery at 1558 South Kedzie avenue. Mr. Caesar, an employé, gave Mr. Daly a lecture about going on relief instead of being a robber, and, when Mr. Daly refused to change his ways, gave him the black eyes and sat on him.

4 INDIANA FELONS POSSE CAPTURED BACK IN PRISON

Champaign, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—Four convicts who rode out of the Indiana prison at Michigan City in a freight car and were captured late yesterday were returned to that prison tonight.

Deputy Warden B. C. Ferguson, two prison guards and two Indiana state policemen escorted the felons on the return trip. It is expected the convicts will be placed in solitary confinement for some time as punishment for their flight.

Sherif Clarence Roth of Champaign county headed the posse that seized the felons. The convicts were Ernest Powell, 35 years old; Wilbur Dawson, 36; Frank Mears, 34, and Ernest Grigsby, 38. All were serving long terms for robbery and all had made previous escapes from prisons.

MOTHER OF PREACHER DIES.

Holland, Mich., May 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary L. Maycroft, 79 years old, mother of the Rev. Horace E. Maycroft, pastor of the Saugatuck Congregational church, died at the home of her son at Saugatuck Wednesday. Last August she and her husband celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary. She left a husband and three sons.

MISS VIOLA PALMER.

Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield avenue station last night was seeking other robbery victims to identify two men and a woman arrested early yesterday a minute after they completed their third holdup of the night.

The prisoners are Martin Lavelley, 26 years old, 3226 Seminary avenue; Robert Wendt, 27, 2018 North Keeler avenue, and Miss Viola Palmer, 21, 2727 Belmont avenue, a tavern dice girl.

Robbed of 30 cents in an alley near Diversey and Ashland avenues, Joseph Weinstein, 4940 North Winthrop avenue, drove around the block, picked up Policeman Emmet O'Beirne, and captured the trio.

Council to Study Homes of Used Material for Poor

At the request of Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], the city council authorized its committee on housing yesterday to inquire into the methods employed in other cities to supply homes for indigent families. Dwellings have been constructed in Detroit, Mich., with salvaged materials, he said. Chicago, it was pointed out, could reduce the cost of public housing enterprises by some similar plan.

YOUNG BURGLARS GET A CHANCE; BACK TO CRIME

Two young burglars who were given a chance to reform last spring reappeared yesterday before the judge who aided them and were held to the grand jury on four new burglary charges. Bond was set at $10,000 for each charge.

The youths, who have committed thirteen burglaries since last March 5, when they were released, are William Chapps, 18 years old, 9944 Indiana avenue, and Robert Berquam, 17, of 21 East 100th place. In court with them was Raymond Pimeo, 17, of 3509 West 65th place, whom they met while in the county jail. He was held to the grand jury on three charges of receiving stolen property under bonds totaling $30,000.

"Sometimes," said Judge Gibson E. Gorman sternly, "the court feels lenient, but now you have spoiled it for a lot of other boys. Whenever I want to give some one another chance I'll remember this case."

DEFEAT REBUKES INDIANA MAYOR FOR PRESS RAID

Election Result Hailed as Voters' Answer.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 4.—[Special.]—Defeat of Mayor Joseph W. Kimmel of Vincennes in yesterday's primaries was interpreted here today as a popular rebuke for Kimmel's raid on Walter A. Ewing's print shop and confiscation of type in a press muzzling foray.

Kimmel was defeated three to one by Guy Ballard for the Democratic nomination for state senator.

Kimmel's candidate for nomination for mayor of Vincennes, Claude Hill, was defeated by A. [Bud] Taylor. Taylor was backed by a group of Vincennes Democrats known as the Kimmel Machine Busters. Ewing, the printer whose shop was raided by police on orders from Kimmel, belongs to the group.

Attributed to Resentment.

Vincennes citizens regarded it as an upset of note as Kimmel has been something of a political power in his city for a decade and more.

It was attributed largely to popular resentment against Kimmel's methods in serving as a demonstrator of press censorship which Senator Sherman Minton is advocating in Washington.

On Mayor Kimmel's orders, Police Chief Noel Swayze Saturday raided the plant where Ewing prints ballots for seven counties. The police confiscated type used in printing a campaign circular against Kimmel. Manuscript for the circular had been brought to Kimmel by Floyd L. Young of the Machine Busters. Young is county attorney and past state commander of the American Legion.

Two Are Awaiting Trial.

Ewing was brought before Mayor Kimmel, sitting as Judge Kimmel in the City court, Monday, signed an apology, and an agreement was struck for both sides to let the matter drop.

Two licensed hand bill distributors, Melvin Ferguson and Paul Massey, arrested for giving out the circulars, are to be tried on criminal libel charges next Monday before a special judge in Vincennes court.

Aroused citizens declared the act was one of dictatorship. The response of the voters is regarded here as containing food for thought for the senatorship fight next fall.

Mayor Kimmel, in a Sunday radio talk, said he was a great friend and political ally of Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of the McNutt-Minton-Townsend state house machine, which in past campaigns has been attacked as a dictatorship.

Congressional Winners.

REPUBLICAN.

1—Elliott Belshaw, Munster [unopposed].
2—Charles A. Halleck, incumbent, Rensselaer [unopposed].
3—Robert A. Grant, South Bend.
4—George W. Gille, Fort Wayne.
5—Forest A. Harness, Kokomo.
6—Noble J. Johnson, Terre Haute.
7—Gerald W. Landis, Linton.
8—Charles F. Werner, Evansville.
9—Albert Meranda, Jeffersonville.
10—Raymond S. Springer, Connersville.
11—William O. Nelson, Anderson.
12—Charles W. Jewett, Indianapolis [unopposed].

DEMOCRATIC.

1—William T. Schulte, incumbent, Hammond.
2—Homer Stonebraker, Logansport.
3—George N. Beamer, South Bend.
4—James I. Farley, incumbent, Auburn [unopposed].
5—Glenn Griswold, incumbent, Peru.
6—Mrs. Virginia E. Jenckes, incumbent, Terre Haute.
7—Arthur H. Greenwood, incumbent, Washington [unopposed].
8—John W. Boehne Jr., incumbent, Evansville [unopposed].
9—Eugene B. Crowe, incumbent, Bedford [unopposed].
10—Finley H. Gray, incumbent, Connersville [unopposed].
11—William H. Larrabee, incumbent, New Palestine [unopposed].
12—Louis Ludlow, incumbent, Indianapolis [unopposed].

Allegations that election laws were flagrantly violated were made today by Archie N. Bobbitt, Republican state chairman, in a letter to the state election commission. Bobbitt said that, although the Australian ballot law provides for secret voting, in many precincts voters were forced to mark their ballots on open tables in the presence of political workers.

Married Secretly

ORIEN HEYWARD.

Hollywood, Cal., May 4.—(AP)—The secret marriage of Orien Heyward, film actress, and Harold Spurrier Anderson, Los Angeles business man, was disclosed today. They were married last Friday afternoon at Point Lobos, near Carmel-by-the-Sea, California.

The ceremony was held in the open, under an archway of cypress. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Freeman Heyward of Louisville, Ky. Before coming to Hollywood she was a model in New York.

RUBBER WORKERS SCORN PAY CUT; 5,000 JOBS FADE

Akron, O., May 4.—[Special.]—Akron faced the probability of the loss of 5,000 rubber jobs by further decentralization today after the Goodrich local of the United Rubber Workers of America voted, 2,251 to 210, to reject a proposed contract with the B. F. Goodrich company.

L. K. Callahan, president of the local, announced the vote against the eighteen point agreement, which embodied a 12.3 per cent wage cut.

T. G. Graham, vice president of the Goodrich company, had warned the union and Akron that unless the wage cuts were accepted Goodrich would be forced to move 5,000 jobs to plants outside Akron to put it into a better competitive position.

The local fought bitterly against the wage cuts, declaring that Goodyear, Firestone, and other tire companies also would cut wages if the Goodrich proposal was accepted.

Oak Lawn Postmistress Accused of Stealing $6

Mrs. Julia Brook, 50 years old, acting postmistress of Oak Lawn, was arrested yesterday on a charge of opening a letter and taking $6. She was arraigned before Edwin K. Walker, United States commissioner, who scheduled a hearing for May 12.

TWO ROOSEVELT BACKERS BEATEN IN S. D. PRIMARY

Favored Senator Winner in Florida Vote.

Sioux Falls, S. D., May 4.—[Special.]—Two ardent Roosevelt supporters were swamped by conservative Tom Berry, former governor of South Dakota, in yesterday's race for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Nearly complete returns today gave Berry a majority of about 17,000 votes over his two opponents, Senator Herbert E. Hitchcock and Congressman Fred H. Hildebrandt. Hitchcock, 70 years old, appointed by Berry in 1936 to fill an unexpired term, ran a poor third.

G. O. P. Vote Is Large.

Berry, a colorful rancher, will oppose J. Chandler Gurney, Yankton business man, in the November election. In winning the Republican nomination for United States senator, Gurney polled 3,500 votes more than Berry. Gov. Leslie Jensen was Gurney's closest opponent in a field of four.

Harlan J. Bushfield of Miller, Republican state chairman, won the nomination for governor in his party, while Oscar Fosheim of Howard is the Democratic gubernatorial nominee.

Alabama Runoff Necessary.

Birmingham, Ala., May 4.—(AP)—A runoff June 11 in Alabama's governorship race appeared certain tonight as hope faded for a clear majority for the leading candidate in the Democratic primary vote Tuesday.

Frank Dixon, Birmingham attorney and war veteran, led a field of five candidates. Vieing for the probable runoff with Dixon were State Representative Chauncey Sparks of Eufaula and R. J. Goode of Gastonburg, state commissioner of agriculture.

Representative Joe Starnes of Guntersville led J. Thomas Heflin, colorful former senator, in the 5th district congressional race by 5,000 votes, with ninety-five precincts out.

"Rubber Stamp" Nominated.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 4.—[Special.]—Despite charges he is merely a rubber stamp for President Roosevelt, United States Senator Claude Pepper was renominated by Florida Democrats in yesterday's primary. The President's son, James, came here to give the Roosevelt blessing to Pepper's candidacy.

LEADER OF NEW MINERS' UNION ASSAILS LEWIS

Charges He Dominates Labor Board.

The Progressive Mine Workers of America, new international union chartered by the American Federation of Labor, yesterday opened a campaign to convert members of the United Mine Workers [C. I. O.] back to the federation. The new union, which is headed by Joe Ozanic, has opened international headquarters at 53 West Jackson boulevard.

Will Work for Peace.

"Experience has shown," he said, "that whenever Lewis is given an opportunity to assert himself, whether it is in his own mine workers' union or with public bodies, he disregards the interests of labor and seeks to get a temporary personal advantage by packing the court."

He declared the coal commission was unfair to the Progressive union when it refused to seat a member of the union as labor's representative on the Illinois district board of the commission. Instead, Ozanic said, it recognized a Lewis appointed United Mine Workers representative, even though the Progressives have more than twice as many members in Illinois as the U. M. W.

Charges Lewis Rules N. L. R. B.

Ozanic said organizers would set out immediately to establish twenty-eight P. M. W. A. districts in the United States, which will parallel the organization of the United Mine Workers. He sent a letter to federal and state authorities asking them to notify his union of all matters concerning the industry.

The letter charged that John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, dominates the coal commission and the labor relations board to further his personal ambitions and the activities of the C. I. O.

The letter was sent to the governors and labor department heads of twenty-five coal producing states, the national bituminous coal commission, the national labor relations board, the house labor and civil rights committees, and cabinet officers dealing with labor problems.

LABOR URGES CO-OPERATION AS WAY TO PEACE

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor today declared that the basic aims and objectives of the federation committed it to private initiative and the protection of private property.

The statement invited industry to discard "the weapons of industrial warfare" and to "substitute co-operation and understanding for industrial strife."

"All of this is easy of accomplishment because all that is required is to respect and recognize the economic, legal and industrial rights of both capital and labor," the statement added.

Creation of work opportunities in private industry was held by the council to be "the real remedy."

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

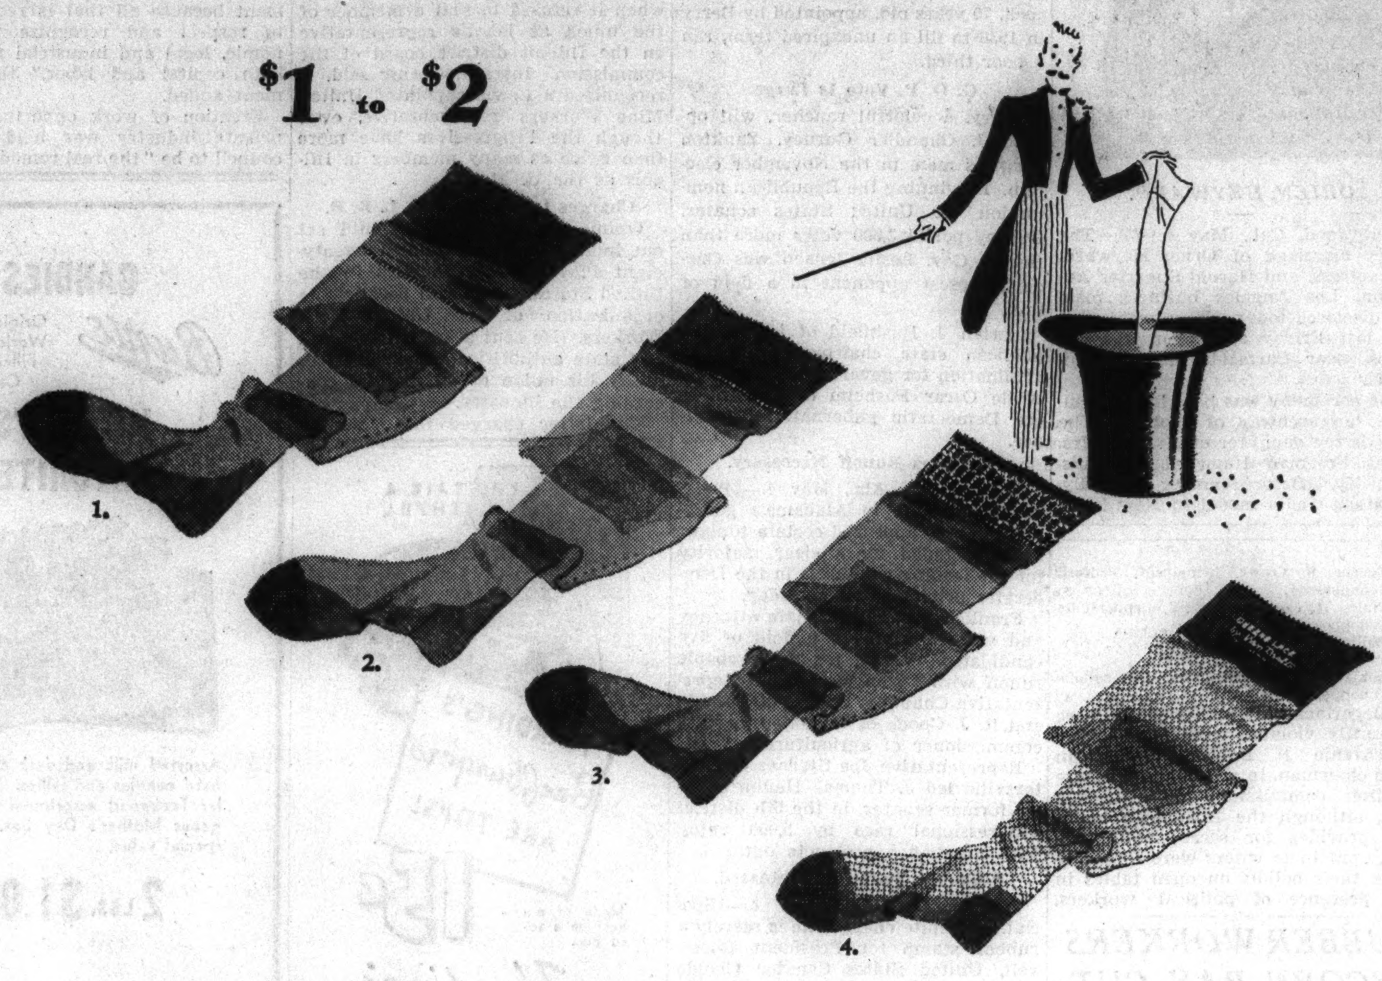
Sheer Magic by Van Raalte

spirits away Mother's hosiery problems

Sheer magic—these four hosiery styles from Van Raalte in colors she will applaud whether she likes the bright or the more neutral side of fashion. If she has never worn "frivolous" hosiery, compliment her with sheer, Sheerio two-threads or Queen's Lace. If she likes them sensible but sheer, give her long wearing chiffon 3-threads. Each has a reputation for flattery of fit and comfort of "feel."

HOSIERY, FIRST FLOOR

$1 to $2



1. Gay 51 . . aristocrat of 3-threads, looks much sheerer than it really is, yet wears beautifully. $1.35

2. Philmy . . a flattering 3-thread, at a very modest sum for its quality and clear, smart colors. $1.00

3. Sheerio . . 2-thread chiffon for her dressiest appearances. In daytime colors, evening iridescents. $1.15

4. Queen's Lace, a frivolous mesh stocking. In a filigree pattern created for longer wear. $2

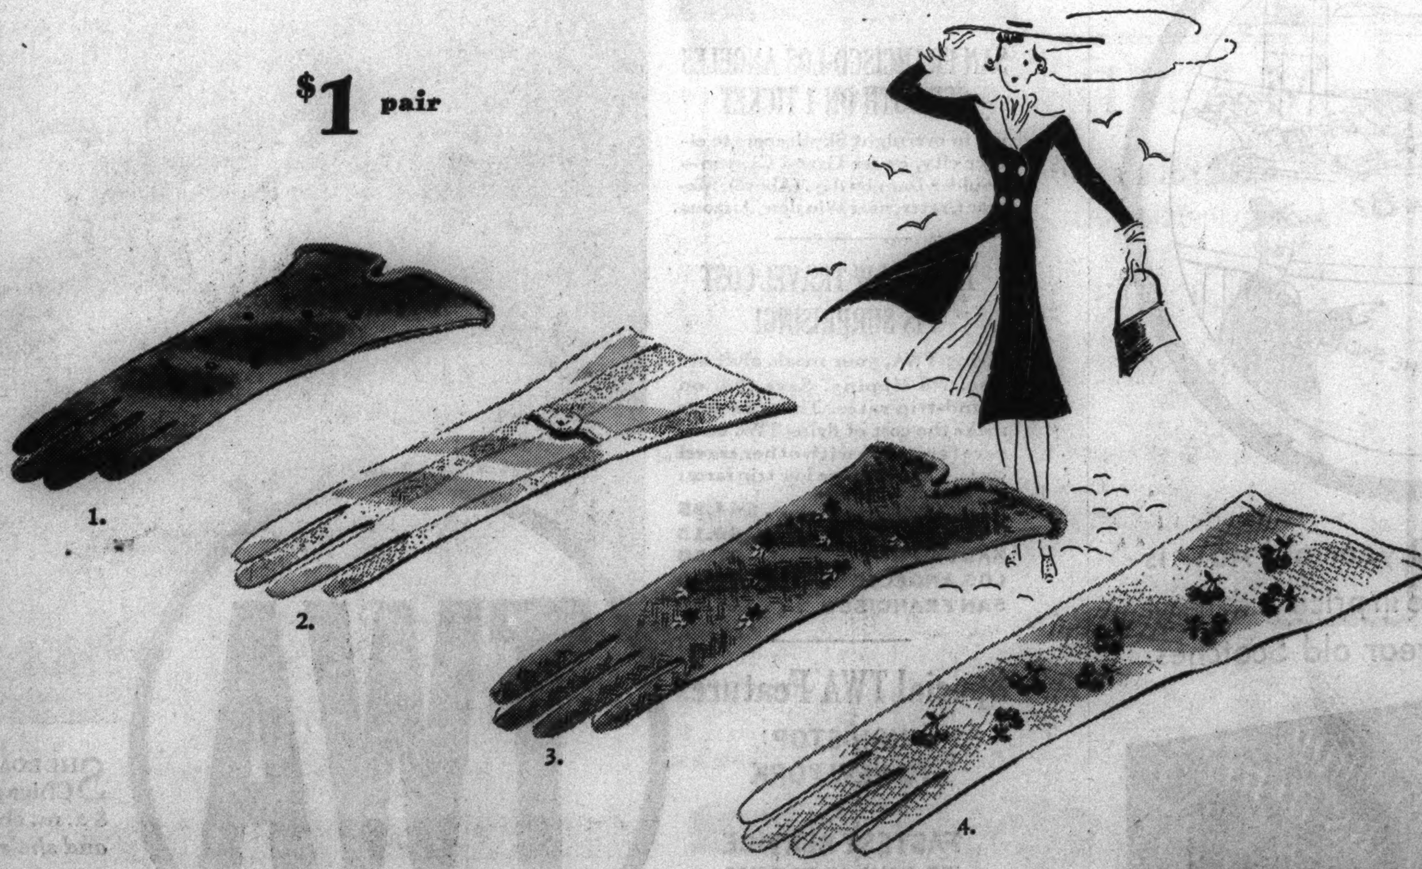
Airy Salute to Mother's Day

Van Raalte's dainty mesh gloves

Four charmingly pretty ways to convey your thought to Mother on her day. Gloves as quaint and cool as lace mitts, as new and smart as a Paris hat. You'll choose from many styles in this group, in long or short lengths, with tailored or dressy details. These colors are included in the group—white, navy, black, beige, Paris copper, pink, light blue.

GLOVES, FIRST FLOOR

$1 pair



1. Paris says, "two fabrics are smarter than one," so mesh is combined with petal-smooth rayon Fauntex. $1

2. Two fabrics again, in plain slip-ons of rayon Fauntex and openwork mesh for her more tailored moments. $1

3. "Honey Comb," as airy as its name implies: blooms with gay embroidery in these cool slip-on gloves. $1

4. The new long length so smart with short sleeves in these mesh gloves abloom with bright embroidery posies. $1

U. S. CLEANS UP BALLOT FRAUDS AT KANSAS CITY

Judge Reviews Efforts to End Vote Dishonesty.

Kansas City, Mo., May 4.—(AP)—Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis virtually swept his docket bare of 1936 election vote fraud cases today by accepting guilty and no contest pleas in wholesale lots, and announced from the bench six achievements made possible by the government's prosecution of ballot box crimes.

He accepted revised pleas of 88 defendants and assessed what he termed merciful sentences against 69 because he said, "the great things that have been accomplished will not be made greater by the imposition now of harsh sentences."

Only eight of the 96 indicted election workers who paraded through the court today adhered to their original pleas of innocence. Judge Otis set their trials to start Monday.

16 Enter Guilty Pleas.

Sixteen entered pleas of guilty and 72 pleaded no defense, throwing themselves on the mercy of the court.

The sentences ranged from a year and a day in federal prison down through three and six month jail sentences to fines as low as $25. Many were placed on probation.

The accomplishments Judge Otis listed as he passed sentence were:

"1. It has been demonstrated that the laws of the United States safeguard citizens against thievery and fraud at all general elections.

"2. It has been shown beyond any possibility of doubt that the elections in Kansas City have involved widespread thievery and fraud.

"3. It has been proved that any actual or implied promise of immunity for ballot box crimes by whomsoever given cannot be made good.

Finds Assurance for Others.

"4. It has been demonstrated that as yet there is in America no power strong enough to thwart the administration of federal justice.

"5. An honest municipal election now has been held in Kansas City under the supervision of commissioners of courage and integrity, executing the will of a chief magistrate who believes that a public office is a public trust.

"6. Renewed hope has been given decent cities; now they can more assuredly believe that every man and woman entitled to cast a vote will have that vote counted as cast."

Besides his praise, without naming him, of Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, who named the new Kansas City election board, Judge Otis commended the work of Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves and U. S. District Attorney Maurice Milligan.

Some Cases Deferred.

The judge deferred sentencing 19 of those who entered pleas of guilty or no defense because others in their precincts must stand trial. They will be sentenced at the close of those trials.

New Yorker Runs Up $24 Cab Bill and Is Arrested

Oliver C. Gilbert of New York City was held by the Evanston police yesterday on a charge of defrauding a taxicab driver of a $24 fare. The driver, Roy Henrickson, 6236 North Bell avenue, said Gilbert engaged his cab at Howard street and Chicago avenue in Evanston and traveled around Chicago for eleven hours, stopping off to see various persons, none of whom was available.

SEEK TO IDENTIFY WOMAN KILLED IN STATE ST. PLUNGE

Ignores Pleas as She Leaps from Roof.

Investigators last night were seeking to discover the identity of a woman about 53 years old who leaped to a spectacular death in State street yesterday from the top of the eleven story Goldblatt Brothers store.

Among the most important clews were two envelopes such as bank customers use to carry their bankbooks. These were found with $650 in large bills in a purse which the woman had deposited on a ninth floor fire escape shortly before her leap. One envelope bore the name of the First National bank of Chicago and the other of the Emigrant Industrial Savings bank of New York.

See Woman on Roof.

Workers in the rear rooms of the Fisher building at 343 South Dearborn street noticed the woman on the roof at about 4 p. m. They notified the Goldblatt offices and Hyman Spector of 1039 Hollywood avenue, operating superintendent of the store, ascended to the roof.

By the time he arrived the woman had climbed a small iron ladder to a nine foot wall that passes around the entire roof and was looking down into State street.

"Don't jump," cried Spector. "Let me talk to you for a minute. I have a present for you."

He, too, climbed to the ledge and started toward her. Without replying to his pleas she turned her face away and plunged toward the ground. Her body struck in the street, three feet beyond the curb, and directly in front of an automobile. A filmy scarf that had draped her shoulders floated back to Spector as she jumped.

Inquest Set for Today.

The body was taken to the funeral chapel at 425 Plymouth court, where an inquest will be held today. The victim was about 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighed 160 pounds and had brown eyes, brown hair, and false upper teeth. She wore a cream colored blouse, a maroon skirt and brown hose.

REVEAL CHICAGO SUIT BY FORMER WANAMAKER WIFE

Asks $150,000 Given to Mystery Fiance.

A suppressed damage suit for $150,000 brought by Mrs. Violet Cruger of New York, the divorced wife of the late Rodman Wanamaker, New York and Philadelphia merchant, against William H. Whitcomb, identified as a retired army officer and former resident of the Chicago Athletic association, came to light in the Federal court here yesterday.

Because Whitcomb could not be found the suit was suppressed when it was filed last September. Judge Charles E. Woodward disclosed it yesterday when he ordered a hearing on May 20 to show cause why it should not be dismissed.

$150,000 to Him, Says Bill.

Mrs. Cruger, who divorced Wanamaker in 1923, met Whitcomb in Reno in 1935, according to the suit, and invested $12,000 in a gold mine company he was representing. Soon after, he proposed marriage, the bill says, and persuaded her to turn over to him $53,000 worth of securities. Thereafter, in consideration of love and affection, as the bill puts it, Mrs. Cruger assigned property to Whitcomb until she had given him a total of $150,000.

Whitcomb eventually told her he was unable to marry her, the bill says, but did not explain why. The bill quotes from one of his letters:

"We are in agreement again. How odd that it is such an opposite agreement to the one we had in the spring. You have been unwilling to marry me. Maybe it will ease your mind to know that I am now unwilling to marry you."

Chicago Lawyers Waiting.

The suit was filed by the law firm of Green, Costigan & Wines at the request of a New York attorney. Joseph E. Green of the Chicago firm said he is awaiting instructions as to the disposition of the case. Whitcomb was not known at the Chicago Athletic association.

Mrs. Cruger was Wanamaker's second wife.

CAPITAL ALLEYS' TENANTS RENT REBUILT HOMES

Pay Low Rates and Get No Subsidies.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Of all the public housing officials with whom this city teems there is only one who can say with certainty that his projects have furnished decent housing to real slum dwellers. He is John Ihlder, executive officer of the alley dwelling authority of the District of Columbia.

He can prove that he rehoused slum dwellers, because some of the people from the alley slums he has cleared up live in one of his projects. But he did not build new houses for them. He fixed up the dilapidated brick shacks in which they lived, making those habitable. Furthermore, the tenants pay full economic rents. They are not subsidized.

He Becomes Unpopular.

Mr. Ihlder's accomplishments and the theories he holds as a result of his experiences make him highly unpopular with the majority of the professional housing cult in the capital.

They have been proclaiming from the housetops that the lowest income classes can be given decent housing only at the expense of subsidies which, in practice, have proved terrific. Along comes the alley dwelling authority and houses some slum dwellers, people able to pay far less rent than is charged for the elegant subsidized housing, and provides homes without subsidies.

The subsidizers insist on building new, highly expensive dwellings in which they promise to place families of the lowest income class. Up steps Mr. Ihlder and, on the basis of his experience in building new housing, asserts that it never will be practicable to build new dwellings for slum dwellers.

Key to New Building.

It is his theory that if new dwellings are needed they should be built, at modest cost, for the middle income class, and rented without subsidies. Then, he holds, it will be possible to take slum dwellers out of their present inadequate dwellings, if the latter cannot be made habitable, and install them in the old dwellings vacated by families of higher income.

Such a step naturally would make unnecessary a reduction of rents on the older dwellings. Mr. Ihlder contends that with proper management such property already should have earned enough to write off its capital cost, and that owners could, in most instances, base rents on a return on land alone, plus operating and maintenance costs.

"John Ihlder is the most dangerous man in the housing movement," said one of his indignant critics. "He is using public funds to compete with private enterprise."

That charge is true. The difference between Mr. Ihlder and his critic, however, is that he takes tenants away from private enterprise and requires them to pay their own way.

Alley slums are a problem peculiar to Washington. Pierre L'Enfant made them possible. The freedman's bureau populated them in the civil war reconstruction period. Congress has been trying to abolish them ever since 1872.

He Planned That Way.

Maj. L'Enfant, planning the future capital on President Washington's orders, provided wide streets and blocks or squares of large area, with alleys for interior access. Before the civil war slave owning families housed their black servants in quarters on these alleys which, because of irregularly shaped blocks, are often completely isolated from the streets.

After that war 30,000 freed slaves flocked to Washington. They settled in the communities on the alleys.

The act setting up the alley dwellers authority was proposed during the Hoover administration, but was not passed until 1934. The authority has power to condemn and purchase any Washington square which contains alley dwellings.

To date, because of lack of funds, the authority has not met this requirement in full. It has demolished 153 dwellings, replaced only 94. Only four of thirteen squares acquired have been used for housing purposes.

This reflects Mr. Ihlder's conviction that it is a mistake to put so-called low cost housing on high priced land near the Washington central business district, where several of the alley squares are located.

The eleven dwellings rehabilitated are located in the project now know as Hopkins place. The buildings are very narrow, two stories high, and the rooms are quite small. The work, aside from subcontracts for plumbing, electric wiring, fences, and screen doors, was done by relief labor.

Use of this labor, along with the piecemeal way in which the work was done in order to provide shelter for the majority of the tenants while it was going on, operated to increase costs and to prolong the construction period over 36 weeks. The average cost per room was as follows:

Cost of old building	$157
Land cost	80
Sub-contracts	121
Materials	49
Labor and superintendence, WPA	189
Total	$596

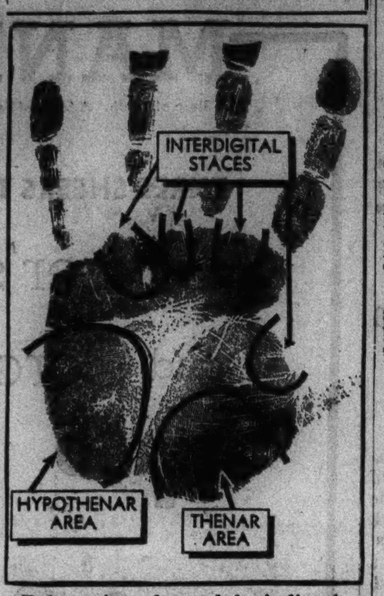
Print Baby's Palm



Palm print of an adult, indicating the six areas in which patterns are classified. Sixty-four primary combinations are possible based on the areas alone, and when the patterns in each area are classified, the possible combinations run into the millions.

A plan which does away with the chance of mixing the identity of newborn children was described yesterday by Dr. Gilbert P. Pond of West Suburban hospital, Oak Park, speaking before the Tri-State hospital assembly in the Hotel Stevens.

The Pond system uses the palm prints of infants instead of footprints. The advantage, according to Dr. Pond, is that the palm print is a permanent record. More than three million prints can be filed without chance of confusion, he asserted. The system now is used in eight hospitals in the Chicago area and has been used at West Suburban hospital for three years.

More than 2,500 persons attended yesterday's session of the three day convention, most of them staf members from hospitals in midwestern states.

SPENDING SPREE BILL DEBATE TO START TUESDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.] — By unanimous consent the house agreed today to begin consideration of President Roosevelt's five billion dollar pump priming program next Tuesday. Debate on the measure is to be limited to ten hours, and leaders hope to obtain final passage Thursday or Friday.

The bill then will be sent to the senate. Prospects of an adjournment before June 1 rest on the amount of time which the measure will require in that group. Some senators predicted that the bill would be considered by the senate appropriations committee for one week and that its consideration on the floor would occupy a week or more.

3 Prisoners Escape Jail as Ice Cream Is Delivered

Mount Carmel, Ill., May 4.—(AP)—Three prisoners escaped from the Wabash county jail tonight when Mrs. Ella Mayne, mother of a deputy sherif, opened the door of a cell block to deliver some ice cream brought by the wife of one of the men. The escaped prisoners are William House, Edward Davis, and Gilbert Shane, arrested three weeks ago after a shooting and altercation in a Mount Carmel tavern. Two other prisoners were in the same cell block, but made no effort to escape. Mrs. Mayne said Mrs. House brought ice cream to the jail for her husband.

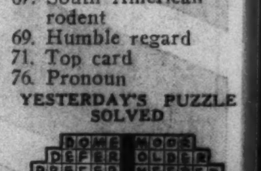
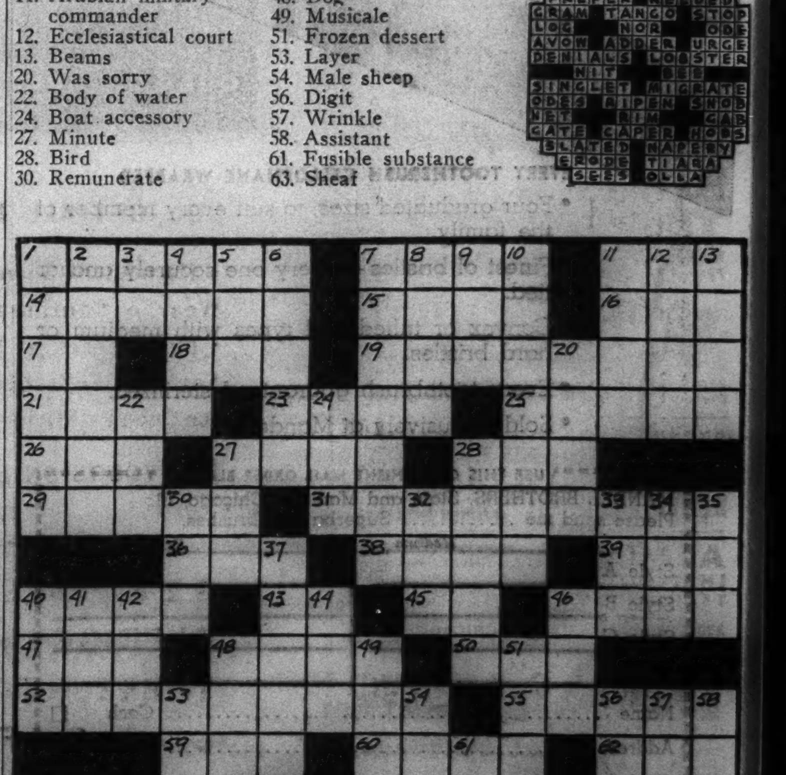
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

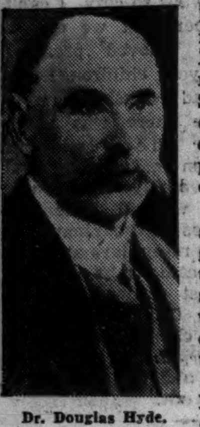




DR. DOUGLAS HYDE IS NAMED FIRST IRISH PRESIDENT

Government Frees Foes in Political Amnesty.

DUBLIN, May 4.—(AP)—The government, in a peace gesture on the election of Dr. Douglas Hyde as the first president of Ireland [the former Irish Free State] today ordered the release of six prominent political prisoners.



Dr. Douglas Hyde.

The release amounted to a general amnesty to Republicans since these six were the only ones in jail in the country.

Dr. Hyde, a Protestant, was elected to head this predominantly Catholic state at a ceremony in the government buildings, attended by representatives of all Ireland's political parties.

Ceremony in Gaelic.

Invited by the two largest parties to accept the presidency, Dr. Hyde was unopposed. Therefore, under the new constitution, he was formally declared elected by acclamation for a seven year term to begin on June 1.

The informal ceremony, lasting only five minutes, was conducted in Gaelic. The president-elect is one of the foremost champions of the use of the old Irish language. Wilfred Brown, the returning officer, merely declared Dr. Hyde unopposed and elected. Dr. Hyde is 78 years old and a retired university professor. He has written a number of books.

Soon to Offer Loan.

Finance Minister Sean MacEntee announced that the government would float a loan shortly to finance part of a $50,000,000 payment to Great Britain under terms of the new Anglo-Irish agreement. The amount of the loan was not specified.

Trade returns showed Ireland's adverse trade balance for the year ending March 31 amounted to $113,003,850—the highest on record. The figure for the corresponding 1936-'37 period was $88,652,420.

BRITONS STUDY CANADA-IRELAND BOMBER FLIGHTS

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 4.—A plan to fly bombers across the Atlantic ocean from Canada to bases in Ireland is being studied by the British air mission to the United States, it was learned today in London.

That was the reason for the mission's keen interest in the Boeing flying fortress, the only existing bomber able to make the flight.

Boeings covered 2,500 miles nonstop across the Andes mountains, it was pointed out, and the Newfoundland to Ireland hop is only 2,000 miles.

[During a good will flight to South American countries early this year six United States army flying fortress bombers flew 2,695 miles nonstop from Miami, Fla., to Lima, Peru, and six hours later hurdled the Andes to Buenos Aires, Argentina, 2,500 miles away. The planes left Miami Feb. 17 and returned to Langley Field, Va., on Feb. 27.]

The bombing of European points from Canada, or vice versa, still is impossible, although a suicide squadron willing to give up hope of returning might make a spectacular but unimportant raid.

The British see a possibility of building big fleets of planes where they would be entirely safe from an enemy and storing them in Canada before a war starts, then flying them across the ocean when needed. With bases in Ireland they could bomb Berlin less than twenty-four hours after starting from Canada in good weather.

A modified type now under construction will weigh 53,000 pounds loaded, against the 45,000 pound weight of the craft used in last summer's test flights.

With a range of 2,000 miles—and Berlin, for example, is less than 1,000 miles from Ireland—the ships could carry five tons of bombs when stripped of their passenger fittings.

A commercial seaplane base already exists in the River Shannon. Since the Irish let it be known that they will coöperate in case of war, the British could use that.

Allowing a 1,000 mile hop from the factory to Newfoundland and a 2,000 mile jump across the ocean and time for refueling and loading bombs, the planes in normal weather easily could sweep across Europe as far as Berlin and beyond within a single day from the start.

WED OR UNWED MOTHER? JUDGE ORDERS INQUIRY

Judge John J. Lupe ruled yesterday that there was insufficient evidence to establish the marriage of Mrs. Hattie Rusch Farrell and Richard Farrell, an accountant, and directed the state's attorney's office to investigate the case. The judge denied the supposed Mrs. Farrell's motion for temporary support money for herself and her daughter, Eileen, 9 months old.

Mrs. Farrell, who is 30 years old and lives at 4855 Winthrop avenue, has a separate maintenance suit pending against Farrell. She testified yesterday that they were married in 1931 at Waukegan.

Attorney Norman Becker, representing Farrell, then introduced a document signed by the woman after her baby was born last August. In it she accepted $900 as full amount for the child's support, admitted the child was born out of wedlock, and said Farrell was not the father. Mrs. Farrell admitted signing the paper, but asserted she did not realize what she was doing.

HELD TO GRAND JURY AS SLAYER OF HER HUSBAND

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Mrs. Adeline Chesney, 38 years old, be held to the grand jury on a charge of murdering her estranged husband, Frank Kohler, 43. Her confession was read to the jury. In it she said she and Kohler were going to her tavern at 1708 North Ashland avenue last Monday when he became abusive. She drew her gun, she said, and when he dared her to shoot she did so. The shooting occurred at Ashland and Wabansia avenues.

De Paul Choir Alert, Accurate in Its Singing

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The spring parade of out of town choirs through Chicago was varied last evening by the appearance in Kimball hall of a resident group. The De Paul university a cappella choir, under Arthur C. Becker's direction, sang the music of Palestrina and of the Russian ecclesiastical composers as well as a few secular and folk songs.

Mr. Becker has worked successfully to give his unit variety of tone quality and dyanmic interest. The choir's work is precise and musicianly. A reasonable flexibility of tempo and an air of direction in the phrases combine to create an impression of attractive aliveness.

In general, the actual tone quality is good. Occasionally a forte tends to become a bit forced and sopranoish.

The program was broken by instrumental groups by two artist students of the De Paul university school of music. Leon Brenner, violinist, played two movements of the Tschaikowsky concerto. Henry Rose, pianist, offered the first movement of Bach's Italian concerto, the Chopin Berceuse, and Beethoven's "Lost Penny" rondo.

Both students possess a remarkable mechanical dexterity and the beginnings, at least, of that personal, communicative urge which marks a fine interpreter. If Mr. Rose cast grave doubt on the latter part of this statement by a headlong and almost completely unintelligible performance of the Bach, he redeemed himself somewhat in the Chopin.

THE STAGE

"Three Waltzes," an operetta based on music of the Viennese school, has canceled its Chicago booking, which was scheduled to start in the Grand Opera house on May 23. The show will end its tour, because of bad business, on May 21.

The International Theater of Chicago will end its season of French plays this week with a production of "Le Voyage de M. Perrichon," a comedy by Labiche and Martin. Performances will be given in the Goodman Studio theater tomorrow evening and Saturday morning and afternoon. The cast will contain Elmina Blais, Suzanne Noble, Zélie Claverie, Jeanne Stiennon, Louis Rousseau, Jules Duc, Paul Deac, Réné Melin, Jean St. Anne, and M. Alizier.

The "Electra" of Æschylus, classic Greek tragedy, will be given by Vassos Kanellos and his company in the Goodman theater on Tuesday evening, May 10. Folk dances of ancient Greece will also be on the program. The production will be dedicated to the memory of Tanagra Kanellos, wife of the director, who died shortly after her appearance in Orchestra hall about a year ago.

According to CULBERTSON

AN UNUSUAL TYPE FINESSE.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

In countless hands, declarer's method of playing one single suit, not necessarily the trump suit, may spell the difference between success and failure. Certain card combinations are baffling to the average player who has not taken the pains to analyze, or study, the "percentage" play. Such a combination is involved in the heart suit in the following hand:

East, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ J 8 6 4
♥ J 9 5 2
♦ J 4 3
♣ A 5

WEST
♠ None
♥ 10 7 6
♦ 10 9 7 5
♣ 10 8 6 4 3 2

EAST
♠ K 7 3
♥ K Q 8
♦ A K Q 2
♣ Q J 9

SOUTH
♠ A Q 10 9 5 2
♥ A 4 3
♣ K 7

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 no trump	Double	2 clubs	Pass
Pass	2 spades	Pass	3 spades
Pass

West opened the ten of diamonds. East overtook with the queen and attempted to cash the king and ace. Declarer ruffed the third round, then entered dummy with the club ace to take the spade finesse. East did not cover the jack, but continued spade leads to track down the king. Declarer could see then that the success of his game contract depended squarely on holding his heart loss to one trick. The missing K-Q-10 of hearts made any orthodox finesse out of the question. For example, to lead dummy's heart jack through East could not possibly avail because East certainly would cover and, after declarer won with the ace, he would have to concede tricks to the ten and the other high honor. To lead the nine spot from dummy would be equally ineffectual. If East had the ten he would cover and still preserve two heart tricks for his side, whereas if East did not have the ten he would let the nine ride, and declarer would either have to put up the ace or lose to the ten in West's hand. Thus, a heart lead from dummy had nothing to recommend it. There was, however, a possible distribution of the heart honors that could be highly favorable to declarer. That was to find East with the two top honors and West with the ten spot. With nothing to lose and everything to gain, declarer first cashed the king of clubs, then led a low heart toward dummy and, when West played the six, put in dummy's nine. Obviously, East was helpless. He took the queen but could make no return that would win another trick for his side. The king of hearts return would be smothered by the ace, whereas the low heart would be allowed to ride to the jack. The return of either a club or a diamond would permit a heart discard by declarer and a ruff in dummy.

Declarer was fortunate to find a favorable heart distribution but, nevertheless, deserved credit—and got it—for playing the heart combination in the best available manner.

Christian Ministers to Hear Rabbi Talk on Bible Pharisees

Prof. Finkelstein.

The synagogue of Chicago will be host to the Christian church today at the Palmer house when three rabbinical scholars will tell Protestant pastors what Judaism has meant during the ages and means today. The pharisee of Bible days and his relationship with earliest Christian days will be a principal subject with Prof. Louis Finkelstein of Jewish Theological seminary of America, New York, telling that story. Dr. Finkelstein is highly regarded as a scholar. Other speakers include Prof. Zevi Diesbruck of Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati, O., and Dr. A. L. Sachar, national director of Hillel foundation. The program was arranged by Rabbi Joshua Loth Liebman of K. A. M. temple in cooperation with the Federation of Jewish congregations, the Chicago Church federation, and Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago.

BY MARY MEADE.

I shall always hold that fruit desserts are the best desserts. Whole, fresh fruits in a bowl or tray may be centerpiece for a meal and then may be eaten at the end of the meal. These make one of the loveliest and simplest desserts. I am also greatly addicted to simple fruit sauces, fresh or canned, for dessert.

Then there are other simple fruit desserts which serve well to conclude a family or company meal. Some of them are these:

Quick Banana Dessert.

[Serves six.]

6 ripe bananas
½ cup orange juice
4 tablespoons brown sugar
1 cup coconut

Peel and cut bananas in half, lengthwise. Place in greased baking dish. Mix orange juice and brown sugar and pour over the bananas. Sprinkle with coconut. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes.

COOKIE SHORTCAKE.

Allow three large, round plain cookies per person. Use any fresh fruit or berries, or a combination of fruits, and sweeten to taste. Place a cookie on each dessert plate, cover with a spoonful of fruit, another cookie, another spoonful of fruit, and a third cookie. Top this with a little whipped cream, or with more fruit. Spiced or chocolate flavored pie pastry may be used instead of cookies. Graham crackers will do nicely, too, for every day occasions.

Baked Prune Whip.

[Serves four.]

⅔ cup prune pulp
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 egg whites
⅛ teaspoon salt

Beat egg whites and salt until stiff, but not dry. Blend sugar and lemon juice with prune pulp [cooked prunes put through the ricer], and fold into the egg whites. Turn the mixture into a greased baking dish, or individual cups and place in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until firm, about 45 minutes. Serve at once with whipped cream or soft custard topping.

Prune whip needn't be baked, of course. This recipe may be followed for an unbaked whip, but the whip shouldn't be mixed until shortly before serving time. Any dried fruit pulp, apricots, peaches, pears, etc., may be used for such a whip, baked or unbaked, or a combination of fruits may be used. Fresh or canned fruit pulp of any kind may be used in the same manner, with a variation in the sugar used to suit the tartness of the fruit used.

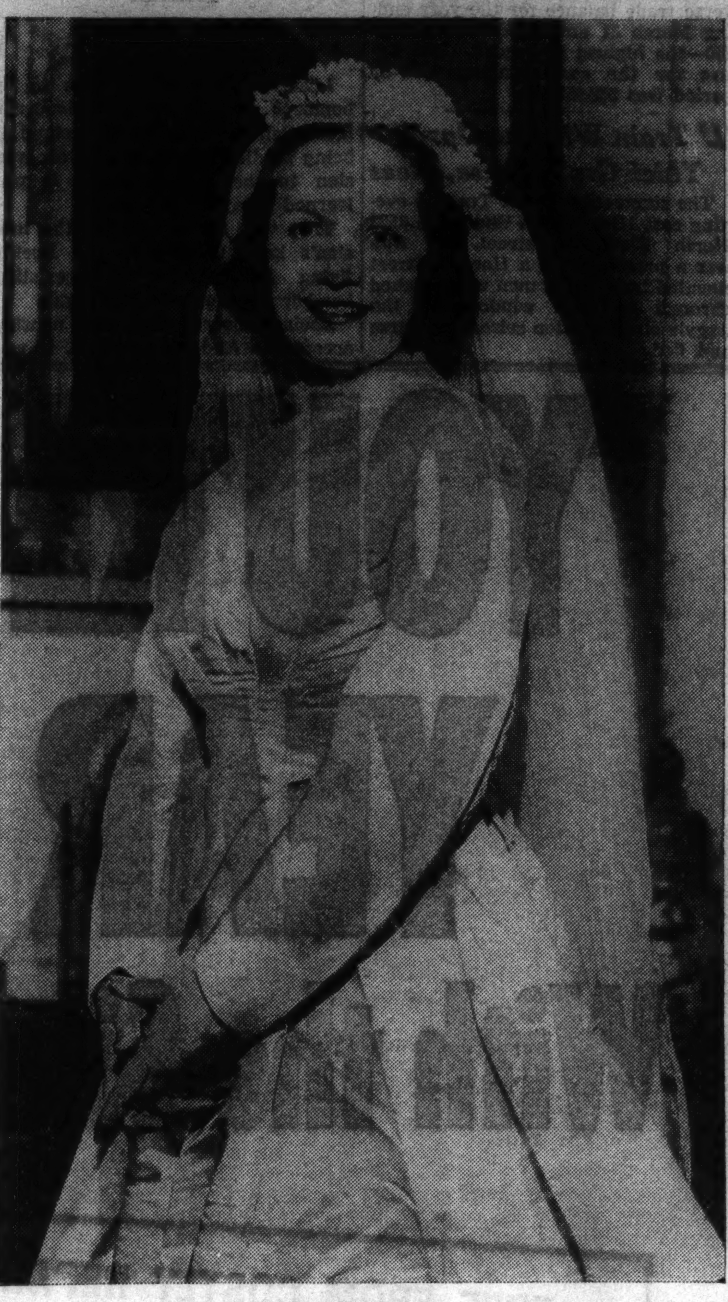
Truancy on Decline in Chicago Schools Since Staf Increase

Truancy is on the decrease in Chicago public schools, William L. Bodine, superintendent of the board of education bureau of compulsory education, reported yesterday. The report said that since school opened last September 4,889 absences, out of 52,159 reported for investigation by truant officers, were due to truancy. This is a decrease of 1,448 truancy absences for a comparative period the preceding school year.

Bodine attributed part of the decrease to the addition of 12 new truancy officers since January, 1937, increasing the staf to 135. Among major cities, he said, Chicago has the highest attendance percentage based on elementary school membership, 95.3 per cent. Chicago is third highest in senior high school attendance ratings, with 95 per cent.

Bridal Gown of Another Day



[TRIBUNE Photos.]

A June bride of 72 years ago wore this wedding gown but it would be equally pretty and charming if worn by a 1938 bride. It now belongs to the Chicago Historical society, so it will not be worn by any modern bride, just occasionally by young women for the purpose of displaying it at the society. In this picture Mrs. Dwight Green is wearing it. It originally was worn by Miss Virginia Burton when she became the bride of Ira Holmes. Mrs. Green is a member of the Chicago committee of Arden Shore, so even now is working with the other committee members on plans for the annual benefit ball to be given on Oct. 8.

Critic Admires Light Brush of Arnold Turtle

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A delightful exhibition of oils and water colors by Arnold E. Turtle has opened at the Palette and Chisel Academy of Fine Arts, 1012 North Dearborn street, to continue to June 1. In the larger room are hung the fine oils and in the little room are the water colors.

Among the oils there is a vast amount of picturesque and sensitive painting. The same quality that runs through the water colors, a medium, by the way, of which this painter is particularly fond, is felt in the more pretentious work.

Mr. Turtle has a flair for color and a delight in understatement. He who wishes a realistic scene will turn away disappointed. These landscapes and river scenes, these glimpses of town or village, are not presented in any commonplace manner; rather do they possess a lyric quality that makes their reading a venture into poetry and romance.

Mr. Turtle's art is neither static nor academic. It is modern in the best sense of that much abused word. There is something decidedly chic about his still life of flowers, for example, and the "Summer," "The Bayou," and "Hillside" [to choose three canvases at random] are alive with gleaming colors that carry from point to point the sensitive theme outlined in his drawing. It is almost as though a bird had drawn her wing across the canvas, so softly and so lightly does the painter draw his brush, and yet, despite the delicacy of the work, the painting never fails to convey his meaning.

The water colors are delicate and sensitive in color and deal with many picturesque places from Florida to New Orleans and back. They are little couplets written with a trained hand.

In the larger gallery are three stunning heads in sculpture by Trygve A. Rovelstad. These represent three of the figures who compose the Pioneer Memorial to be erected at Elgin. Mr. Rovelstad worked as a student in Lorado Taft's studio and the influence of that inspiring place with its master spirit is seen in this work.

The heads are magnificently sane. The finished work should be a distinguished addition to famous Illinois sculpture groups.

WEDDINGS

The wedding of Miss Jane Stephenson Skidmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Skidmore of Marinette, Wis., to J. Kennard Lusty of London, England, took place on April 28. Miss Skidmore is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. J. Nelson Ludington of Chicago and a granddaughter of the late United States Senator Isaac Stephenson.

The wedding of Miss Janet Raemy Benson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther William Benson, to Clarence Hotchkiss Rowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rowe of La Grange, took place on April 30 in the Wilmette Methodist Episcopal church. Mr. Rowe and his bride will live in Mentor, O.

The wedding of Miss Evelyn Ernster, daughter of Mrs. M. Ernster of Oak Park, to Dr. Frank J. Krivanek, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Krivanek of Berwyn, took place on April 30. Dr. Krivanek and his bride are spending their honeymoon in the Smoky mountains.

Rainy Days Can Be Enjoyable for Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

It's a raw, rainy day as I write. When I was a child I used to adore rainy days. I not only liked the rain, but home was always so cozy. I can't seem to remember that we did so very much—the beloved presence [are you that to your children?] was always there; and books that were enticing because there was never enough time for them; and our grandmother often made candy that we watched devotedly till it was hard; and there was an uncle who told us wild tales of imaginary adventures. I loved rainy days at home.

When my turn came to be a mother I liked them just as well. There's something about being shut in together with your children as the rain beats against the pane, and the wind gives a swoosh, and you know you just couldn't go out.

There are a lot of things you can do indoors together with your children on a rainy day, no matter what their age, and for that reason it's good not to get too busy or tackle a job of any sort that requires a long time, or concentration. If you do you won't be inclined to squnch down on the floor beside your little son and the electric train; or join the girls and their doll's tea party; or tuck up on the couch and read that enthralling story aloud; or be ready to answer the questions that come only in these rare, uninterrupted times; or stop to find old blankets and quilts for an Indian tepee, and sandwiches and a flashlight lantern; or give yourself over to a long, leisurely, heart-opening talk with your usually-gay-and-busy tall daughter or son.

Social Circles Turn Minds to Kentucky Derby

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE'S only one place where "Gee-Gee society" will be this week-end and that's Louisville, for there at historic Churchill Downs on Saturday the country's finest 3 year olds will race in the 64th Kentucky Derby. Sitting in the boxes will be noted owners of race horses from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada, and thousands of others who never owned a horse nor ever hope to own one, but who like to watch the gee-gees run and to bet on them.

The Derby is the culmination of a whole week of merrymaking in the Kentucky city, for ever since last Saturday visitors have been pouring into Louisville, which opens wide its gates and dispenses southern hospitality in a regal manner during Derby week. There are parties galore this week, in hotels, clubs, homes, and the private cars in which many go each year to the classic race and in which they live during the four, five, or six days they are there. Breakfast parties on Saturday start the day convivially, and every year there are some who enjoy so tremendously the breakfast parties they attend that they never reach Churchill Downs in time to see the famous race.

Stuyvesant Peabodys Staying at French Lick.

Chicagoans who go to the Derby often go to French Lick Springs to rest during Derby week and then drive over to Louisville on the day of the race. The Stuyvesant Peabodys, who some years take a house in Louisville, this year are staying at French Lick, where they will be joined today by the junior Peabodys. The George E. Van Hagens are in the Chicago colony at French Lick this week, also.

The Charles Deere Wimans and their Derby guests, including Mrs. Clive Runnells, the Russell Kelleys, and Preston Boyden, are going south in a private car, and so are the David A. Crawfords, who will be accompanied by the George A. Kellys and the Philip Connells. The Crawfords are returning on Sunday, for they want to see their daughter, Elizabeth, ride in a horse show in La Grange that afternoon. Only amateur riders will compete in the show, which will be held at Stanley Luke's stables, and hunters from the Mill Creek, Longmeadow, and Wayne hunts will be taken over the jumps, which will include an Irish bank, new to this part of the country.

Young Mrs. Robert F. Carr's grandfather, Samuel A. Culbertson, who lives in Louisville, has a box at the Derby, of course, and he invited the Carrs to go with him, but they were not able to go. Mrs. Carr's brother, Samuel A. Culbertson II., and his fiancée, Miss Beatrice Kunhardt of New York, will be there, though.

Among other Chicagoans who will see the race are four young bachelors, Robert G. Anderson, Alanson Donald, George Bent, and William R. Dickinson, who visit Yale classmates each year; the Farwell Winstons, who always enjoy Derby week with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Roland; the Woolsey Pollocks, the Orville Taylors, the Mark Browns, the Harold Wileys, Mrs. John Kellogg, and Abner Stilwell, who will be the guest of the Warren Wrights. Mr. Wright may be the proud owner of a Derby winner Saturday afternoon, for his Bull Lee is scheduled to start in the race.

The Taylors included Louisville on their itinerary of a southern motor trip so they could see the Derby and the Browns are seeing it on their way home from New York after a Mediterranean cruise.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The flower basket sachet, a new whim that is a charming Mother's day gift. It's of gleaming white satin, with fresh looking, fragrant artificial carnations peeping over the edge.

This year people are going simply mad over sachets. It's a boom if ever we saw one. A pleasant one, too.

Just inspect those around town that have been especially trotted out for the Mother's day gift giving; you'll find them charming.

Carnation seems to be the fragrance of this day, and while you needn't stick to it there are some special carnation offerings that are truly exciting. One of our favorites is a carnation flower basket sachet that is one of the prettiest little gifties we've ever seen. It's a flat little basket in white satin, beautifully made and exquisitely stitched in either blue or pink.

There is a little braided, twisted handle that not only completes the flower basket illusion but enables it to be hung on hangers or hooks in the closet if you prefer that to slipping it in the drawer. There are three incredibly fresh looking artificial carnations peeping out of the basket's edge.

And the whole lovely thing is just saturated in carnation sachet that will stay fresh and spicy for a long, long time. It's a pretty gift, a winner with both sentimental and modern mothers.

Then there are charming little party bag sachets, very quaint little satin bags much like those dainty ladies carried way back when. Inside each, wrapped in a filmy chiffon handkerchief, are three balls of sachet that can be tucked into the drawer, pinned to the clothes hanger, or even worn.

The pink satin bag is the one to choose if you wish the traditional Mother's day scent of carnation; there is also a white one filled with balls of a fine gardenia sachet.

And if you want something quite inexpensive but sweet in its own way, look at the bandana kerchief case—also a sachet, in carnation. It's cute as can be. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Times Change! Fashion Smiles on Gunny Sack

BY RHEA SEEGER.

What will he glorify next! Everything imaginable from big meshed dish cloths to sailcloth is being used from hats to footgear. The latest brain wave is the gunny sack or to put it with more swank, burlap.

Chocolate brown and off-white are the colors; the finds are short sleeved, rib hugging brief jackets with matching skull caps.

You wear these with linen dresses in contrasting colors; with snappy pleated short skirts of silk or linen or flannel, or with dresses with pleated skirts. They're so new and fresh they would take your last penny, but don't worry about your lunch money, for these jackets are priced around $5. The lining is thin, soft calico. The workmanship and tailored lines make these models look much more expensive than they are. The dinks or skull caps are lined to match the jacket and fit better than the usual run of such casual headgear . . . and boast a dollar price tag.

While looking at jackets see the fetching little affairs in printed calico, quaintly reminiscent of the old-fashioned charmers granny used to wear with full skirted, button-down-the-front gowns.

Balaban & Katz to Close Oriental Theater May 26

The Oriental theater, stage and screen show house, will be closed May 26 because of business conditions, John Balaban, secretary and treasurer of Balaban & Katz corporation, announced yesterday. The corporation has a long term lease on the theater, which was opened twelve years ago. Denying reports that two other theaters would be closed, Mr. Balaban said that the Garrick would become an all-news reel theater in two weeks.

Club Federation Dedicates Tree to Constitution

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Chicago's past and its future were linked yesterday as the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs interrupted business sessions of the 43d annual convention to dedicate a Constitution tree near the north entrance to the Field museum. The elm is to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the constitution.

Descendants of Illinois pioneers and of Indians who took part in the Fort Dearborn massacre heard Mrs. Charles S. Gerds of Chicago, citizenship chairman of the federation, call the tree "a symbol of appreciation of our form of government that has served so well for 150 years."

Soil from the site of Fort Dearborn, from the spot at Damen avenue and the Chicago river where Joliet and Marquette wintered in 1674-1675, from the Eleven Mile house, an inn built in 1836 and still standing at 92d and State streets; from various places associated with Lincoln, and from other historic sites was placed about the tree by club members from each district of the federation.

Mrs. Frances Winters of Norwood Park and her daughter, Miss Frances Winters, brought soil from an Indian cemetery on land inherited by them from their Pottawattomie grandfather, Chief Alexander Robinson, who signed the treaty giving Chicago to the white men. They still live on this land. Clearwater, descendant of Chief Big Foot, who fought in the Fort Dearborn massacre, and other Indians in costume witnessed the dedication.

The prediction that the tree "shall serve as a reminder to our children's children of the constitution and its blessings" was expressed by Mrs. Edward J. Lehman, state president, who presented the tree to the Chicago park district.

Nominated yesterday to succeed Mrs. Lehman were Mrs. Albert H. Johnson of Chicago and Mrs. William T. Bruckner of Hinsdale. Mrs. Johnson, former Sixth district president, and Mrs. Bruckner, former Du Page County federation president, both have been conspicuous for welfare work and for administrative service in a variety of capacities. Announcement of the new officers will be made at the closing banquet tonight.

Lotte Lehmann Stricken During Covent Garden Opera; Leaves Stage

LONDON, May 4.—(AP)—The sudden illness of Lotte Lehmann tonight halted a brilliant performance of "Der Rosenkavalier" at Covent Garden. The diva, singing the rôle of the princess of Werdemberg, suddenly broke off her song in the first act and threw up her hands crying "I can't go on."

She bolted from the stage and the curtain was rung down while attendants hurried for a physician.

A specialist who examined her said the soprano was suffering from a chill and advised her not to continue the performance.

Another Covent Garden singer, Hilde Konetzni, who was in the audience, took over Lehmann's rôle twenty minutes later.

Mme. Lehmann's physician said she would recover in a few days.

Film Exhibitors Urge Pay Cuts for Fading Stars

Hollywood, Cal., May 4.—(AP)—A group of motion picture exhibitors said today that Greta Garbo, Mae West, Joan Crawford, Katharine Hepburn, Kay Francis, and other movie stars had lost their drawing power at the box offices and should have their salaries slashed.

A representative of the movie actors countered with the charge that the statement "is the result of a group of brain fagged individuals trying to pick a fuss where none either exists or belongs."

"We want the Myrna Loys, the Gary Coopers, the Sonja Henies, but we want them when we get value, not when they drive people away from the box office," said an advertisment of the Independent Theater Owners' association of New York, appearing in a Hollywood trade paper.

Charles Schwartz, west coast representative of the group, said the advertisment was designed to "wake up the producers, in a constructive way, to the fallacy of paying top salaries on long term contracts to stars who do not pay returns on the investment."

"We'd like to get together with the producers and have some voice in exhibiting the pictures that are unloaded on us," said Schwartz. "The producers are fully aware of the stars who attract business. The few producers who do not have theater affiliates merely have to consult their percentage contracts to determine the money makers."

Executives of one studio blamed the condition on the actors' agents, saying they had "boosted stars' salaries to the point where production can no longer be maintained on a high scale and still pay the two leading players $300,000 a picture."

Paramount and Twentieth Century-Fox said they were building up young players for box office to counteract the "excessive salary" condition.

The trade publication advertisment approved of that practice. It said: "The success of the Jones family pictures, the Mr. Motos, the Charlie Chans, and the Judge Hardy pictures are straws in the wind. Producers are now, or soon will be, concentrating on the making of good pictures, not merely surrounding a $5,000 a week star with any sort of vehicle. Sound judgment and good business sense are valuable assets in an industry that is far from being an art."

About the stars the advertisment had this to say:

"Garbo is a tremendous draw in Europe, which does not help theater owners in the United States. Hepburn turned in excellent performances in 'Stage Door' and 'Bringing Up Baby,' but both pictures died. Paramount showed cleverness and consideration for exhibitors by buying off Marlene Dietrich's contract in full for one more picture. Dietrich, too, is poison at the box office. Kay Francis is still receiving many thousands a week from Warners on an old contract. Yet, so far as her draw, she is now making 'B' pictures."

Yesterday Miss Hepburn and RKO failed to agree on a new contract and she is free to negotiate elsewhere.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Hollywood Mirror.

Basil Rathbone, soft-hearted villain.

Hollywood, Cal., May 4.—"In 'Tale of Two Cities' I rode down some children and killed them. I beat the daylights out of little Freddie Bartholomew. I threw Garbo out of the house. I made friends with a nice old lady in one picture, then stole her paintings and murdered her. As a butler in another picture I forced all the other servants in the house to give me 10 per cent of their earnings, and when an old servant asked me not to take 10 per cent from him because his wife had to go to the hospital, I said, falsetto key: 'That does not concern me. Give me the money.'

"I have forced my unwelcome attentions on Garbo, Claudette Colbert, Sigrid Gurie, Loretta Young, Olivia De Havilland, and others too numerous to mention. And I'm sick of it." The speaker was Basil Rathbone, movie menace.

"I meet people at house parties," he continued, "and they take one look at me and draw away to another corner of the room. If a guest loses a pocketbook I can tell that the other guests believe I swiped it. Just recently I was visiting some friends and I happened to walk out into the hall at the precise moment a little boy left his mother's side and walked into the hall. Just as we both got out of the room he tripped and fell and let out a terrible yell. The mother came rushing out, and before I could say a word she howled: 'A man of your age—punching a little boy. Don't say you didn't do it; I saw what you did to that dear, sweet little Freddie Bartholomew. Your brutal character is written all over you, Mr. Rathbone.' I'm fed up with it." The speaker still was Basil Rathbone, movie meanie.

As a matter of fact, as the result of his screen villainies, you expect to find Rathbone wearing a sneer, a turban, and a silk kimono when you visit him at his home. I half expected to hear chains rattling as the door opened, and to come upon Rathbone in his laboratory mixing graveyard sand into a devilish Borgia brew.

I steeled myself to meet him leer for leer, and to be as icily contemptuous as he was in reel 5 of "Adventures of Robin Hood." In the midst of this planning in came Rathbone:

"Stagehand lost," he repeated dully. and seemed so overcome by this that he was about to break down.

"Stagehand lost," he repeated dully. "This little horse that almost came to be one of the Rathbone family at Santa Anita finished no better than third. I can't believe it." This tender hearted chap a villain? I departed hence, I could hear his tears splattering noisily on the pages of a racing sheet.

No performer has won so much attention on the local night club circuit as Maxine Sullivan, Sepian namesake. Last night, at Phil Selznick's club, Robert Montgomery, Warren William, Charles Boyer, Pat Patterson, the Jack Oakies, Lewis Milestone, David Selznick, and twenty other film names were on hand to hear her sing her swing version of "Loch Lomond."

She hasn't much of a voice, but she tricks the star making qualities of phonograph records, which are again an important adjunct of show business. Maxine Sullivan became known as a result of the sale of her records, which also graduated the Schnickelfritz band and the Andrews Sisters into the big time brackets.

Earlier in the evening the movie colony deserted Bel-Air and Beverly Hills for the fifteen mile trip to Los Angeles, where Clifford Odets' "Golden Boy" was having its coast stage première, with Francis Lederer, Louis Calhern, Betty Furness, Sammy White, Lee Cobb, and fifteen others bringing the characters to life. This is Odets' poorest play, in my opinion, and his unfamiliarity with prize fighting, of which he wrote, is at times amusing and most of the time bewildering. What this one lacks most grievously, however, is sincerity, which always hall-marked his work.

When he is on familiar ground, in the living room of a poor family, Odets is sure and incisive. His portrait of the Italian father is sensitively drawn, and Actor Cobb realized it fully. Sammy White, erstwhile Ziegfeld hoofer, won raves from the movie colony as the wisecracking son-in-law. Lederer, Betty Furness, and Calhern all were excellent, and Lederer stripped the part to perfection. Orchestra Leader Johnny Green was the most nervous chap in the audience. His young wife, Betty Furness, was playing her first big lead and Johnny bit his nails, fidgeted, roamed unhappily about the lobby. He didn't have to—Miss Furness was grand in the part.

I never realized what it is that you miss out here until "Golden Boy." Between acts we went out into the lobby of the threater to smoke. That's what you miss most, these between-the-acts intermissions.

Sam Goldwyn, who told New York reporters that movie production costs must come down, is being hooted by the directors and writers whom he roasted. They point out that the most extravagant producer in Hollywood is Sam Goldwyn, who discarded $500,000 worth of developed film at a crack because he didn't like what had been done. I think that they've got Goldwyn there, because his record bears out the contention of his extravagance. His lavishness is well known.

SYNOPSIS.

Elizabeth Sandal inherits an unexpected fortune on the death of her husband. A will made early in their marriage makes no mention of their children, Dorothea and Oliver. Elizabeth is distressed when Dorothea expresses a desire to have her own London flat. Oliver spends a week-end with his employer, Sir Michael Bryce.

INSTALMENT IV.

BITTERNESS.

Shouts of excitement and commiseration and some laughter from the company drowned Oliver's indignant denial for several minutes.

"Oliver, my poor lamb, what a shame! Is it true—why, I thought——"

"I always knew he was a dark horse. Or do I mean a whited sepulchre?"

"If you'll just allow me to get a word in," said Oliver above the din. "Halliday is trying to be funny. It's a lie and in dam' poor taste at that."

"I give you my word, old boy," protested the other man. "Tommy Vickery told me. Isn't he a connection of yours? We did a show together last night and he was hot in your defense. Said your governor had left quite a pile and cut you out of the will and it was a dam' shame. He said his mother had gone to your people and said exactly what she thought about it and quite right too."

"O, he did, did he? Well, you can take it from me we have not set eyes on any member of the Vickery family during the last twelve months," retorted Oliver. "So that is one lie disposed of. As for my father's cutting me out of the will, it's a gross slander. The only will which has yet come to light, if you must know, happens to have been made before I was born or thought of, at the time of his marriage."

He was beside himself with indignation, his pride affronted, and though Prissy led the conversation to the more fruitful topic of missing wills, every one produced real or imaginary instances of such documents turning up in the most unlikely places, he hardly heard what was said.

Oliver's bubble of satisfaction in short had burst, and throughout the evening he grew more and more depressed.

"Did you have a nice week-end, darling or have you been working all the time?" asked his mother at dinner the next evening.

"No . . . yes—quite all right, thanks," returned Oliver sourly. "As a matter of fact I was rather put out."

He proceeded to repeat what Halliday had said with rising indignation, and a good deal of strong language at the expense of the Vickerys, and so heard for the first time of Mrs. Vickery's visit on the preceding Friday.

"You didn't tell me a word about that," he exclaimed accusingly to his mother.

"It went out of my mind. You forget, it was such a rush to get off on Saturday morning," said Elizabeth.

"But really, mother, can't you see what a fool it makes me look? . . . and a liar in the bargain. I swore to Halliday we hadn't set eyes on any of the family for twelve months." Oliver pushed his plate aside with a gesture of irritation. "What in heaven's name did you say to her?"

"Nothing at all," she managed to say, bewildered and distressed. Oliver at this moment was his father over again and the dreadful familiarity of the sensation within her was mingled with some other feeling which she could not name. Something was lost—gone.

She saw him staring at her incredulously, waiting, and somehow pulled herself out of the nightmare of confusion in which she was enmeshed.

"She asked me if another will had been found. . . . I wondered how she could have heard of it, Oliver. . . . And when I said no, she talked a great deal of nonsense about searching the house . . . there wasn't anything else. . . . She's so strident and certain, as though your father might have hidden his will behind the wainscot."

"I suppose you have searched the house thoroughly all the same," put in Oliver with a frown, catching her up.

"My dear, where do you expect me to look? You went through his desk yourself. Your father wasn't the kind of man to hide important documents. You must know that as well as I do."

"It doesn't seem to me that I know anything whatever about him," returned her son. "His behavior has been crazy enough. . . . Sorry, mother, but we've got to face facts. What has my father ever done for me except grudge every penny I cost him? I've had to make my own way, without even a paltry allowance though I'd had scholarships for six years, when he could perfectly well have given me a hand. Is that a reasonable way for a man to treat his son?"

"Oliver! Don't! . . ."

"You are not the only person concerned either," broke in Dorothea. "I have earned my living too, haven't I, and with less help than you? Mother didn't sell her Chippendale to give me an allowance at Oxford, for instance. You seem to forget that little item, my lad. . . . O, you needn't think I mind, but it may occur to you that if father had made another will, he might have shown a preference for me as mother has always shown one for you."

"Dorothea!" exclaimed her mother.

"It's all right," said the girl with a faintly patronizing smile. "I don't blame you. It's nature and you can't help it. Actually, I know quite well father liked me the better of the two."

"That is beside the point," exclaimed Oliver. "Whether he liked you or not, you are a girl and haven't my responsibilities. The natural thing was for father to leave the money in my charge with a proviso that a specified sum should be paid to mother during her lifetime, and so much to you either now or when you marry."

"O, thank you very much. You do think I have a right to a few pence then? You are talking drivel," retorted Dorothea coolly. "What are these marvelous responsibilities that you have so mysteriously acquired of a sudden? The fact is, Oliver, you are suffering from a rush of Bryce to the head. Perhaps you mean to marry into the family and set up in Mayfair on our money? Is that the great idea?"

"Suppose I do hope to marry Prissy now I can afford it, what is that to you?" retorted Oliver, stung. "Isn't my carrer of some importance? Can't you see how much a marriage will help it and how damnable these lies are? What are the Bryces likely to think? I simply can't imagine how you let that Vickery woman get such an idea, mother."

"You are engaged to this girl, and you never even gave me a hint!" his mother said in an incredulous voice.

"Well, of course I am not engaged," exclaimed her son. "How could I possibly ask a girl who is used to every luxury to marry me until I could prove I had the means to support her? It is all Dorothea's fault if I blurted it out so suddenly and gave you a shock, but after all isn't it natural that I should want to marry? You married, yourself."

"Yes, I married, myself."

Oliver did not notice the bitterness of his mother's tone and went on eagerly:

"Well, there you are! And now you want peace and quiet and a decent income and no worry, and that's what you're going to have. I'm perfectly willing to give Dorothea whatever allowance you think is fair, as far as that goes. And to begin with we'd better give her what the Chippendale fetched as she seems to feel that a grievance."

Dorothea shouted with laughter.

"Well, I am damned!"

"Be quiet, both of you!

"Your rights, your careers, your money, your grievances," Mrs. Sandal cried. "Have you no decency that you sit there quarreling over your father's property and abusing him as you do? I am ashamed of you. What have you ever gone without that we could give you?"

Southern Methodists Approve Union; Foes Plan Court Appeal

Birmingham, Ala., May 4.—(AP)—Backed by approval of its "supreme court," the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, turned to perfecting merger with the other two branches of Methodism today while a group of "secessionists" prepared to fight unification in civil courts.

The Southern Methodist judicial council upheld legality of the general conference's vote for union.

At Columbus, Miss., however, Dr. J. W. Lipscomb, president of the Laymen's Organization for Preservation of the Southern Methodist Church, announced his group would go to court "to save our beloved church."

A conference of delegates from the Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Protestant, and southern churches will meet within twelve months to launch the unified church.

The Housewife

If you are weary of trying to remove the stains of vegetable acids and cooking foods from your kitchen pots and pans why not try the new stainless steel ware? It is proof against all food acids, even those of rhubarb, spinach, lemon, and tomato, and it is also immune to alkali and salt.

For these reasons it is as easy to clean as china. Food does not stick tightly to its hard, smooth, dense surface.

EDITH WEIGLE.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Skin Bleaches Should Be Used with Caution

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

We heard in a second-hand, rumorish way about a youngish woman who suffered rather serious difficulties over the excessive use of a bleaching agent she took on to rid her hands and neck of those brown blotches sometimes described as "liver spots." So, we thought it well to warn readers not to overdo on bleaching agents. They are all right when backed by a reputable house, and when you follow the directions printed on them. But when you take it upon yourself to judge how often the applications should be renewed and in your zeal you use far too much, you may head for serious trouble.

A good rule to observe in connection with bleaching cream, no matter how mild it is, is not to leave it on overnight. Follow the printed directions and you'll be playing safe.

The reason for the appearance of the brown splotches or spots known as "liver spots" seems not to be definitly determined.

But nowadays a woman need not get an inferiority complex over the condition, what with the clever ruses that may be adopted through makeup. One authority suggests in makeup you use a brown-toned lotion over the white area and a lighter-toned lotion over the darker blotches. Simpler, perhaps, is the use of one of those tried and true blemish covers, the modern magician in so far as hiding skin imperfections is concerned.

The Tennysons plan to spend the summer in California instead of going to their home on the Isle of Wight.

Here for a day or two on their way from Washington back to the Quarter Circle U ranch in Birney, Mont., are Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Brewster. They are stopping in Winnetka with Dr. and Mrs. Rodney Starkweather, who visited at the ranch a year or two ago. The Quarter Circle U, situated on the Tongue river, was the hunting camp of George W. Brewster of Boston in the buffalo and Indian war days, and subsequently the late Mr. Brewster settled there. The property, which consists of 60,000 acres of owned and leased land, now is operated by his family as a cattle ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jelke have returned to Lake Forest after having spent the late winter and early spring at their Palm Beach home.

Musicians to Give Arts Club Program.

This afternoon professional musician members of the Arts club will entertain their fellow members, professional artists and writers, and lay members and their guests with a musical program, which will start at half past three o'clock. Tea will be served following the program.

John Palmer, vice chairman of the music committee, has arranged this afternoon's musical. The chairman, John Alden Carpenter, and Mrs. Carpenter have not returned to Chicago from a trip to Jugo-Slavia and the French Riviera, although they have returned to this country. They are lingering in New York and the date for their arrival is indefinite.

Anniversary Party at Gads Hill Center.

As a part of the fortieth anniversary celebration of Gads Hill center the staf and board of trustees are given a symposium and tea this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the center, 1919 West Cullerton street. Paul Kellogg of New York will be the speaker and his subject will be "The Place of the Social Settlement in Modern Industrial Centers." A motion picture with sound portraying the activities of the center will be shown.

Bruce Johnstone is chairman of the committee that has planned the tea and among those assisting him are Mrs. Robert McKisson, Mrs. Rufus Jeffris, Mrs. William J. Hough, Mrs. Willis D. Nance, Mrs. Vernon M. Welsh, Mrs. Edward L. Hicks Jr., Mrs. Tom E. Hough, Mrs. Lon C. Hill, and Mrs. Lynn E. Aldrich.

Mrs. Harley MacNair, Mrs. Paul S. Russell, and Mrs. Edgar Goodspeed are giving teas this month to arouse interest among their friends in the Hyde Park Neighborhood club. The club was founded just after the turn of the century by Mrs. Frederic Woodward's mother, the late Mrs. Lyman Walton, as a play center. Now it takes care of children who have no other place to play.

Mrs. Russell's party will be given next Monday and Mrs. Goodspeed's on Wednesday. Mrs. MacNair hasn't set the date for the tea she will give. The parties all will be small.

Women's Faculty Club Holds Luncheon Tuesday.

The Women's Faculty club of Northwestern university medical school, of which Mrs. Michael Mason is president, has cards out for its spring program and luncheon next Tuesday at 11 o'clock at the Arts club. Mrs. Arthur Byfield will sing and Clark M. Eichelberger will talk on "How Can the United States Avoid Another War?" Mrs. Gilbert Marquardt is in charge of reservations.

Dr. Max Clauss will speak at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at 12:30 o'clock next Tuesday in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house. Dr. Clauss will discuss "German Foreign Policy—1938" [as seen from the German viewpoint].

International Night to Aid Booth House.

An International night program for the benefit of Henry Booth house will be presented at the Chicago Woman's club theater at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night, May 17. The nationalities represented in the performance will include the Mexican, Russian, Lithuanian, Italian, and Croatian. Miss Meta C. Meisner, head resident of the house, is in charge of the program.

Dr. Horace J. Bridges is president of the Booth house board. The third in a series of lectures Dr. Bridges is giving at the Georgian hotel in Evanston for the benefit of the Cradle will be given at 8 o'clock tonight. "The Secrets of the Stars" is the subject of tonight's talk.

The dates for the annual rummage sale of the Junior Edgewater center of the Infant Welfare society have been set for May 17 and 18 at 2128 North Halsted street. Miss Virginia Gazlay is chairman of the sale, which is to be held in the afternoon only on the opening day, but all day on the 18th. Mrs. Frederick J. Price of Highland Park is president of the center.

Another benefit the center is planning is a tea and reading of "Susan and God," by Hope Summers on June 6 at the Georgian hotel in Evanston.

Ball to Benefit Maternity Center.

"Who will be Cinderella?" ask the invitations sent out by the South Shore Service league of the Chicago Maternity center to a dance on Saturday, June 4, in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel. The party is called the Cinderella ball, and promptly at midnight a prince charming will find a Cinderella.

Mrs. Frank J. Mackey is general chairman of the party. The proceeds will go to maintain the dispensary at the Maternity center.

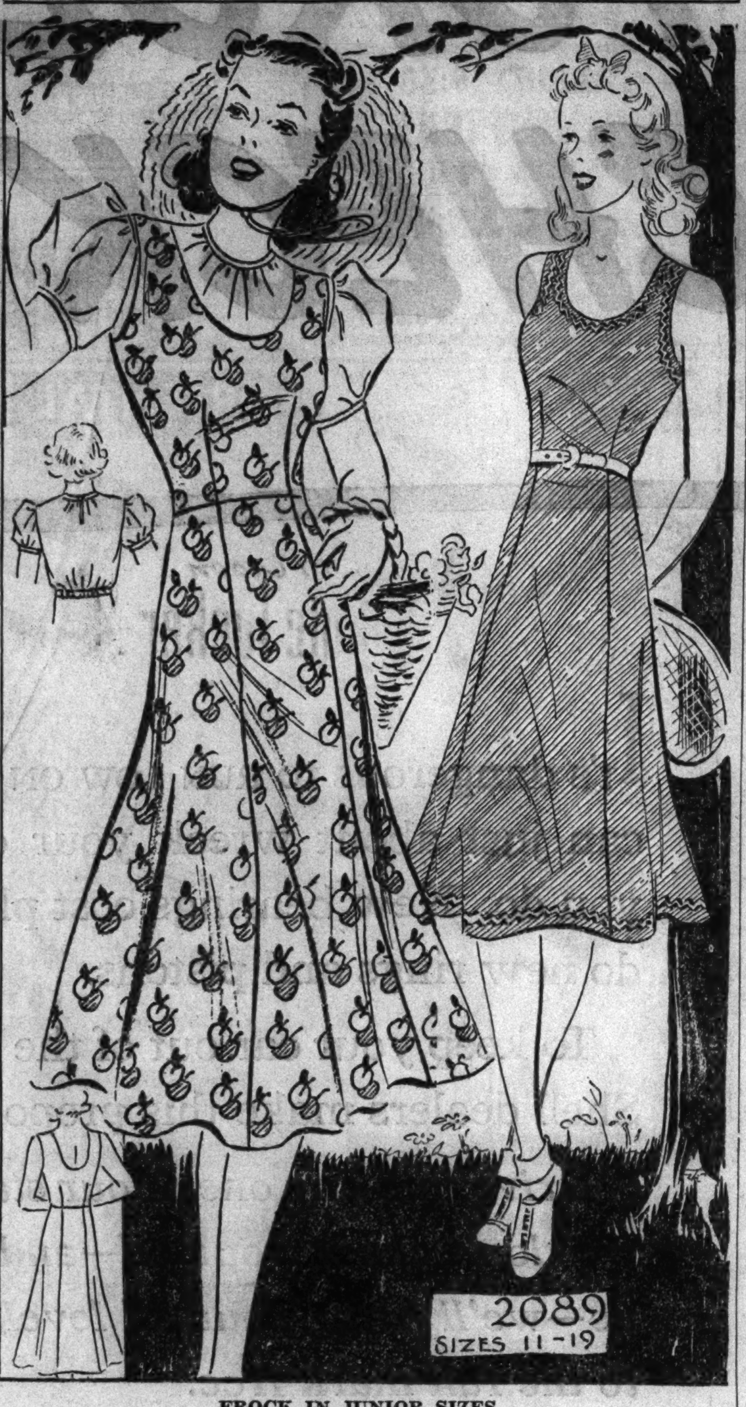
Jumper Frocks Are Youthful



FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

Have you noticed that many of the smartest new frocks for slim figures are styled along jumper lines? This pattern fashions a pretty, informal street dress for summer. The jumper of the original is made of a gay piqué print, with the blouse of white sheer. The blouse has a high, round neckline, into which the bodice is shirred, and the sleeves are puffed high, wide, and handsome. One may or may not wear a belt with this dress, as she chooses.

There's a trick in this style, too. If you wish, take off the blouse and wear the jumper as a sun-back frock for active sports, as illustrated in the sketch at the right.

Almost any type of cotton will make up well in this model. You may combine a printed jumper with a plain shade, as in the original, or reverse the scheme. Two plain shades unite effectively, too.

Style No. 2089 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years.

A Pat on Back for Don Quinn as Air Gagster

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Penny postcards to:

DON QUINN: Personal nomination for the best radio laugh of the week was a line of yours for Fibber McGee. If we recall it accurately Fibber said: "We haven't had a bank night since Mrs. Coogan hit the Jackie pot."

FRANKLYN MacCORMACK: Glad to hear that you will be back on the air in connection with the broadcast of the famous Holland Tulip festival at 1 o'clock Saturday, May 14. Understand a plane bearing the legend "From Hollywood to Holland" will waft in a load of glamor folk from the coast to make a special appearance on this Michigan show.

MME. YOLANDA MERO-IRION: Your announcement that the Women's National Radio committee has designated the American Town Meeting of the Air as the first program to receive its award for distinguished service to radio will be widely acclaimed. The many sided discussions, often on controversial subjects, heard on this Thursday night's forum, demonstrate strikingly the difference between radio in a democracy and under dictatorship. In America we still have freedom of expression.

PAUL RHYMER: So you got a lot of salutary wires in connection with the banquet your home town, Bloomington, gave you, because of your Vic and Sade success. Wasn't it Chas. McCarthy's that ran like this:

It's with elan and elation
We join Rhymer's celebration—
And we send him invitation
To come see our habitation
If they ever, silly boys,
Run him out of Illinoise!

DIZZY DEAN: The Milwaukee farm implement concern that has signed you for a radio interview at 9:30 Saturday night on WLS-NBC is having a time of it to decide whom they shall use to interrogate you. One possibility is W. A. Roberts, a one time ball player, who is now an executive of the firm. Understand you will tell W-G-N listeners all about your arm trouble on Bob Elson's Leadoff Man program at 2:45 today.

GRACE MOORE: Philip Crane, the young baritone you have picked for guest appearance on your program with Andre Kostelanetz for Wednesday, May 18, was one of the two Chicagoans awarded a contract with WBBM as a result of their Twin Winners contest for amateurs in 1936. He has been out of radio now for a while and concentrating on study.

GENE MORGAN: So you have deserted radio for Hollywood. Well, Myrt and Marge and Gang Busters fans will miss you. Wish you luck on the Republic lot.

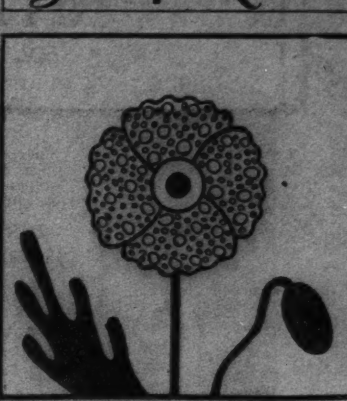
ARCH OBOLER: NBC last night started feeding Lights Out to the Canadian commission network. Thus, Wednesday night is now providing your special brand of chills for our neighbors to the north from Newfoundland to Vancouver.

DORING SISTERS: It's good news for listeners that you will be back on W-G-N starting Sunday. Wayne Van Dyne can be counted on to give you the best of support in your new endeavor.

CARLTON MORSE: Your One Man's Family episodes have been better than ever lately. We like the characterizations of the high school youngsters, Teddy and Wayne Grubb, the most.

KATHRYN WITWER: You will surely enjoy your first visit to Mount Vernon, Ia., when you go there with the Chicago Symphony orchestra for the Cornell College Music festival, May 14. It's a pretty little town, and you'll get a warm welcome. Bill Miller, we hear, will be singing with you on this occasion.

TODAY'S QUILT



FLANDERS POPPY.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The "Flanders Poppy" quilt was first made on Long Island shortly after 1800. Home dyed greens and red were used for the original coverlet, with a tiny circle of yellow for the stamen and black for the pistil. The original name was not that by which it is known today; it was simply referred to as "appliqued poppy," but some traveler returned from Europe and rechristened it with a new name which has been popular ever since.

The block is of the smaller variety, measuring 10 inches square, and twenty-eight applique blocks are set together in an alternate arrangement with plain ones and surrounded by a 10 inch white border and ½ inch bias binding.

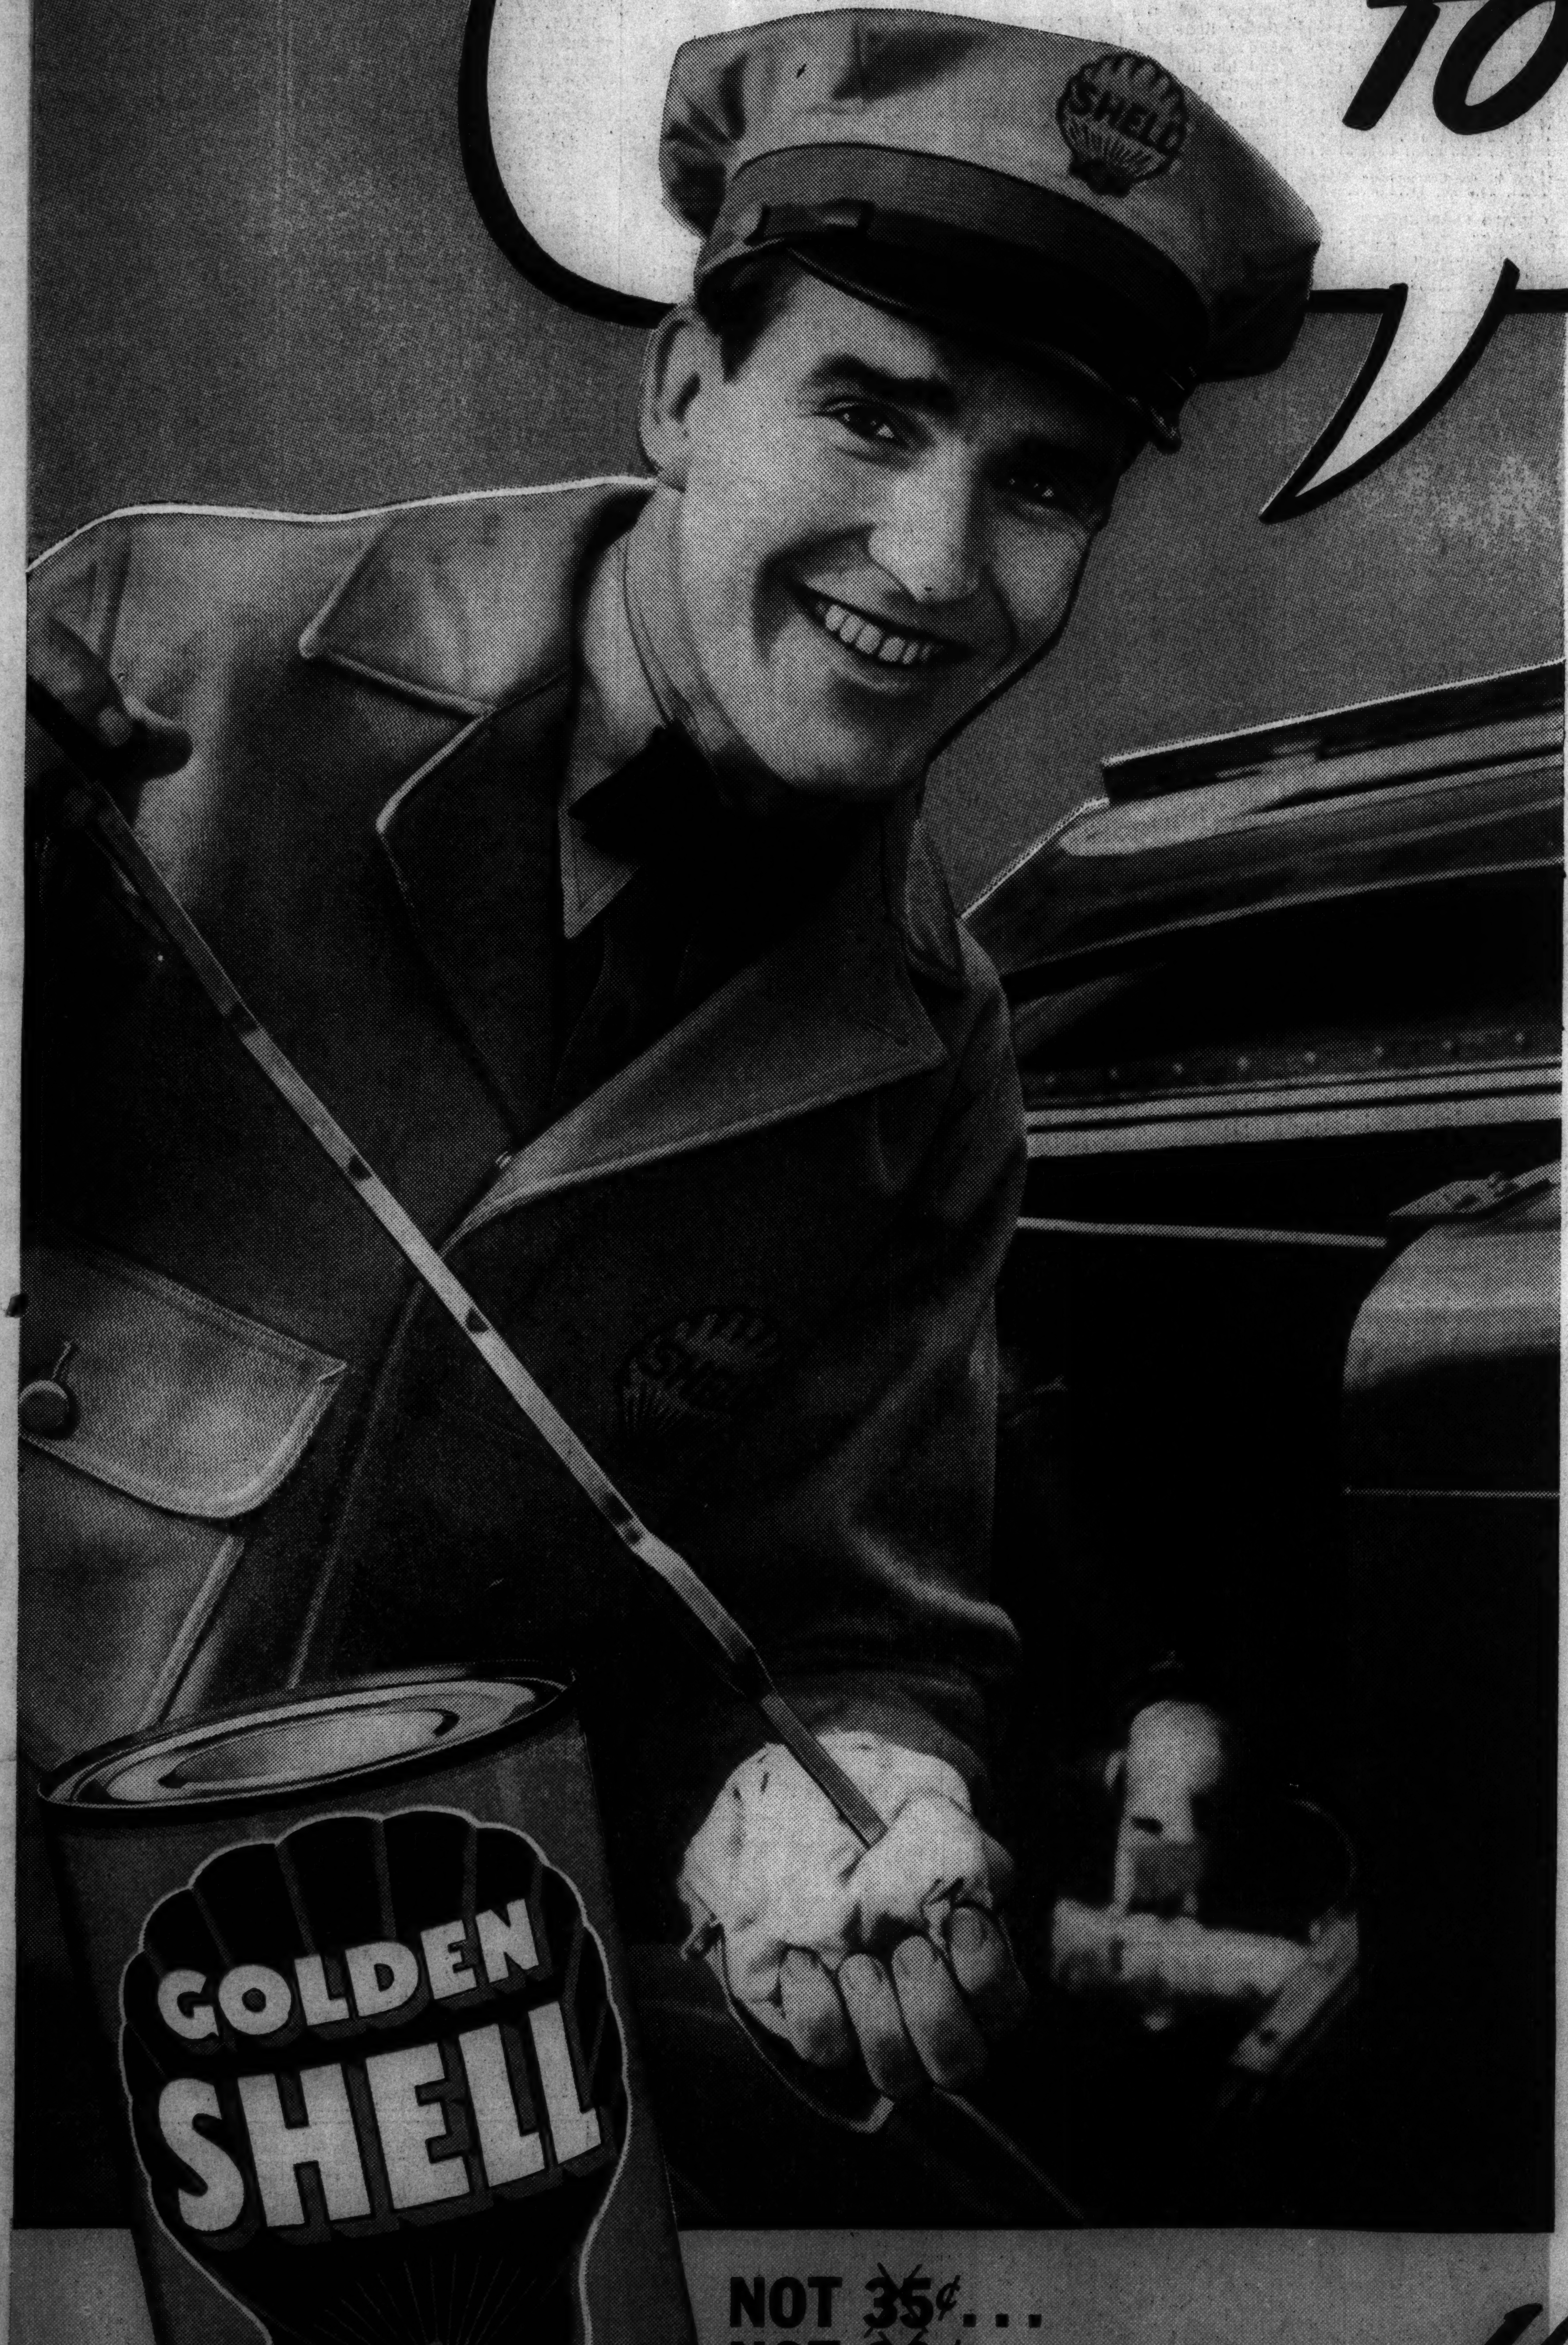
YOUR OIL FREE (UP TO THE FULL MARK) IF I FORGET TO CHECK IT



It's dangerous to RUN LOW ON OIL. You can just about wreck your engine if you do. New bearings cost plenty. So do new rings and pistons.

To keep your car out of the shop, we Shell dealers make this proposition:

Drive into any one of our stations. If we don't check your oil—and you call us—we'll bring your oil level right up to the full mark free.

We'll put in Golden Shell, too—the oil that has been refined especially for today's stop-and-go driving.

Maybe you never knew that stop and go calls for a certain kind of oil. Well, it does—and here's the reason why:

You average ten cold starts a day. If your oil is slow-flowing, one start can cause as much wear as 50 miles of steady running.

Golden Shell changes this. It's fast-flowing. The second you step on your starter, it coats each engine part with a tough oil film that doesn't break down . . . even under the heat of your steady running.

Howard Entry Goes Up to 4 to 1.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 4.—The Kentucky Derby starting field took definite shape today.

It was narrowed to eleven with the announcement that Redbreast, owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney, and Wise Fox, property of the Canadian A. G. Tarn, had been withdrawn. The field is the smallest since 1922, when ten faced the barrier. Morvich was the winner.

Soon after Redbreast was declared out Ben Jones, the Missouri horseman, came up with the beaming announcement that Eddie Arcaro, one of the country's greatest riders, will be in the saddle on Lawrin.

Unless there are further declarations, which is doubtful, the Derby field will be as follows:

Horse.	Jocky.
Stagehand	J. Westrope
The Chief	G. Woolf
Bull Lea	I. Anderson
Fighting Fox	J. Stout
Lawrin	E. Arcaro
Dauber	M. Peters
Can't Wait	L. Balaski
Elooto	F. Faust
Menow	R. Workman
Mountain Ridge	A. Robertson
Co-Sport	R. Dotter

While Trainer Earl Sande believes Stagehand is his chief Derby hope, he is amazed by the sudden improvement The Chief has shown during the last two weeks.

Earl Gets Jittery.

The whole situation has given Sande, usually a pretty cool headed young fellow, a bad case of the jitters. Sande said late today:

Fighting Fox tonight had been installed as the Derby betting favorite. The odds are 3 to 1. The Maxwell Howard entry of Stagehand and The Chief is second choice at 4 to 1. Bull Lea is third in line at 9 to 2. That is on a play or pay basis. When the sentimental bets start rolling in on Stagehand and Sande, the odds against the storybook horse may fall slightly.

The whole Derby show seems to have been started by three very famous old grandpappies. They had the right idea long before Ferdinand Lundberg went to work on his "Sixty Families" yarn.

There are two sets of cousins and a pair of half brothers running in Saturday's race, and every one of them is listed close to the top. As far as 99 per cent of the pre-Derby crowd is concerned, there are no other horses in the race.

They'll Race to Win.

These antagonistic sets of cousins are Fighting Fox and Bull Lea, who have the same maternal grandfather, and Stagehand and Menow whose paternal grandfather is the same. The half brothers are Dauber and The Chief, who have the same daddy.

Warren Wright's great Derby threat, Bull Lea, is a son of Bull Dog; William Woodward's star from the east, Fighting Fox, is a son of Sir Gallahad III. The daddy of both these sires was Teddy. And Teddy, before we go a step further, was one of the most famous horses ever produced in France.

Stagehand and Menow are the sons of the full brothers Sickle and Pharamond II. Both of them call Phalaris grandpa. Phalaris was an English horse.

The other two cousins—Dauber and The Chief—are pure blooded Yankees. They could be called half brothers if it were not for the time honored custom of the turf to recognize only the maternal relationship in the case of brothers and sisters.

Their father was Pennant, a son of Peter Pan, which is a direct descendant of that noted American sire Domino.

The Cousins Are Ready.

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHERBOURG, France, May 4.—Ten young fist fighters, the best of all amateurs in Europe, were all a-twitter this evening as the Queen Mary, biggest barge on the Atlantic, steamed out of Cherbourg for fabled America, where buildings invade the sky to a height only an imaginative liar could conjure.

COUNT GERARDO LEONARDI.

This undoubtedly is the strangest team that ever has left Europe's shores. It is composed of boys from six different countries, and four of the ten members of the squad are unable to speak to any one else on the squad. Nevertheless they are welded together in a common purpose, which is to whip Chicago's Golden Gloves champions on the night of May 18 in the Chicago Stadium.

Four Germans on Squad.

Germany, where 600,000 young men are taking boxing instruction, has contributed four to this year's team—Herbert Runge, Richard Vogt, Adolf Baumgarten, and Herbert Nurnberg. From Italy come Ulderico Sergo, the greatest amateur bantamweight your correspondent ever has seen, and Guido Nardecchia, who last summer whipped America's flyweight champion, William Speary of New York. Ireland's John Saunders, Poland's Antoni Kolczynski, Hungary's Miholy Bondi, and Finland's Olli Lehtinen complete the group.

They not only are thrilled at the opportunity to visit the United States but they realize they are envied by thousands of young Europeans. More than 50,000 actually competed for places on the squad which sailed tonight. Hundreds of thousands others hope some day to have similar success. A place on the European team which fights Chicago is the greatest honor than can come to a boxer from the old world.

Boys Stroll in Paris.

The boys spent their last day in Paris strolling along boulevards in a 70 degree temperature and visiting spots of historic interest. They left St. Lazare station for Cherbourg at 3:30. Paul Rousseau, president of the French Boxing federation, and hundreds of sport fans were there to wish them bon voyage.

Accompanying the squad are Dr. Franz Metzner of Germany, who holds a high office in the department of home affairs; Oscar Soderlund of Sweden, president of the European Boxing federation; Arthur de Kankov-

Mayor, Aldermen and Consuls to Join in Greeting.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

While Chicago's Golden Gloves boxers who will meet the champions of Europe in the Stadium May 18 were registering at headquarters yesterday and preparing for their first gymnasium drills this afternoon in the Illinois Athletic club representatives of Chicago organizations were planning a civic greeting for the visitors from Europe at the Union station next Wednesday. The European boxers and officials will arrive from New York at 1:30 p. m., Chicago daylight saving time.

Poland, Ireland, Germany, Hungary, Finland, and Italy are represented on the squad of ten boxers. The president of the International Boxing federation, Oscar Soderlund, is from Stockholm, Sweden. Other officials with the team are Count Gerardo Leonardi of Milan, Arthur de Kankovszky of Budapest, and Dr. Franz Metzner of Berlin.

Reception Is Planned.

Representatives of Chicago clubs and societies, which have cultural and racial backgrounds of the nations mentioned, will meet at luncheon tomorrow noon in the Illinois Athletic club to discuss plans for the reception at the Union station. Consulates of these nations will be represented. All are planning to greet their nationals officially next Wednesday.

From Union station the European champions will be driven through the loop to the City hall where Mayor Edward J. Kelly will greet the visitors in his offices.

Council Passes Resolution.

The Chicago city council yesterday unanimously passed a resolution, presented by Ald. Dorsey Crowe of the 42d ward, extending "hearty and cordial welcome to the amateur boxing champions of Europe." The text of the resolution follows:

"Whereas, the furtherance of competitive sports events is a wholesome activity that brings rich dividends for the enrichment of our communal life; and

"Whereas, competitive sports involving peoples of different nations represent a potent factor in fostering good will between different nations, and make for better mutual understanding; and

"Whereas, such an event will take place in the Chicago Stadium on May 18 under the sponsorship of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., such event to be known as the "Golden Gloves boxing championship" in which the amateur boxing champions of Europe will meet the Golden Gloves champions of Chicago; and

"Whereas, this International Golden Gloves event is of national and international import as well as of great interest to the city of Chicago; and

"Whereas, this event will bring to Chicago splendid examples of the youth of European countries, young men who come in the rôle of good will ambassadors, thus presenting a striking and glorious contrast to the dark clouds of war which too often seem to hover over European countries; and

"Whereas, Chicago is proud to welcome these good will ambassadors of European countries;

"Now, therefore be it resolved, that the city council of Chicago herewith extends a hearty and cordial welcome to the amateur boxing champions of Europe who will be in Chicago for the exhibition at the Chicago Sta-

Dietrich Holds Losers to Five Hits.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 4.—Imminence of a plunge into the American league cellar spurred the White Sox to victory this afternoon. Their second match with the Philadelphia Athletics was won by a score of 4 to 1.

The Sox made only six hits, exactly their average for their last five games, but a triple by Hank Steinbacher and a single by Gee Walker were factors in a three run scoring splurge in the fourth. Walker wasted a double in the sixth, being forced later, but the Sox got their fourth run in the session.

Bill Dietrich was the whole works on defense. Bob Johnson socked a homer on Bill's fourth pitch but he was all right the rest of the way. He allowed only five hits in the entire contest.

By being able to stay at work the full distance, Dietrich became the third iron man on the Sox staf. Thornton Lee and Ted Lyons are the others who have finished a game this year.

Dietrich Conserves Energy.

Dietrich made only three pitches to get the A's out in the first inning, but Johnson leaned on his first pitch in the second inning to accomplish his fourth homer of the season. Bill retired the next three men with great ease.

The first ten Sox batsmen were retired in order, but after Berger had flied out to start the fourth inning Kreevich walked and scored on Steinbacher's triple to right. Walker bounced a single over Lodigiani, scoring Steinbacher. Kuhel walked and Owen sent a double play ball to Ambler. The double killing apparently was completed, but Hasson dropped the ball, Walker scoring. It was the second misplay of the kind for Hasson in the series. Caster tossed out Dykes.

Berger and Kreevich singled with two out in the fifth inning, but the inning ended with Steinbacher's fly to Moses.

Sox Score Again.

Walker opened the sixth with a double to left and Kuhel walked, but Walker was forced at third on Owen's attempted sacrifice. Dykes singled off Caster's glove, loading the bases. Sewell sent a long fly

Best Courses Assured for Golf School

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

THE TRIBUNE's free golf school, sixth annual edition of which will open next Tuesday night, has enjoyed additional success the last two years because of the coöperation of the Chicago park district. Once more the commissioners of the park district have approved the use of their courses, so that the thousands of pupils expected to attend this year's lessons will have as classrooms four of the best public park courses in the country. They are Jackson park, Diversey in Lincoln park, Columbus park, and Marquette park.

When the school was founded in 1933, it relied for instructional centers upon a number of outlying courses, including those of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, one of the pioneers in its founding. Because many potential pupils were unable to reach these, because of lack of adequate transportation, the enrollment of the school was not as large as it might have been.

Accessible to All.

Realizing that conduct of the school within the metropolitan area would make it possible for many novices to take the free course of lessons, THE TRIBUNE suggested the use of the easily accessible park district courses, and the park commissioners promptly agreed.

Recently the park board met and granted formal permission for use of the four courses during the 1938 school. Headed by President Robert J. Dunham, with George T. Donoghue as general superintendent, the commission includes Harry Joseph, Philip S. Graver, James C. Petrillo, and Stephen I. Witmanski.

Expert Instruction.

Students are assured of a thorough grounding in such fundamentals of the game as the grip, stance, and pivot by the presence of the ablest faculty in group instruction in the game—the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association.

Following next Tuesday night's opening lesson, the second class will be conducted Thursday, May 12; the third Tuesday, May 17, and the fourth and last regular lesson Thursday, May 19. The final graduating exercises for the thirty-two students adjudged to be the best in the school will be held Sunday afternoon, May 22, at a course to be announced later.

Makes One Cast, Catches One Trout and One Snake

Barre, Vt., May 4.—(AP)—With a single cast of his line Dr. H. A. Rew pulled in an 8½ inch trout and a 9 inch snake. The doctor was about to place the fish in his creel when the head of the snake appeared from the fish's mouth.

INJURED MUSCLE IN $185,000 ARM BENCHES DIZZY

Must Rest Two Weeks, Train Two More.

Dizzy Dean, whose arm recently cost the Cubs $185,000 and three players, will be out of service for a month. Two weeks of absolute rest for the high priced arm, and another two weeks for gradual reconditioning were ordered yesterday by Dr. John F. Davis, the Cubs' physician, who diagnosed Diz' three fadeouts in four starts as a slight tear in the fibres of the right deltoid muscle.

The deltoid muscle is the heavy, thick muscle which forms the cap of the shoulder, and is used in raising the arm above the horizontal.

Probing Reveals Secret.

Dean, who at various times since he became a Cub admitted that his arm was lame and then charged his troubles to one or two charley horses in his legs, was escorted to Edgewater hospital yesterday on orders from Manager Charley Grimm who refused to take seriously Dean's assertion that his failures were due to insufficient spring training.

Diz was subjected to an X-ray examination and the negatives revealed there was nothing wrong with the shoulder socket which kept him idle much of the time during the last two months of the 1937 season. However, manipulation of the muscles in the region of the sore spot brought out what the Great Man had wanted to keep secret.

"It is nothing that cannot be corrected by rest and proper training thereafter," Dr. Davis said.

"There is a slight inflammation in the deltoid muscle, probably the result of the bursitis he suffered last year. Rest during the winter should have corrected the weakness, but he probably brought on the present condition by putting too much of a strain on his arm before it was ready.

"It will be a case of Dean's doing his spring training all over again, except that he must be a bit more cautious."

Diz took his vacation instructions just as he takes most everything—good naturedly. But until the doctor actually started to manipulate the muscles of his arm, after the X-ray photograph had been made, Dean continued to insist that it was the charley horse in his leg, and not his arm that needed attention.

"I'll still win twenty games," he predicted after taking time out to figure that he would be a month getting back into condition.

He'll Stay with Club.

Manager Grimm ordered the hospital examination, he explained, because the club has no desire to run the risk of being charged with fooling the public by announcing Dean would start and then removing him from the game before he completed nine innings.

"Now we know what the trouble is," he said, "and can act accordingly. Diz will remain with the club to take heat treatments for his arm and also will work out so as to keep his legs in trim."

Where and when Dean picked up his present ailment, if it really is of 1938 vintage, isn't known. When his purchase from the Cardinals was announced April 16 the experts immediately expressed doubt over the true condition of his arm. Their suspicions had been aroused previously by the fact that Diz wasn't used extensively in the Cardinals' spring games.

Landis Could Step In.

Just what discussions took place between the Cardinals and Cubs officials before P. K. Wrigley, the Chicago owner, consented to the $185,000 cash expenditure isn't definitly known. It has been reported that the players involved were taken "as is"—that is, no comeback.

However, even in the face of sucn an agreement, Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis under his unlimited powers could cancel the deal if in-

Take Lead on Homer by Atwood.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The humble Phillies, for whom a victory is a week's sustenance, gorged themselves yesterday at Wrigley field. Serving at the feast and seemingly not disturbed by their rôle were the Cubs, who took it on the chin, 6 to 4.

Larry French was the leader in the charitable move to let the Phils have their fill. Larry was too kindly to last the route. He quit the party in the sixth by which time the decision was fairly well disposed of. But Clay Bryant carried out the big hearted theme by giving up a run in the seventh and another in the eighth without asking that the Phils provide a hit in their behalf.

Meanwhile the Cubs found themselves more or less distressed by the pitching of Claude Passeau, at least until near the finish, when a couple of Passeau's mates effected a rescue in behalf of his first victory of the season.

Bad News Early.

French, who is keeping pace with Dizzy Dean's record of one finish in four starts, realized as early as the second inning that a storm was brewing. Bill Atwood hit a homer, which was doubly bad medicine because there was a Phil on base. In the third he was nicked for another run, thanks to a stroke by an alumnus, the exiled Chuck Klein. Before his departure in the sixth inning there was another Phil runner home. Thereafter the run getting was Bryant's affair, although he didn't receive much assistance from a couple of miscues by Ken O'Dea and Joe Marty.

The Cubs were so well mannered under the bossing of Passeau that they threatened him with only two hits in five innings. One of these was linked with a pass to score a run at the outset. Having been throttled thusly, the Cubs got mad about it in the sixth and put themselves back in the game with a pair of runs on three hits and a pass. From this point to the finish they did nothing of vital importance except in the eighth when, after one run was home and Mr. Passeau had gone, they succumbed with the bases filled.

Three Men Score One Run.

The services of three men were involved in the scoring of the Cubs' run in the first inning. Hack led off with a pass and thanked the Phils for the gift by stealing second. He went to third on Herman's long fly to Klein and scored on Collins' single over short.

French fanned Browne to escape a ticklish spot caused by Martin's single and a wild pitch in the Phils' first, but the veteran southpaw didn't enjoy similar luck in the second. Scharein opened this attack with a single to left and was nudged down to second on Whitney's sacrifice. Business picked up for French when Arnovich fanned, but it was only temporary. Atwood stepped up and helped himself to his home run, which disappeared over the left field wall. Thus the Phils suddenly found themselves ahead, 2 to 1.

The Phils shoved French closer to the inevitable jumping off place by subjecting him to a two hit lathering in the third. This put the Cubs in

INDIANA POLICE PARTICULAR ON PASSING RULES

Advice for Motorists on Way to Derby.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 4.—Don Stiver, director of the Indiana department of public safety, this afternoon gave some advice on new highway markings and highway patrol policy. He was interviewed for the benefit of 20,000 Chicagoans who will be motoring through this state to the Kentucky Derby on Saturday. His advice on avoiding arrest in this state also might be noted by the throngs of Chicagoans who will be taking week-end trips to southern Michigan and northern Indiana resorts.

"In accordance with an act of the legislature last year," said the safety director, who is also superintendent of the state police, "the highway department is marking and posting 'no passing zones' on the two and three lane roads where the visibility ahead is less than 750 feet. Patrolmen are instructed to arrest for violation of this passing restriction."

Watch Yellow Lines.

Some of these zones were noted on U. S. 31 between here and Louisville yesterday when THE TRIBUNE road car was surveying routes for derby travel. In addition to the signs on the dirt shoulders, there's a yellow line at one side of the center of the slab. If the colored stripe is on the right side of the center as you are driving, you're liable to arrest if you cross it.

On 40 foot pavements, there are two yellow stripes, one on each side of the center line. This prohibits crossing by a driver in either direction. Arrests are now being made for this offense on the Dunes relief road.

"Do you also arrest on these 40 foot roads for passing an overtaken car on its right?" the chief was asked.

"Yes," he replied, "and we'd also arrest the overtaken driver for not obeying the signs that read 'Use Outer Lane Except When Passing.'"

Fog Lights Barred.

In night driving, Chicagoans are subject to arrest in Indiana for using a fog light or ditch light.

The route to the derby recommended by the Chicago Motor club leaves Chicago over Stony Island avenue and Torrence avenue and picks up U. S. 41 east of Dyer, Ind., thence on U. S. 41 to U. S. 52 to Indianapolis, and thence U. S. 31 to Louisville. The Tribune survey found that much truck trafic can be avoided on an alternate route through Crown Point and Rensselaer on U. S. 152, returning to U. S. 52 near Lafayette.

Near Louisville, U. S. 31 splits into U. S. 31E and U. S. 31W. The former, recommended by the motor club, goes to the wider of the two toll bridges over the Ohio river. U. S. 31W goes to the old bridge in New Albany, which has a width for only one lane of travel in each direction, but with better connections with the race track.

After crossing the Ohio, the motorist arriving on Saturday morning won't need any advice. There'll be 1,137 National Guardsmen, and state, county, city, and park police guiding him through jammed, narrow streets.

Menow ran a mile and a quarter in 2:09, and his owner, Hal Price Headley, was not particularly impressed with it.

Dauber's time was even slower. He worked the Derby mile and a quarter in 2:10. His handlers said it was exactly what they had asked him to do. They hope for a muddy track, but there is no indication so far that their wishes will be fulfilled.

An enormous eastern commission—the pot is said to have been made up by a half dozen plungers—has been sent here to be wagered on Dauber in the event the track turns muddy.

Fighting Fox Has Something.

Fighting Fox resembled a good racehorse to a greater extent than did either Menow or Dauber. He was asked to breeze a mile and an eighth and his time was 1:55 4-5. He moved along smoothly and wanted to go much faster.

Breaking at the eighth pole, he covered the first quarter of a mile in 24 seconds, was at the half in :48 4-5, rounded out three-quarters in 1:15 3-5 and the mile in 1:41 4-5. He was 14 seconds covering the last eighth of a mile, but was pulled up at that time.

He's in such grand condition, he cannot muster an alibi if he is beaten in the Derby.

Enjoy Stay in Paris.

The boxers enjoyed their stay in Paris not only for sightseeing opportunities but also for time to recover from cuts and bruises incurred in the finals of the European tournament in Berlin on Friday night. All are anxious to get back to work. Practice sessions will start tomorrow morning, and—unless the sea becomes frisky—will continue daily until the Queen Mary docks in the Hudson on Monday morning. There will be another brief letdown in training while the boys tour New York on Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning, but drills will be resumed in the Medinah club after the boys' arrival in Chicago next Wednesday.

President Soderlund of the European federation said the team could step into the ring after two days of workouts. They have just come through a month of strenuous preparation for the Berlin tournament and are at physical peak. It is unlikely they will do much sparring before reaching Chicago, except for Nardecchia and Lehtinen, who are battling for the right to represent Europe in the flyweight class. Judging from their showing in Berlin they are on a par in effectiveness, but their styles are entirely different.

Lottman Weighs 119.

Kenny Lottman of Peoria, the Golden Gloves 112 pound champion, yesterday checked in at the I. A. C. weighing 119 pounds. It had been presumed Lottman would necessarily advance to the bantamweight class, but he insisted that he would try to train down to the weight in which he won his title.

At least two other Golden Glovers will be invited to join the international squad, one to protect the 112 and 118 pounds, in which divisions Europe has four contestants, and the other to replace John Benna, Terre Haute, Ind., Golden Gloves champion who competed in the intercity matches in March. Benna has moved to Evansville, Ind., and yesterday he wrote that he could not secure a leave of absence from his new employer.

STEVENS TO PITCH FOR COALS.

Bill [Lefty] Stevens will pitch one of the games Sunday for the Spencer Coals in their double-header with the Chicago Colored All-Stars to be played in the Coals' park, 4200 North Central avenue.

O'MAHONEY AND GINSBURG MEET IN MAT WINDUP

Danno O'Mahoney, former heavyweight wrestling champion, will meet Benny Ginsburg in a one hour bout heading the card tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Supporting matches will bring together Wladyslaw Talun and Lou Plummer, Abie Kaplan and Joe Marsh, Dick Stahl and George Wilson, and Steve Nagy and Cowboy Ackley. . . . Alex Kettles will meet Charley Belanger in six rounds and Harold Brown is paired with Billy Celebron for ten rounds in Marigold Gardens May 16. Harry Booker and Tommy Pallatin will meet in a five round semi-final to the ten round headliner involving Nick Camarata and Billy Marqurt in Marigold Monday. Fights of four rounds bring together Joe Law with Gene Spencer and Steve Karas with Russ Nyberg. . . . Frankie [Kid] Covelli, Brooklyn featherweight, is roughing it at Karl Ogren's resort near Stone Lake, Wis., for a windup bout in Chicago May 23. . . . Johnny Barbara, Ross Mullen's welterweight protégé, will have his tonsils removed upon his return from Stone Lake within the next few days.

FISH SWIMMING UNDER ALIASES, ANGLERS LEARN

BY BOB BECKER.

With the fishing seasons in the middle west now getting under way, anglers everywhere are talking about brook, rainbow, and brown trout, silver bass [they soon will run in the Lake Winnebago country], wall-eyed pike [season opens May 15 in Wisconsin], and other species.

From the shores of Lake Superior comes word that the boys already have gone out on the big lake and made some nice catches of lake trout, a species that used to be abundant in the southern half of Lake Michigan. Mention of trout brings up the old argument about the steelhead.

The best exposition of the steelhead situation in American waters, one that every fisherman can accept and one that is mighty interesting, has been made by Brian Curtis, who is on the research staf of the California division of fish and game.

Curtis says that the only difference between a steelhead and a rainbow is in the migration to salt water. The adult steelhead is a trout that has spent part of its life in the ocean.

To describe this fish in terms of the Atlantic coast, the rainbow is a landlocked steelhead. The so-called steelhead "salmon" which the commercial fishermen take out of Lake Michigan in the spring apparently are steelheads that went to sea on the west coast. Now they are landlocked. In other words, they are a variety of rainbow trout that can't get back to salt water.

This question of names for fish is an intricate and never ending subject. For example, in Lake Superior we have coaster trout. The coaster is a brook trout that left a stream, went into the big water, and now lives there.

The pickerel and northern pike are other examples of the confusion that exists in fish names.

SENATORS BEAT INDIANS, 1 TO 0, IN 13 INNINGS

Leonard Whips Feller and Zuber; Bonura Scores.

Washington, D. C., May 4.—(AP)—Rookie Dutch Leonard today pitched the Senators to a 1 to 0 victory over the league leading Cleveland Indians in 13 innings. Leonard allowed only six hits, struck out five, and did not pass a batter. Only two Indians reached second base.

The Senators filled the bases in the thirteenth off young Bill Zuber, who went to the mound in the eleventh after Bob Feller had been taken out for a pinch hitter.

Rookie Taft Wright was sent in to hit for Rick Ferrell. He came through with a fly to Solters in left, and Zeke Bonura slid home after the catch.

Feller, in the ten innings he pitched, yielded only three hits, all singles, and fanned eight. He walked nine, however. Ken Keltner, Cleveland third baseman, was the only Indian who got more than one hit off Leonard. He collected two singles.

What turned out to be the winning run developed after Bonura got on by a freak play. He hit a grounder to Lary, but the ball hopped over Lary's head into left field. Stone followed with a single and then Travis bunted. Zuber, attempting to get Bonura at third, threw wild, after which Bonura came home on Wright's fly.

Hubbell Halts Reds; Giants Triumph, 3-2

Cincinnati, O., May 4.—(AP)—Carl Hubbell came through again for the New York Giants today, but he had to have a lot of help from Jimmy Ripple before he beat the Reds, 3 to 2. Ripple hit a triple and three singles to lead a ten hit attack that finally overcame Roy Davis after he had blanked the National league champions for five innings. Hubbell yielded seven hits, fanned five, and walked only two.

Cubs to Start Epperly Today in Phil Final

The pitchers today for the final game of the current series at Wrigley Field will be Wayne [Lefty] LaMaster for the Phillis and none other than Rookie Albert Paul Epperly, the Moline club graduate, for the Cubs.

With Dizzy Dean out indefinitly and his other so-called regular pitchers doing flip flops in most of their starts, Manager Charley Grimm deems it advisable to find out as soon as possible whether Epperly is ready for big league company. He stood the White Sox upside down in the last six innings of the spring series final.

The Phillies now have three pitchers—Bucky Walters, Hugh Mulcahy, and Claude Passeau—who can look the world in the eye. Each has scored one victory this season.

Phil Cavarretta played one inning—the ninth—at first base yesterday. It was his first appearance as a fielder since April 13 when he was hit on the right wrist by a pitched ball delivered by Russ Van Atta of the Browns.

Frank Demaree can ill afford to be robbed of base hits, but it happened to him yesterday. He opened the ninth with a beautiful smash toward left center and Arnovich galloped along the wall to make the catch.

Lane Tech and Lindblom Win; Both Unbeaten

Lane Tech on the north side and Lindblom in the central section continued unbeaten in Chicago Public High School league baseball yesterday, Lane routing Lake View, 15 to 3, for its seventh victory and Lindblom whipping Englewood, 10 to 4, for its fourth in a row.

Two other leaders, Steinmetz on the west side and Harper in the south, were beaten and dropped to second place in the sectional standings. Steinmetz, tied by Farragut at the end of regulation time, was beaten when Farragut scored five runs in an extra inning, 9 to 4. The result moved Farragut up to first place with five games won and one lost, and dropped Steinmetz to second with eight won in ten played.

DuSable Is Routed.

Harper, which held a narrow lead in the south section, was beaten, 9 to 8, by last place Bowen. Morgan Park, which defeated Parker, 2 to 1, took over first place.

Phillips led DuSable, the home club, 17 to 4, going into the last half of the fourth and DuSable then conceded defeat.

Adams of Fenger led the home run hitters with two. Others who made homers were Sosdian, Foreman; McNeilly, Deibler, and Watson, Marshall; Williams, DuSable; Hall, Phillips; Banek, Crane; Jankus, Harrison, Kamsic, Kelly; Marks, Lane, and Ford, Harper.

Pullman Whips Lemont.

Errors totaled 104 in the 14 games. The Marshall-Foreman contest led, each team making eight errors.

Pullman Tech routed Lemont, 21 to 2, in a Southwest league game at Pullman. Webb of Lemont hit a home run in the third inning and Hincker of Pullman got one in the fourth.

Phillies Rout French, Stave Off Cub Rally

arrears by 3 to 1. Klein, who as a Cub preferred not to hit against southpaws, whacked a double against the right field wall with one out. French rallied again by fanning Martin, but an instant later Browne clipped a single into left field and Klein galloped home. Browne was headed off in an attempted steal.

Bryant to the Rescue.

French survived the fifth despite a single and a pass, but after three hits in the sixth he was adjudged unfit for further service. Browne launched this foray by doubling to right center with one out. Scharein tapped to French and Browne was killed off between second and third by a throw to Lazzeri. Scharein made up for this by stealing second and going the remainder of the distance home on Whitney's single to center. Whitney then dashed to third on a single by Arnovich. This was where Bryant stepped in to end the inning.

Two were out in the sixth before the Cubs got the break which assisted them to two runs, making the score 4 to 3. Marty singled to center with one out. Galan popped to Whitney and Lazzeri grounded to Scharein, who let the ball trickle into left field. O'Dea singled over short to send Marty home. Bryant singled in the same direction and Lazzeri scored. Then Hack bounced to Scharein to force Bryant.

Bryant Gets Generous.

Bryant was good enough to fan two batters and not yield a hit in the seventh, but he did issue a pass and a bargain run grew from the gratuity. Passeau struck out and Mueller fouled to O'Dea. Klein then drew the lone pass and lost no time setting forth on a steal of second. O'Dea threw the ball into center field, so Klein went to third. Marty fumbled his attempt to recover the ball, so Klein continued to the plate, giving the Phils a 5 to 3 advantage.

After retiring the first two in the eighth Bryant opened his heart. He walked Whitney, Arnovich, and Atwood in succession. This should have been enough generosity for one inning, but Bryant had more. He wild pitched and Whitney scored.

In the Cub eighth Galan survived on a fumble by Browne and was forced by Lazzeri. O'Dea popped out, Hartnett singled for Bryant, and Hack singled to score Lazzeri. Passeau vanished and Kelleher stayed in there as rescuer only until he had filled the bases by walking Herman. Lefty Smith then was introduced, so Triplett batted for Collins. He forced Herman. The ninth was quiet for both sides.

ESCOBAR BEATEN BY NAT LITFIN, FEATHERWEIGHT

New York, May 4.—(AP)—World Bantamweight Champion Sixto Escobar invaded the featherweight ranks tonight and was given a sound ten round beating by Nat Litfin, ex-Pittsburgh boxer now fighting out of New York's Bronx. Each weighed 122.

Litfin left-jabbed the champion completely off balance most of the way and, although he was cut and bleeding at the finish, he held a narrow margin. A crowd of 2,639 paid $5,614 to see the show in the Hippodrome and cheered the verdict.

GABLER PITCHES TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 4.—Luther Thomas, sophomore right hander, is scheduled to pitch for the Athletics in the series final with the White Sox here tomorrow. Before the game today Manager Dykes said Frank Gabler, late of the National league, would start for the Sox.

Manager Dykes is a popular man in his home town, but was not taken very seriously as a hitter in yesterday's game. With two out in the ninth Jim came up to bat, whereupon Connie Mack arose, folded up his score card, put on his hat and left the dugout. Jim made good Mr. Mack's theory that the game practically was over. He fouled out to the catcher.

Just as the Sox broke loose in the fourth inning they were indicated last placers. The Browns were leading the Yankees, the Tigers were leading the Red Sox and the Sox were trailing. If the games had ended with those ratios prevailing the Sox would have been looking up at seven clubs in the American league.

Torn Muscle in $185,000 Arm Benches Dizzy

Dean pitched his first game as a Cub on April 20 at Cincinnati. Prior to this debut he insisted there was nothing wrong with the arm. He hadn't thrown more than a few balls in that game before everybody who ever had seen him work when he was good realized he wasn't pitching normally. His old time fast ball was absent and he was using a side arm delivery instead of coming through overhand. At the end of six innings, after eight Red hits and two runs, he was told to quit.

Uses Slow Stuff.

Between that removal and his start here April 24 against the Cards Diz continued to claim his arm was O. K. Against the Cards he went the route, producing a four hit shutout, although using only his slow stuff. He started against the Reds here April 29, being yanked in the fourth inning. This time he admitted there was soreness just below the shoulder.

Hoping to hide his arm weakness behind his desire to pitch in his turn Diz came up the next day with a different angle. He charged his failure to go the limit to leg troubles. Grimm paid no attention to this, but decided to give Dean one more chance. So Diz started against the Phils here Tuesday and was withdrawn after seven innings of play. His explanation was that he hadn't taken enough spring training. But the manager still clung to the arm theory and yesterday's examination was the result.

DOUG BRASHEAR WINS BY A NOSE IN AURORA RACE

Fairemus Gallops Home at 50-1 Odds.

After ten unsuccessful attempts at New Orleans and Hot Springs, Doug Brashear finally got home first yesterday, ridden by Melvin Knight, who was the nation's leading rider in 1928. Doug Brashear scored in the featured Coconut Grove purse at Aurora.

It took a picture to show Doug Brashear had his nose in front of Enagala at the end of the six furlongs run in the mediocre time of 1:13 4-5. His mutuel price was $22.40, giving the outsiders an edge over the favorites again at the Fox valley course.

Makes Up Ground.

Doug Brashear had to make up many lengths of ground to poke his nose in front. At the start Sir George rushed off in the lead and Jocky M. Knight had the ultimate winner in last position.

Sir George increased his margin and was on top by three lengths when the field hit the head of the stretch. There Doug Brashear, saving ground on the turn, began to work his way up on the inside. When the pace setter quit Enagala and Doug Brashear battled it out to the wire. Only the shortest of noses separated them, with Apple Annie in third position.

A 50 to 1 Shot Wins.

Fairemus, a 4 year old gelding, won the second race of the afternoon at odds of better than 50 to 1 and started what might have been an all time high for Illinois Daily Double payoffs. Only forty-six tickets in the entire pool started off with Fairemus.

Possible prices ranged from $4,822 on Society Editor and Gibby's Choice, on which only one ticket each was sold, down to $344.40 for Golden Ariel, with fourteen tickets purchased.

Golden Ariel, the favorite, galloped home to win by six lengths, spoiling the afternoon for thirty-two people who figured to win $1,000 or more.

Golden Ariel Wins Easily.

Golden Ariel was off alertly in the third and after following Black Sergeant and Hell Diver in the early stages, moved to the front when Joe Dyer called upon her. Once there she drew out steadily. Freeburg Boy landed second and Carbon Copy third.

Rosasco Steals a Lap During Night's Skating

A series of jams by Johnny Rosasco stood out in the roller Derby in the Coliseum last night. The Derby has only four more nights to go. Despite the efforts of his opponents, the Black Shirts, Rosasco, a member of the White Shirts, scored on his fifth attempt to lap the field. Ivy King, Canadian skater who holds the girls' quarter mile speed record of 42.8 seconds, came closest to her mark with a :43.8 performance, and Jack Cummings led the field in :41.6 during speed tests.

ROYAL BROOM, hard hustled from the start, disposed of SERVANT PRIDE after going the first quarter, drew into a commanding lead swiftly but required strenuous urging in last stages to hold THE MILLAY safe. Latter saved ground while working her way up and closed strongly. SERVANT PRIDE began fast, raced well up throughout, but bore out during stretch run.

FAIREMUS, going in his best form and strongly handled, raced well up on the outside to the stretch, where he responded readily to strong urging and wore down HORNET in the last 70 yards. Latter forced the pace to the final eighth, assumed a brief lead, but could not withstand the winner. BEAVER LAKE, forced back in early racing when in close quarters, came through on the inside and closed strong.

Winner trained by R. C. Gillem. Went to post at 3:14½. At post 10½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily, place driving.

GOLDEN ARIEL, much the best and away with the leaders, assumed the lead with a rush after the first quarter, drew away in last three-sixteenths to win as her rider pleased. FREEBURG BOY, never far back, improved his position gradually under vigorous handling and showed a good effort. CARBON COPY began sluggishly, was far out of it to the final quarter, and made up ground rapidly thereafter.

Winner trained by C. Vanscoy. Went to post at 4:20. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving, place same.

NERVOUS LADY, taken under light restraint early and kept on the outside throughout, responded readily to strong urging in last quarter and held GRECIAN KING safe. Latter was forced wide around the first turn, continued to lose ground throughout, and was weakly handled in the final stages.

Time, :23 2-5, :47 2-5, 1:13 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Doug Brashear, $22.40 straight, $9.00 place, $5.20 show; Enagala, $10.20 place, $6.20 show; Apple Annie, $3.00 show. Winner trained by D. Hardy. Went to post at 4:48½. At post ½ minute. Start good. Won driving, place same.

DOUG BRASHEAR, slow to begin and far back for a half mile, worked his way up on the inside rapidly thereafter and, continuing gamely under strong urging, outstayed ENAGALA. The latter forced the pace throughout under pressure and held on with fine courage in the drive. APPLE ANNIE lost considerable ground entering the stretch, responded readily to shaking up in last three-sixteenths, and closed strong.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and one furlong. Claiming. Four year olds and up. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

RESULT TO DATE OF TVA INQUIRY: HIGHBALL PARTY

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—The net result thus far of the Tennessee Valley authority investigation, widely heralded weeks ago as promising to be the most sensational inquiry since Teapot Dome, has been—one highball party.

The resolution authorizing the inquiry was signed by President Roosevelt April 4. There ensued a two weeks' delay caused by the refusal of several Republican senators to accept appointment on the investigating committee. The deadlock was ended April 19 when the roster of the ten man joint committee was completed.

For weeks, leaders in both houses had been promising speedy action into the charges preferred by Dr. Arthur Morgan, the chairman of the TVA who was deposed by the President when he refused to disclose details of his accusations to the President. Dr. Morgan told Mr. Roosevelt that he would give to a congressional committee and no one else the proof of his charges of dishonesty and inefficiency in the conduct of the agency.

Policy Suddenly Reversed.

But when the committee was finally ready to hear these charges, there was a sudden reversal of policy. It is now planned not to hold public hearings until fall and Dr. Morgan and his two warring colleagues, David Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan, may be the last witnesses instead of the first to be summoned.

The members of the committee have met only once. They gathered at a Washington hotel one evening and got acquainted over glasses. Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.] was elected chairman.

Since then Senator Donahey has named a fellow Ohioan, W. O. Heffernan, to head the staf of committee investigators. Heffernan promptly announced that hearings would not be started until next fall. The assembling of evidence will require all summer, he predicted. He said he would visit the TVA area before arranging for employment of engineering, accounting, and legal experts.

Plan Junket to Region.

Senator Donahey said today that the committee would not meet until several weeks after congress adjourns. They then will adopt a policy, he said. Other members agreed that a junket to the region where the vast TVA projects have been reared is the first essential of the investigation. The committee has $50,000 to spend and the junket may be prolonged for several weeks, permitting the compilation of liberal expense accounts.

There was much speculation concerning the delay. The investigating resolution demands that a report on the TVA's management be submitted to congress Jan. 3, 1939, the first day of the next session.

Members of the committee insisted that a thorough investigation is contemplated. They said that a complete audit of TVA finances is necessary so that the committee could have a clear fiscal picture of the agency in their minds before they start hearing witnesses.

$7,000,000 IS PAID FROM ESTATE OF R. H. DONNELLY

A final accounting of the estate of Reuben H. Donnelly, Chicago printing executive, was filed yesterday in the Lake County Circuit court at Waukegan by Attorney J. H. Cartwright, representing the executors. With the accounting was filed an answer to a complaint filed April 2 by the trustees of the estate, the First National Bank of Chicago and the Northern Trust company, asking that certain of the executors' actions be clarified.

The accounting showed that disbursements in excess of $7,000,000 have been made since Donnelly's death in 1929, and that there is a residue in excess of $4,000,000. The disbursements include bequests of about $4,000,000, state and federal taxes of about $2,000,000, and expenses, claims, and legal fees totaling about $1,000,000 more.

The residue of the estate will be divided equally between a son, Thorne Donnelly, and a daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Erdman. They, with a brother, Thomas E. Donnelly, are executors of the estate.

INJURIES IN FALL ARE FATAL.

Anton Masteriarz, 56 years old, died in the County hospital yesterday of injuries suffered last Dec. 21 in a fall in his home at 1844 West 17th street.

PUSH 4 CHAPTERS OF BUILDING CODE TOWARD PASSAGE

Mayor's Demand for Action Halts Delay.

Four new chapters of the city's revised building code were before the city council yesterday after two weeks of delay occasioned by the necessity of editing and rewriting two of them. Threat of still further delay was blocked at the council meeting by Mayor Kelly.

The council ordered publication of the four new chapters, which deal with construction type provisions, fire resistive standards, floor and roof construction, and trussed steel joists and other details. Further action will be taken after the legal publication period.

"Tin and Paper" Debate.

The first two chapters resulted in lively debate on April 20, when they were taken before the building code subcommittee. Charges were made then that they permitted erection of tin and paper houses.

As the result of revision, the chapter dealing with construction types was presented to the council without provision for noncombustible frame and protected metal structures. The first would have permitted use of metal or gypsum sheathing on a frame skeleton, to be covered with plaster or stucco. The other provided for an outer sheathing of metal not less than one-fortieth of an inch thick.

It was agreed that, although these types probably were intended for warehouses or commercial buildings, the chapter had not so specified and they were eliminated, subject to inclusion later. The five types remaining in the chapter are fireproof, semifireproof, heavy timber, ordinary construction, and wood frame.

Relax Frame Restrictions.

Because of the extension of city fire limits the last was considered a valueless provision, but an amendment submitted by Ald. Arthur G. Lindell and accepted by the council remedied this to an extent. It would permit erection of frame dwellings in neighborhoods where frames already exist, provided that the new dwellings are not closer than five feet to the property line.

Ald. Lindell and Thomas J. Terrell [29th] had completed the revision in time for presentation to the council yesterday. Just before the council convened, however, an attempt was made to have the revised chapter approved by the council committee on building and zoning before publication. Ald. Dorsey Crowe [42d], chairman of the committee, advocated the delay.

Mayor Kelly, however, declared that there already has been too much delay in approval of the code.

MAYO PHYSICIAN HITS FASCISM IN MEDICAL CONTROL

Calls Group Practice People's Need.

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Dr. Hugh Cabot of the Mayo clinic, one of the country's most prominent physicians, tonight characterized the claims of organized medicine to sole control of medical practice as "pure Fascism of the Italian type."

In an address before the Group Health association of Washington, the physician also questioned the propriety of the editor of the Journal of the American Medical association acting as spokesman for that society.

"One might assume," he said, "that the spokesman of this organization might be its president. This, however, is not true. The spokesman of organized medicine is the editor of the Journal of the A. M. A., not elected by the house of delegates and, as far as I am aware, only moderately amenable to their wishes."

Favors Group Practice.

Dr. Cabot expressed disagreement with the standard objections of organized medicine against group practice in general, and prepayment group practice and coöperative group practice in particular.

"The American Medical association," he declared, "is on wholly sound ground so long as it insists that the physicians of this country are the only experts upon whom the country can depend for expert opinions.

"What organized medicine appears to be asking is that it shall, as a group, be given control of the changes to be made as time goes on in the methods of offering medical care to the American people. This is, of course, pure Fascism of the Italian type.

Called Political Group.

"This organization appears to me to have all the necessary attributes of a political organization. When we voice fear of the control of medical practice by politicians we should, I think, specify which kind of politicians we mean."

Dr. Cabot expressed himself as favoring group practice of medicine as the best means of bringing adequate medical care within the reach of the majority of people.

Modern scientific developments in medicine, he said, have made the general practitioner a thing of the past, for medicine today has become so highly specialized that no individual can master it. On the other hand, he pointed out, the average person does not have the means to avail himself of the services of specialists who are obliged to maintain expensive equipment.

NOBEL PRIZE WINNER DIES OF MENINGITIS; IMPRISONED BY NAZIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 4.—Karl von Ossietzky, Nobel peace prize winner, who spent more than four years in a Nazi concentration camp and prison for his pacifist activities, died today of meningitis in a Berlin hospital. He was 48 years old.

Ossietzky was awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1935 on Nov. 24, 1936, in Oslo, Norway, despite German protests. Thereafter Germany forbade her citizens to accept a Nobel peace prize and instituted instead the "German national prize" for science, literature, and art.

Ossietzky, a German officer in the world war, was sentenced in pre-Nazi days to eighteen months in prison when he published an article on the secret armaments of the "black reichswehr" and alleged that German war pilots were trained in Russia in violation of the Versailles treaty.

Matt Donahue, 46 years old, 951 Dickens street, was seriously injured last night when he stepped in front of a street car in the 2400 block in Lincoln avenue. Firemen extricated him by raising the front end of the car and took him to Alexian Brothers hospital.

ONE OLD, OTHER BLIND, THEY WED AND ARE HAPPY

Romance was born when John Smith met Laura McNally on the porch of a rooming house at 113 West Erie street.

He is an old man. She is an elderly woman and blind, and when she fumbled with the key to the front door John helped her. Then they sat down and chatted of the dreams of youth and of the contentment that had failed to come with the years.

"I think so often," said Laura, who is 69, "of the husband I buried and the two I divorced. Then there are my daughters, the two I never saw."

"And I," said John, who is 84, "also have much to think about. The two wives that died, and all my years of labor. Life is lonely."

That was six weeks ago. Yesterday they were married.

"John is so kind," she said, "and we are happy. With my blind pension and his old age pension we ought to get along."

P. J. HARDING, RETIRED CAPTAIN OF POLICE, DEAD

Patrick J. Harding, a retired police captain, who was in the service more than forty years, died last night in St. Francis hospital in Evanston. He was 73 years old. Relatives said he died of pneumonia that developed while he suffered from a gall bladder ailment.

Capt. Harding's last command before his retirement in 1936 was the Rogers Park station. For many years he was commander at the Shakespeare avenue station. He took part in many of the city's major crime investigations and was a leader in organizing police athletics on the north side.

Capt. Harding leaves a widow, Elizabeth, and a son and two daughters, Stoddard Harding, Mrs. Irene Killgallon, and Mrs. Mary Tourtelot.

BAILIF BATTLE BREAKS AGAIN AFTER A 'PEACE'

Warfare between the Municipal court judges and Bailif Albert J. Horan over the discharge of 28 deputy bailifs broke out anew yesterday—a few minutes after Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby had announced a peace settlement.

Horan dismissed the deputies before the primary election when he joined the Horner-Jarecki Democratic faction. The judges charged the bailifs were fired because they refused to help the Horner-Jarecki forces and ordered them reinstated.

Judge Sonsteby said yesterday that the deputies had all been put back on the pay roll and an agreement had been reached to pay them for the time they were off. Horan retorted that he had no intention of putting the men back on the pay roll. He refused to meet with the judges, but promised to meet with a committee in a few days to talk things over.

The payments are the same as those disbursed March 15. Last year the company paid $1 regular and $1 in extras, the latter amounting to 5 cents in March, 20 cents each in June and September, and 55 cents in December. Divco Twin Truck company directors announced abandonment of regular quarterly dividend payments in favor of an interim basis and announced omission of the second quarter dividend. The company paid 10 cents Jan. 4 and 30 cents during 1937.

The Thew Shovel company, which omitted its common dividend in the first quarter of this year after paying $2 last August and 50 cents in December, also passed a second quarter dividend but declared the usual preferred payment.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

Planting Under Way.

May 4, 1938.

FIELD work is now in full swing at THE TRIBUNE'S Du Page county farm. Drills and planters are clicking on every side. The burr oak leaves are about the size of a squirrel's ear. That is the signal for starting the corn planter. The planting of hybrid corn was started Tuesday morning.

Oats, planted about ten days ago, are sprouting. Under the farm's soil rejuvenating program, which has been in progress for several years, legumes have been seeded in with the seventy acres of oats sown this spring.

Thirty acres of the oats will be used as a nurse crop for a mixture of red clover and timothy sown at the rate of 20 pounds per acre. The mixture was made up of 10 per cent red clover and 90 per cent timothy seeds.

Red Clover Sown.

Straight red clover was sown in twenty-three acres of the oats. The clover was sown at the rate of twenty pounds an acre. Grimm alfalfa seed was sown at the rate of 20 pounds per acre in seventeen acres of the oats.

In addition to the 70 acres of oats sown in the regular fields, three acres of a Swedish type of oats were sown in experimental Field C. These oats were sown at the rate of two bushels per acre.

Gardeners at the farm have just put in their second planting of vegetables. The first plantings made about a month ago are big enough to cultivate. Vegetables planted this week include peas, onions [sets and seeds], radishes, spinach, lettuce, carrots, parsley, and lima beans.

Lilacs Are Protection.

The lima beans, as well as tomato plants, set out this week are protected by lilac bushes. The head gardener realizes that he is taking a chance by setting tomato plants out in the open garden this early. He is prepared to protect the plants from light frosts which may occur any time between now and May 20. Thermometers and weather reports will be watched and when the temperature is expected to go down to the freezing point heaters will be started.

The gardeners use an oil burning heater which will be kept going when there is danger of frost. They have been successful in keeping the air around plants warm enough to prevent frost where the temperature has dropped to as low as 30 degrees above zero. Frost forms at 32 degrees above zero. The heaters were used successfully in protecting dahlia blossoms against frost damage last fall.

All of the vegetables planted about the first of April will withstand fairly low temperatures. Vegetables put out in the open garden this week likely will be safe, excepting the lima beans and tomatoes which are generally recognized as tender crops.

The gardeners will continue to plant small amounts of peas each week until near the end of May. This will give a succession of peas to pick for table use during early and midsummer. The farm's gardeners say that peas like cool weather and they follow the practice of planting them before May 20.

FEWER NEW CARS REGISTERED IN COUNTY IN APRIL

Chevrolet First in Sales, with Ford Second.

New car registrations in Cook county during April declined slightly from the March total and were 46 per cent below those of April, 1937, the Bureau of Motor Advice reported yesterday. The April total was 7,283, compared with 7,311 in March and 13,512 in April, 1937.

Registrations in the first four months of this year totaled 26,053, compared with 48,612 in the same period of last year. In 1937 April registrations showed an increase over March.

Plymouth in Third Place.

Chevrolet retained its position in first place for the second month, with Ford, Plymouth, and Buick still in second, third, and fourth places, respectively. Chevrolet sales for April totaled 1,283 against 1,502 in March and 2,289 in April, 1937.

Ford sales totaled 1,129 units in April against 1,163 in March and 2,908 in April, 1937. Sales of Plymouths numbered 1,043 in April, showing a gain over sales of 903 in March and over last year's April sales of 971 units.

Pontiac displaced Dodge in fifth place, and both Chrysler and Cadillac-La Salle sales moved ahead of Nash-Lafayette sales, Chrysler taking tenth place and Cadillac-La Salle passing both Nash-Lafayette and Studebaker to take eleventh rank.

Consolidated Edison.

Answer: The Consolidated Edison company of New York, one of the largest public utility enterprises in the world, does the major portion of the gas and electric light and power business of New York City and a large steam business in the borough of Manhattan. Electricity contributes approximately three-fourths of its total revenues.

Electricity is generated in ten steam-electric plants having an aggregate capacity of about 2,376,000 kilowatts. An interconnection of 150,000 kilowatt capacity also is maintained with the New York Power and Light corporation, a subsidiary of Niagara Hudson Power corporation.

Gas plants of the company have a manufacturing capacity of about 237,710,000 cubic feet per day. The capacity of the company's gas holders is 167,608,000 cubic feet. Approximately 3,750 miles of mains are included in the distribution system. The subsidiary New York Steam corporation has four plants with a generating capacity of 4,845,000 pounds of steam an hour.

Consolidated Edison is one of the comparatively few corporations reporting increased earnings so far this year, the net income for the March quarter rising to $15,417,643, or $1.10 a common share, from $14,443,355, or $1.03 a share, in the first three months of 1937. In past years revenues have remained surprisingly steady, but profits have fluctuated because of changes in costs of doing business. The record of earnings in recent years:

1937	$235,172,238	$35,573,918	$2.17
1936	234,825,191	37,299,152	2.33
1935	232,294,876	33,528,060	2.01
1934	227,503,440	35,480,885	2.18
1933	222,935,354	48,553,611	3.32
1929	230,907,307	65,465,462	4.81

The corporation had 2,181,916 shares of no par $5 preferred stock and 11,471,527 shares of no par common stock outstanding at the end of 1937. The common pays $2 a year. Funded debt of the parent company is about $267,850,000, and funded debt of subsidiaries about $162,908,500. The company recently sold $60,000,000 of 3½ per cent debentures.

The company has been feeling the increased burden of taxation and has made several rate reductions in recent years. Despite these unfavorable factors earning power has been large enough to warrant a rather high rating of the company's fixed income obligations and a fairly good rating for the preferred and common stock.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Hog prices rallied moderately yesterday from the four year May lows of the preceding session. The average moved up 5 cents to $8.00. Some butchers exceeding 250 pounds showed gains of 10 cents. Most light and medium weight hogs were sold about steady.

Trends were downward in most other branches of the live stock markets. Many grades of steers and yearlings sold at the lowest levels in recent weeks and 50 cents or more under last week's close. Declines from Tuesday ranged mostly from 10 to 25 cents.

Lambs met fairly active demand, but prices were steady to 10 cents lower.

LUXURIOUS NEW TRAINS WILL BID FOR TRAFIC EAST

Chicago-N. Y. Runs to Stress Comfort.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
(Drawings on back page.)

Unable to match the speed of airplanes between Chicago and New York, the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads hope to recapture some of their old business and to gain new patronage with the luxurious sixteen hour trains which they will put into service between the two cities June 15.

Streamlined from the nose of the engine to the tip of the observation cars, the Twentieth Century Limited of the New York Central and the Broadway Limited of the Pennsylvania will offer new comforts in conjunction with a reduction of half an hour from the present running time as inducements to travel by railroad.

Hope to Match Western Roads.

The two eastern railroads are hopeful of matching the success of the western roads, such as the Burlington with the Zephyr trains, the Santa Fe with its Superchiefs and Chiefs, the North Western-Union Pacific with its "City" streamliners, and the Milwaukee with the Hiawathas. Most of these trains have been notable money makers.

The Twentieth Century now carries an average of about eighty passengers a day in each direction between Chicago and New York, a total of more than 58,000 a year. The Broadway does not carry as many as the Century. However, between them the two limited trains are expected to have gross revenues substantially in excess of $3,000,000 a year. This is based on an average fare, including Pullman and surcharge, of $45 per passenger.

Offer New Comforts.

The streamlined cars which will be used in the two trains will have new comforts for the passengers. The Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, which is building the cars in its Chicago shop, has given twelve roomette and compartment sleepers to the New York Central for road tests between Elkhart, Ind., and Toledo, O., and the Pennsylvania has taken delivery of nineteen cars of these types. The New York Central cars yesterday were given brake tests.

The diners, observation cars, and baggage cars for the trains are nearing completion in the Pullman shops. Each road will have fifty-two streamlined cars. The Pennsylvania will streamline four of its trains with the new equipment, the Broadway and General between Chicago and New York, the Liberty between Chicago and Washington, and the Spirit of St. Louis between St. Louis and New York. The New York Central will use all its cars in four sections of the Twentieth Century Limited.

No Open Sections.

There will be no open sections in either the Broadway or the Twentieth Century, the equipment consisting of roomettes, double bedrooms, new type compartments, double bedrooms, new drawing rooms and master rooms. Master rooms are entirely new in railroad service. The Broadway also will carry duplex cars, with single rooms on two levels.

All mattresses and cushions in the new sleepers will be of a rubber composition to take out any bump that might get past the heavy springs in the trucks. The floors are being finished in cork over the steel frame which, together with the carpet, will increase resilience.

The various rooms in the different cars will be finished in different color schemes to give variety to the interior appearance.

STEEL ORDERS DECREASE AND OUTPUT FALLS

With orders and inquiries barely holding at recent levels or actually declining, no reversal of the downward trend in pig iron and steel ingot production is in sight, Iron Age said yesterday. Ingot production is estimated at 30½ per cent this week, compared with 32 per cent last week.

Consumption of pig iron showed a decrease of 2.1 per cent on a daily basis in April, the trade publication said, and a further drop is indicated for May. Only 79 blast furnaces were operating May 1, compared with 90 on April 1. April output was 1,376,141 gross tons, compared with 1,452,487 in March.

Iron Age said steel operations are fairly steady in the Pittsburgh and Chicago districts, and up slightly in the Youngstown and southern Ohio districts. Schedules in Wheeling-Weirton are down to 59 per cent of capacity, Cleveland 21 per cent, and Buffalo 26½ per cent.

Scrap prices continue to decline, the Iron Age composite dipping to $11.75 a ton, lowest since 1935.

Seek to Obtain Insurance Funds to Aid Building

Gov. Horner was asked by the city council yesterday to include in the call for a special session of the legislature a proposal for amending the state law to enable insurance companies to invest a share of their assets in private housing enterprises. Purchase of land and construction of buildings is not possible under existing Illinois insurance law, it was explained. The resolution was introduced in the council by Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], who said that the amendment would release millions of dollars of private capital to aid building activity.

SEC Accused of Attempting Whitney Hush

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—The Securities and Exchange commission's hearing here today on Richard Whitney's failure produced a charge—and a vigorous denial—that a member of the commission rushed here from Washington to save Whitney March 8, a few hours before his brokerage firm crashed. John W. Hanes, SEC commissioner, took the witness stand to deny the charge.

John W. Hanes.

The unexpected turn was given the investigation by L. Randolph Mason, who was Whitney's attorney at the time of the failure. The hearing was adjourned subject to call after Hanes gave his testimony.

Mason said that he had breakfast March 8 with Roland L. Redmond, New York Stock exchange counsel; Francis B. Bartow of J. P. Morgan & Co., and E. S. Sunderland, another lawyer.

Tells of Discussion.

"Mr. Redmond said the situation should not be allowed to break, and that an SEC commissioner was in New York with the idea that the firm should be continued in business until an orderly liquidation could be effected," Mason testified.

"Bartow and Sunderland said bankruptcy should be proceeded with."

"Did any one refer to conferences with any one at the SEC?" demanded Gerhard Gesell, the SEC counsel.

Mason replied that Redmond said Commissioner Hanes was in the city that day.

"My recollection is that Redmond said Hanes said the thing should not be allowed to break," he added.

Asks What Worried SEC.

"Was it said that the concern of the SEC was in respect to the possible amount of the public loss?" Gesell asked.

"So far as I know, nothing was said of public loss," Mason replied.

Commissioner Hanes was in the hearing room while Mason testified, and he was called to the stand.

"What are the facts?" Gesell asked him.

"Our first and principal concern was the extent of the public participation in the failure of Richard Whitney & Co.," Commissioner Hanes answered. "We were unable to find out the public participation.

Found Confusion, Says Hanes.

"I came to New York to get more facts and found the confusion was just as great here as in Washington the night before. I could not find out the extent of the public loss.

"Our chief interest was to protect the public, and beyond that none. The failure was announced fifteen minutes after I arrived at the stock exchange."

"Was any suggestion made of delaying the charges against Mr. Whitney or of continuing the firm?" asked Gesell.

"Absolutely none," Hanes answered.

As Dean Acheson, attorney for the stock exchange, indicated no desire to examine the witness, he stepped down, and Examiner Samuel O. Clark adjourned the hearing.

Aircraft Output in U. S. Is 40 Pct. Above Year Ago

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Production of aircraft in the United States in the first quarter of 1938 was approximately 40 per cent greater than in the same period of 1937, the bureau of air commerce reported today. The bureau said aircraft manufactured in the United States during the period was 798 units, while for the same period last year it was 571.

PROBLEM OF FROZEN CREDITS IN MEXICO IS REPORTED ACUTE

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, May 4.—The problem of frozen commercial credits in Mexico has become acute, it was learned today when authoritative sources revealed Mexicans were not meeting about $7,000,000 currently due for payment of machinery and other imported articles. Over a period of a year frozen credits have accumulated to the extent of about $25,000,000 to $30,000,000, with United States shippers as the largest creditors.

No rent has been paid on 2,500 American-owned railroad cars shipped into Mexico with merchandise since October, the debt on this now standing at about $750,000. It is reported that the American association of railroads is considering withdrawing these cars.

Shippers are refusing to release to the government 1,500 machine guns and 1,500,000 rounds of ammunition, now at Vera Cruz. The shipment came from Northern Europe, consigned to the Mexican government. It is reported, without confirmation, that the government intended to give these arms to the workers' militia.

KEMMERER ASKS READOPTION OF GOLD STANDARD

New York, May 4.—(AP)—Edwin W. Kemmerer, Princeton university economist, addressing a meeting of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, today urged an international return to the gold standard.

Kemmerer, who has been monetary adviser to South American nations, also said he favored a managed currency controled by central banks, but a currency any portion of which was convertible at any time by the holder into bar gold.

"The greatest danger of currency management is political exploitation to meet the fiscal needs of the state," he said. "Currency management, therefore, must not be a political management by government officials. Furthermore, it should not be a management by private banking institutions dominated by the desire for profit."

The central bank, he said, should be the exclusive holder of the gold reserve and sole issuer of the nation's paper money.

Stocks Rally, Led by Gold Mine Shares

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—The stock market made further progress today when a late flurry of buying converted losses ranging up to 1 point to gains of the same amount. However, some issues lagged so that at the close 127 stocks showed losses and 350 advances.

Trading, which was light most of the session, perked up on the upturn, and volume reached 550,600 shares, against 472,470 shares on Tuesday.

Gold mining stocks were among the first to show signs of life, the group advancing fractions to three points on demand reputedly based on expectation of devaluation of the French franc. Announcement of devaluation after the close of the exchange led to discussion of its possible effect on the dollar. Homestake and McIntyre Porcupine were leaders, each adding 3 points.

Aviation Shares Prominent.

Aviation issues again were prominent. Douglas, Curtiss-Wright A, Glenn Martin, and United Aircraft made frequent appearances on the tape to add fractions to 1⅛ points after bogging down in the morning.

Coppers came back to close strong. Anaconda and International Nickel were popular trading mediums and advanced substantial fractions. American Smelting added 1⅛ points and Kennecott not quite 1 point. Steels closed fractionally higher, with U. S. Steel common and Bethlehem each up ¾. Chrysler, up 1, and General Motors, up a fraction, were active auto stocks, with others steady.

Oils in Good Demand.

Oils also came in for some good demand and registered gains ranging from fractions to 2 points. The largest gain was made by Standard of New Jersey. Carriers were irregular in small trading. Public utilities were firm. The majority of active issues edged fractionally higher.

The market value of all listed stocks on the exchange was $35,864,767,775 on May 1, compared with $31,858,461,871 on April 1 and $57,962,789,210 on May 1 a year ago, the exchange announced today.

The average market price of listed shares was $25.15 on May 1, against $22.32 on April 1, and $41.80 on May 1, 1937.

EDISON TO FILE BIG REFINANCING PROPOSAL SOON

$33,000,000 of New Bonds Slated.

The Commonwealth Edison company will soon undertake a major refinancing operation, it was learned yesterday. The company is expected to file registration statements next week for $33,000,000 of first mortgage bonds, proceeds of which will be used to retire $30,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds which mature in 1953 and 1954.

The company is also expected to file a registration covering an issue of convertible debentures, the amount of which has not been determined. Final decision on the plans is expected to be made by directors at their meeting Monday morning.

Stockholders to Meet.

A special meeting of stockholders has been called for May 20 to authorize the new mortgage bonds. Stockholders previously had authorized the directors to issue up to $130,000,000 of convertible debentures as part of the financial reorganization put into effect last year. Only a part of the debentures which the company is authorized to issue will be registered next week, it is understood.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., will head the syndicate marketing the new mortgage bonds.

The financing will be the largest undertaken by the company since the refunding carried out shortly after the present management took over control in 1932.

The issues to be called for redemption consist of $15,000,000 first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, series A, due 1953, and $15,000,000 of 5 per cent first mortgage bonds, series B, due in 1954. Both issues are callable at any time on forty days' notice.

Coupon Rate Undecided.

With stockholders scheduled to act May 20 on the proposed new issues, the company will have time to issue notice for redemption on July 1 of the old issues.

The coupon rate on the new issue of mortgage bonds has not been decided upon, but is expected to represent a considerable saving over the issues to be redeemed.

The refinancing is the final step in the comprehensive program of capital reorganization begun by Chairman James Simpson in 1936. The financial union of the company and its affiliates, including Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, has been virtually completed.

Here Is a Jap Shirt Tale; Cut It Off Where You Like

LONDON, May 4.—[Special.]—The house of commons was informed today that Japanese traders are evading quota restrictions on cotton piece goods shipments to the Malay states by sending in cotton shirts with extra long tails. The shirts pass as one garment and the tails may then be cut off and used as piece goods.

Liberalized Rules on Banks' Investments Urged by Brown

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Liberalization of regulations governing the security investments of national banks was urged today by Edward Eagle Brown, president of the First National Bank of Chicago.

Edward E. Brown.

Addressing a divisional meeting at the convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Brown said present regulations prevent banks from investing funds in many sound bonds, particularly issues of smaller corporations. All except the large corporations of exceptional credit standing are prevented from raising capital through the sale of marketable securities to banks, he asserted.

Based on Acts of 1933 and 1935.

Under the banking acts of 1933 and 1935, Brown recalled, the controler of currency was given authority to lay down restrictions on the purchase of investment securities by banks. Under this power the controler has been able to define investment securities eligible for bank purchase.

The regulations made, Brown said, have severely limited the types of securities banks can buy.

"The purpose of the controler," he said, "has been to restrict banks to only the higher grades and less risky types of bonds; and the regulations prohibit the purchase of convertible bonds, no matter how sound or marketable, and indicate the bonds purchased must be rated above a certain average by the recognized rating manual."

Smaller Corporations Affected.

The bonds of many smaller corporations, Brown said, are either not listed by the rating manuals or are given a low rating. The bank desiring to make a loan to such a corporation may know more about its affairs than the compilers of the rating manual, but they are prevented from exercising their own judgment on the question.

"If the regulations were liberalized," Brown said, "it should be possible for the controler or other examining authority to prevent a bank from investing a dangerous amount of its assets in low grade bonds without preventing a great majority of bankers from assuming a perfectly reasonable and proper banking risk by purchasing and carrying a reasonable amount of nonrated or less highly rated securities."

Says Examiners Were Harsh.

Bank examiners were excessively harsh in their appraisals of bank credits from 1931 to 1935, Brown said.

"This has been largely corrected," he added, "but the money of compulsory, and as subsequent events proved, often unjustified charge-offs, still tend, particularly in small banks, to make many bankers overcautious."

One of the unexpected results of the passage of the securities exchange act was the development, Brown said, of the new type serial capital loan which banks are now making to corporations.

How Loans Are Handled.

A single bank or a group of banks may advance a capital loan to a corporation of high credit standing, the loan maturing in annual instalments in 1 to 5 years, he said.

"Today," he added, "even after the securities exchange has been amended and regulations simplified, borrowers, particularly smaller and medium sized ones, find such loans much cheaper and more convenient than going through the process of registration and selling bonds or debentures to the public."

The experience of banks with this new type loans has been satisfactory and a further growth in the business is likely, he said.

Jones Warns Bankers.

Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation warned bankers that unless they are "wiser and more energetic" in meeting business credit needs, banking may not remain in private hands.

Asserting banks have not kept pace of changing requirements, he placed part of the blame on "bank supervision," saying the supervising authorities have been operating largely as they always have operated, without "recognizing the necessity for longer time bank credit of a different character." This, he said, has "discouraged the banks."

INSURANCE AGENTS' LEADER URGES DRIVE FOR SAFE HIGHWAYS

Hot Springs, Ark., May 4.—[Special.]—The National Association of Life Insurance Agents, opening its annual session here today, was called upon by its president, Charles F. Lipscomb of Duluth, Minn., to "disabuse the public mind of the thought that insurance of any kind is the answer to the highway safety problem."

The real corrective, he said, is the "use of the present enormous gasoline tax" to make highways safer through first class construction, and a tightening up of automobile license requirements and regulations governing license suspension.

PHONES IN USE SET NEW PEAK; TOTAL 15,460,000

The American Telephone and Telegraph company reported yesterday that telephones in use in the United States increased to an all time record of 15,460,000 during April.

The New York Telephone company, largest of the Bell system units, announced a gain of 3,513 telephones for April, compared with 14,943 a year ago. Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania reported a gain of 1,228 stations, against an increase of 7,595 in April last year. The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company had a net gain of 1,474 phones in April, against 2,272 in April a year ago.

Illinois Bell Telephone proved an exception to the general gain, telephones of the company declining 1,008 during the month.

FRENCH DEVALUE TO BOOST TRADE, AID ARMAMENTS

Franc Peg Expected to Be 2.86 Cents.

PARIS, May 4. — (AP) — Premier Edouard Daladier notified the nation tonight that the French franc would be stabilized tomorrow at a rate which would be "effectively defended." The premier delayed telling the country what the new rate of the franc would be until the level is fixed tomorrow in the third devaluation since the world war.

Premier Daladier.

In today's Paris foreign exchange dealings the franc fluctuated around a level little less than 3 United States cents, opening at 33.15 to the dollar and closing at 33.93. Financial quarters were inclined to believe the new rate of the franc would be about 35 to the dollar, or 2.86 cents.

25 Billion Franc Profit.

Present gold holdings of the Bank of France are being carried on the books at 22.96 francs to the dollar. Revaluation at about the existing market rate would give the government a paper profit of some 25 billion francs.

When he announced the new monetary move in a radio broadcast tonight, Daladier said it was taken in full accord with the governments of the United States and Great Britain who joined with France in the tripartite monetary agreement of Sept. 25, 1936, for currency stabilization.

He promised "no new variations in our money, no new expenditures, no new burdens," and announced that a "coming national defense loan will give to all Frenchmen the opportunity, in full conscience, to take a plebiscite on their patriotism."

$450,000,000 Loan Expected.

The government is expected to ask for about 15 billion francs [about $450,000,000]. Some quarters said that the first call may be for 5,000,000,000 francs, leaving the remainder to be offered later.

"Today, as always, I want to tell the truth," Daladier declared. "The truth is that our economy is deeply shaken, that legitimate profit is tending to disappear, that unemployment is increasing in business, that our commercial balance is impoverishing us, and that our production statistics remain a humiliation for all Frenchmen."

He said stabilization of the franc was decided upon because of unemployment, an unfavorable trade bal-

New York Bonds.

New York, May 4.—(AP)—The bond market advanced today on overnight news that emergency legislation to facilitate government loans to needy railroads would be speeded. Also giving strength to the market was United States Steel's plan to offer $100,000,000 of bonds next month.

Although individual gains were not large—the biggest among the leaders ranging up to only 1 point or a fraction more—advances were widespread throughout the domestic list.

A sharp break in the French franc failed to upset French dollar bonds. The Hitler-Mussolini meeting had little effct on foreign bonds elsewhere, Germans 7s, Italian 7s, and Polish 8s gaining fractions, with numerous other central European government issues unchanged.

United States government loans were buoyant, with gains in treasury notes ranging up to 7-32ds of a point.

WHEAT REGAINS EARLY LOSS ON SHORT COVERING

Wheat futures prices held within a range of about 1 cent a bushel yesterday. They declined early as the result of selling induced by general rains over Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska, only to rally later on short covering. Closing trades were unchanged to ¼ cent higher. Other grains rallied after small declines early and closed at net fractional gains.

Foreign buyers of American cash wheat were said to have been impressed by the estimates issued Tuesday by Chicago statisticians indicating the second largest winter wheat crop on record. They were not inclined to purchase freely, expecting lower prices when the new grain starts to move in volume.

Liverpool wheat futures closed unchanged. Lack of export demand was said to be largely responsible for a decline of ½ to 1⅜ cents a bushel in the old crop deliveries in Winnipeg.

Export sales of a million or more bushels of American cash corn proved to be the dominating influence in that market.

Commodities

Commodity prices moved irregularly yesterday. A jump of 2 cents in the price of tin and gains in hides, copper, and coffee futures were offset by declines in rubber, cottonseed oil, and a few other staple articles.

Tin futures bids rose sharply on the advance in London based partly on unconfirmed reports that the Malayan pool referendum will be held soon. Nominal quotations on all deliveries were 2.05 cents higher and the spot price rose 2 cents to 36.87½ cents a pound.

Export demand for copper showed improvement and sales were the largest in several weeks. Prices ranged between 9.65 and 9.70 cents a pound, compared with the final price of 9.62½ cents on Tuesday. Copper futures closed 0.04 to 0.07 cent higher at New York.

Raw hides finished 0.11 to 0.12 cent higher in the futures market on sales of 3,240,000 pounds. Cash hide markets were quiet. The June future closed at 8.92 cents a pound, compared with 8.80 cents on Tuesday.

Rubber futures weakened after a two day advance to close 0.02 to 0.08 cent lower, with the May delivery closing at 11.50 cents a pound. The spot price for smoked ribbed rubber slipped from 11.55 cents on Tuesday to 11.48 cents a pound yesterday.

Cottonseed oil futures lost 0.02 to 0.05 cent a pound. Cocoa closed 0.03 cent higher to 0.01 cent lower. Raw silk futures gained a half cent to 2 cents a pound. Sugar futures were 0.01 cent lower to 0.01½ cent higher.

Coffee futures were strong, the Rio contracts closing 0.08 to 0.11 cent a pound higher, and the Santos deliveries finishing 0.03 to 0.10 cent above Tuesday's close.

The Dow-Jones commodity futures index closed 0.05 cent higher at 48.56, after declining 0.13 cent in the middle of the trading session. The Associated Press weighted index of 35 wholesale commodity prices, based on 1926 as 100, set another new low mark since July 9, 1934, at 66.45, compared with 66.51 on Tuesday.

EARNINGS OF 13 OIL FIRMS DIP IN FIRST QUARTER

Standard of California's Net Is $7,130,486.

The aggregate net income of thirteen oil companies which so far have reported for the first quarter of this year was $24,041,642, compared with $34,906,617 in the corresponding period last year, according to a compilation issued yesterday by Carl H. Pforzheimer & Co., New York.

The study showed that lower earnings resulted primarily from an unfavorable price structure for refined products brought about by somewhat excessive inventories rather than from any material decline in demand.

"For the first time in almost five years earnings of the petroleum industry in the first quarter of 1938 were lower than in the corresponding period of the preceding year," the report said.

Standard Oil of California.

In line with the trend shown in the compilation was yesterday's report of the Standard Oil company of California. The company and its domestic subsidiaries had first quarter net profit of $7,130,486, equivalent to 55 cents each on 13,014,753 shares outstanding. Net profit in the first quarter of 1937 was $7,889,489, or 60 cents a share.

Other companies, including Crown Cork and Seal, Compressed Industrial Gases, Inc., and L. C. Smith and Corona Typewriters, Inc., also reported lower first quarter earnings as compared with the corresponding 1937 period. New York Shipbuilding corporation showed a loss compared with a profit a year earlier.

Crown Cork and Seal reported that its first quarter net profit was $547,288, after interest, depreciation, and other charges, equal to 81 cents a share, against $549,754 the first quarter of 1937, equal to 82 cents a common share.

Compressed Gases Earns $8,146.

Compressed Industrial Gases had a net income of $8,146, including profit derived from the company's partly owned subsidiaries, against a net income of $143,796 in the first quarter of last year.

The New York Shipbuilding corporation had a loss of $90,850 after interest, depreciation, and expenses, compared with a net income of $2,498 in the first quarter of last year.

Poor & Co., Chicago, railroad supply manufacturer, for the twelve months ended March 31 had a net profit of $232,000 after interest, depreciation and other charges, equal to 45 cents a share on the class A stock, against $869,000 for the twelve months ended March 31, 1937, equal to $5.43 a share on the class A stock. The company estimated that the billing value of unshipped business on March 31, 1938, was about 36 per cent that of a year ago.

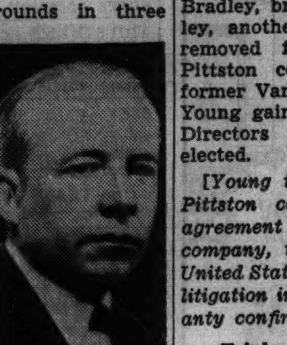
Robert R. Young Wins Five Tilts in Battle for C. & O.



R. R. Young.

New York, May 4.—(AP)—Robert R. Young won five rounds in three cities today in his fight against Wall street banking interests for control of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway.

Young said he was having accountants familiar with the Erie railroad accounting system go over reports correlated and summarized at his [Young's] request by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland banker and economist, relating to the Erie's financial crisis. Young told friends:

"The ramifications may lead into many crannies."

Wins Nickel Plate Control.

Young's victories today, his friends said, were:

In Cleveland John P. Murphy, an opponent, was removed from the directorate of the Nickel Plate, now controled by the C. & O. road. Election of friends assured control for Young and his allies.

In Dunmore, Pa., Murphy and Alva Bradley, brother of Charles L. Bradley, another Young opponent, were removed from the directorate of Pittston company, coal affiliate of former Van Sweringen system which Young gained control of a year ago. Directors friendly to Young were elected.

[Young told his friends that the Pittston company's action was by agreement with the Guaranty Trust company, third largest bank in the United States, defendant in the federal litigation instituted by Young. Guaranty confirmed the agreement.]

Triple Victory in Baltimore.

In Baltimore there were three developments: [1] The regular meeting of Chesapeake corporation was postponed ten days [Young's allies say time works on his side]. [2] Agreement was announced for further postponement from day to day of a special meeting of Chesapeake corporation, the calling of which by Murphy and Bradley precipitated the present litigation in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here, pending the court's decision. [3] Young consolidated control of Alleghany corporation, top holding company in the system, with the replacement of Bradley and two others by directors friendly to Young.

CHICAGO WARES TO BE FEATURED BY 1,000 STORES

Manufactured wares from Chicago's 8,000 factories will be featured in special window and counter displays next week by more than 1,000 stores participating in Chicago Products week, sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce. Lawrence H. Whiting, vice president of the association, said yesterday that the displays will include 368 distinct classes of fabricated products.

"Chicago today produces more than four billion dollars' worth of manufactured products annually," Whiting said. "Just a hundred years ago this month a newspaper pointed with pride to the fact that Chicago had 50 business houses which did a total volume annually of one million dollars. This community needs to think about its resources and move out of its doubts."

Whiting said that the State street stores will take prominent parts in the week's celebration.

POWER OUTPUT RECEDES AGAIN IN LAST WEEK

Production of electricity in the United States receded further last week and made an even more unfavorable comparison with a year ago, according to figures made public by the Edison Electric institute yesterday.

Output totaled 1,938,660,000 kilowatt hours in the week ended April 30, a decline of 11.6 per cent from production of 2,193,779,000 kilowatt hours in the corresponding week of last year.

The Commonwealth Edison company group reported production of 119,314,000 kilowatt hours in the week ended April 30, a decrease of 10.7 per cent, or less than the national average, from the 132,267,000 kilowatt hour output in the corresponding week of last year.

GENERAL FOODS STOCK OFFERING QUICKLY TAKEN

The 150,000 shares of $4.50 cumulative preferred stock of the General Foods corporation offered publicly yesterday were reported to have been quickly oversubscribed. The stock was quoted at more than 3 points above the offering price before the subscription books were formally opened.

The issue was offered through a nation-wide banking syndicate headed by Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Lehman Brothers.

A block of 8,000 shares of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., stock which was offered publicly yesterday by Blyth & Co. and Stifel, Nicilaus & Co. was reported to have been sold entirely.

Furniture.

Although industries of a more spectacular nature may receive greater public attention, the manufacturing and distribution of furniture is one of the really big businesses of the United States. Reliable estimates place the output of furniture last year at $525,000,000, compared with $200,000,000 in 1932, and $660,000,000 in 1929.

Americans still use many times more wood furniture than any other kind despite the rapid progress in making metal or fiber varieties. Wood furniture last year accounted for 89 per cent of total output, compared with 10 per cent for metal furniture and less than 1 per cent for fiber furniture.

The 1937 output included approximately $220,000,000 worth of living room and library furniture, $130,000,000 of bedroom furniture, and $63,000,000 of dining room furniture. The output of bedroom and dining room furniture showed greater gains over 1936 volumes than did other varieties.

Purcell L. Smith, president of the Middle West corporation, was elected a director of the Continental Casualty company yesterday to fill a vacancy on the board. The company said the selection of Smith is in line with its policy of adding to the board successful men whose activities keep them in close touch with western business conditions. Chairman H. A. Behrens said the increasing importance of public utility investments in insurance company portfolios make Smith's election "most appropriate."

GOOD WEATHER AIDS PROGRESS OF GRAIN CROPS

Winter Wheat Reported Good to Excellent.

Favorable weather conditions in the last week resulted in grain crops making favorable progress, according to the weekly summary issued by the weather bureau yesterday. In most northern and central areas the condition of winter wheat ranges from good to excellent. Some slight red rust damage was reported in western and central Oklahoma. Wheat is heading in the extreme south and jointing now extends well into the central part of the belt.

Good rains and high temperatures resulted in spring sown grains making rapid growth. Spring wheat was reported several inches high in Minnesota. Harvesting of winter wheat in Kansas is likely to begin ten days to two weeks earlier than usual, the report said.

Plant Corn in North.

Planting of corn has started as far north as southwestern Minnesota, but farmers there generally are inclined to delay planting until there is less likelihood of frost. Cultivation has started in parts of Oklahoma. Rye and barley are heading in the extreme south. Pastures and ranges improved in the north. Oats crop made satisfactory progress in most areas.

Good rains were received in practically all parts of the grain belt during the week ended May 3, but more is needed in parts of Illinois and Indiana. Precipitation from April 1 to May 3, as shown by the weather bureau records, is well above normal in the sections which suffered severely from drouth last year, the increase being most marked in western North and South Dakota.

TEN INVESTMENT TRUSTS INVOLVED IN STRIPPING QUIZ

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—Investigations into suspected "stripping" of investment trusts which got under way several weeks ago have involved "at least ten" such funds to date, it was learned today from an investigator.

The examinations are being conducted simultaneously by the Securities and Exchange commission, State Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr., District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, and the stock and curb exchanges.

Among the investment trusts known to be under scrutiny are Continental Securities corporation, Reynolds Investing, Burco, Inc., and Insuranshares of Delaware.

The probes were undertaken following an SEC inquiry into Continental Securities and gained momentum when trading in Burco shares was suspended by the curb exchange April 19. The trustee of Continental Securities, which now is in receivership, has charged that the firm was looted of $3,000,000.

COTTON

Cotton prices held within narrow limits yesterday in light trade. Firmness in Liverpool and short covering caused a small advance early, but the upturn was short lived. Selling induced by a bearish view on the weather bureau weekly crop summary erased most gains. The close was at the day's low point. Closing prices on the Chicago Board of Trade were .04 cent lower to .03 cent higher, and other American markets were unchanged to .05 cent a pound lower.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .05 cent lower, with New Orleans, 8.80 cents; New York, 8.65 cents, and Galveston and Houston, 8.45 cents a pound. Prices follow:

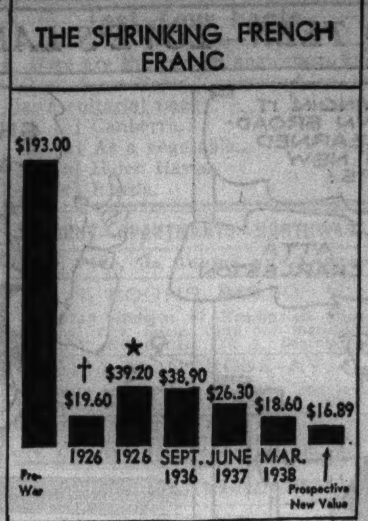
THE SHRINKING FRENCH FRANC



The diagram shows the value of 1,000 French francs in terms of the old gold dollar, from the pre-war basis of 19.3 cents a franc to the expected new devalued price of 2.86 cents in terms of the 59.6 cent dollar, or $1.689 in terms of the old gold dollar.

FRANC DECLINES TO ONE-TENTH OF VALUE IN 1914

Standard of Living Is Much Lower.

The value of the Frenchman's unit of currency, the franc, has been reduced by the French government's most recent devaluation to less than one-tenth of its value prior to the world war, measured in terms of its gold content.

One of the charts traces the downward trend of the franc. In order that the comparison may be properly made with a yardstick of unchanging length the chart uses the old American dollar. Because the dollar itself was debased slightly more than 40 per cent in 1934 a comparison of the present franc in terms of the present dollar would not show the full extent of the French devaluation in the last twenty years.

Price About 2.88 Cents.

The franc now is worth about 2.88 cents in terms of the present American dollar but is worth only about 1.70 cents in terms of the old American dollar. Under the new French devaluation the franc is expected to be pegged at 2.86 cents, equal to 1.69 cents in terms of the United States dollar before it was devalued.

This governmental tinkering with the value of the French currency—made necessary by political extravagance which has resulted in vast annual budget deficits—has gradually reduced the Frenchman's standard of living. According to official figures the average wholesale price of commodities in France at the beginning of this year was 601 per cent of the average in July, 1914, just before the beginning of the world war.

RISING FRENCH PRICES

Big Difference Since 1914.

This means that the Frenchman's money now buys less than one sixth as much goods as it bought in 1914. A further increase in prices may be expected as a result of the latest devaluation.

The other chart shows how the cost of living has risen since France abandoned the gold standard in September, 1936. It traces the average of commodity prices in France as officially computed by government statisticians and shows how the purchasing power of the franc has declined as value of the franc in terms of gold has been reduced.

California Rail Service to Be Resumed May 22

ance, and the increasing danger of war. Informed sources said one of the first uses would be in an attempt to double France's 1,400 first line fighting planes within two years.

The government today ordered execution of a new plan of speeded-up war plane construction, but full details were withheld. The air ministry was said to be interested in technical studies of foreign, particularly American, aviation equipment which might be consolidated in France's fighting service.

U. S. and Britain Coöperate.

Premier Daladier announced the new monetary step after an emergency cabinet meeting and consultations with Washington and London on what officials described as amendment of the 1936 agreement for stabilization of French, British, and United States currencies.

In his speech he expressed appreciation of the "cordial and loyal" coöperation of the British and American governments.

"The French government is in full accord with the American and British governments," he explained. "This decision was taken within the framework of the tripartite accord to which the French government remains firmly attached."

The first devaluation of the French franc came June 24, 1928, when it was reduced officially from a value of 19.3 cents to about 4 cents. The second devaluation, on Oct. 1, 1936, set the franc's range at from 20.15 to 22.96 to the dollar, which itself on Jan. 31, 1934, had been set at about 59.06 cents in comparison with the former unit.

Pact Survives Severe Test.

Washington, D. C., May 4.—(AP)—The American-British-French pact to stabilize currencies was still in existence tonight, but treasury officials indicated it survived only after a severe test.

To a question whether the agreement was imperiled by the French program of franc devaluation, Secretary Morganthau smiled and said, "The French had a lot of things to talk to us about."

Details of the French program were not made public, but experienced financial observers expressed the opinion they differed from original French proposals. Morganthau admitted it took three days for Paris to get consent of the British and American treasuries for its program.

Kept Up Much of Night.

French Ambassador Rene de Saint-Quentin told of trans-Atlantic telephone conversations which kept both Morgenthau and himself up much of last night.

Morgenthau said the agreement was reached this afternoon just half an hour before French Premier Daladier was scheduled to begin a radio address explaining his program.

Rumors that the French proposed partial regulation of the flow of capital in and out of France in addition to devaluation may explain, informed sources said, what caused the negotiations to drag out for three days.

FALLS TO 2.885 CENTS.

The franc fell below 3 cents on exchange transactions in New York yesterday for the first time since the Poincare stabilization of 1926-'28. It closed at 2.885 cents, a net loss of 0.135 cent from Tuesday. The French stabilization fund was reported by dealers to be operating sporadically during the day in an effort to cushion the decline of the franc.

DISTANT BUTTER, AND EGG FUTURES PRICES ADVANCE

The distant egg and butter futures recovered part of Tuesday's losses yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, but storage packed eggs for May delivery lost ¼ cent more to close at 20⅜ cents a dozen. October refrigerator standards were ¼ cent higher at 21⅞ cents.

The November storage butter contract was ⅛ cent higher on buying induced mainly by continuation of federal purchases of the higher grades. The Federal Surplus Commodity corporation bought 111,000 pounds in the Chicago market, including 19,200 pounds of standards.
